And Testatrix devised and bequeathed all the residue of her estate to her trustee upon trust, to divide same among such charitable institutions for the very poor and suffering, or other charitable or religious objects in England and Ireland as he might, in his absolute discretion, select.

In exercise of the power given to her by the testamentary dispositions of her late husband, Testatrix, by the ninth clause of her will, directed and declared that in addition to the payments mentioned by her said husband in the fourth codicil to his will, the sums thereinafter specified should also be paid free of duty out of his residuary trust estate to and for the charitable and religious institutions and objects thereinafter mentioned, and that the remainder (if any) of his residuary trust estate should be divided as thereinafter directed:—

And Testatrix declared that the receipt of the treasurer or other proper officer for the time being of the before-mentioned societies and institutions shall be a sufficient discharge for their respective legacies.

And, subject to the provisions of any Codicil hereinafter made by her, the Testatrix directed that the remainder (if any) of her said husband's residuary trust estate, after payment of the before-mentioned sums and the duties thereon, should, in default of and subject to any further directions contained in any Codicil thereto, be divided among the charities, institutions and persons mentioned in the ninth clause of her Will in proportion to the amounts of the sums hereinbefore directed to be paid to them respectively.

Testatrix made one Codicil to her Will which did not affect the foregoing charitable dispositions.

THE AMERICAN MARKETS

RAIL SHARES UNDER PRESSURE

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

NEW YORK, Thursday.

Some irregularity was apparent on the Stock Exchange to-day, and the trend was chiefly lower, with the recent nervous oscillations of some of the leading issues tending to create caution. Trading was again quite active, and sales totalled 2,160,000 shares. Rails came under pressure in the afternoon, but Oils displayed resistance and Copper issues strengthened. The market encountered profit-taking in the final dealings and closed easy.

There was no change to-day in the Federal Reserve Bank's re-discount rate.

Call money remained at ½ per cent., and the outside rate was unchanged at ¼ per cent. Prime paper was quoted at ¾ to 1 per cent. Open market discount rates were unaltered at 3/16 per cent. bid and ⅛ per cent. asked for ninety-day bank bills and ⅜ per cent. bid and 5/16 per cent. asked for six months' bills.

Sterling exchange opened unchanged at 4.92. The rate remained steady at this level throughout the session, but finally closed ½c. lower compared with the previous close at 4.91⅞.

Silver was unchanged at 65⅜c.

ATTENDANCE AT A DANCE

NURSES AND ATTENDANTS WHO REFUSED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

KILLARNEY, Thursday.

"I consider that the refusal of the attendants and nurses to comply with the instructions of the Resident Medical Superintendent indicates a most unsatisfactory attitude to their duties on the part of these officers. I will not allow any attendants or nurses to remain in the service of the committee who may show by their conduct any lack of interest in, or full consideration for, the affected patients of the hospital." So stated the Minister for Local Government in a letter to Killarney Mental Hospital Committee in connection with a report from Dr. O'Sullivan, R.M.S., that he had suspended seven nurses and five attendants for their refusal to attend the patients' fortnightly dance on Monday night last.

The R.M.S. said that those suspended were deputed to attend a dance on Monday last, and refused on the grounds that it was outside their working hours. As a result of a communication he had with the inspector he asked them to attend the dance under protest, and put their grievance before the committee, but they refused, and he suspended them. He did not want the administration of the hospital reduced to chaos, and he could not manage the hospital if indiscipline were to continue.

Senator O'Duffy, representative of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, who appeared before the meeting on behalf of the suspended members, said that an agreement existed between the committee and staff, under which the latter were to work a fifty-six hour week. A number of things from time to time tended to increase these hours, and the staff's attendance at the dance was outside their duty and an infringement of the agreement. They were not compelled to attend, but could do so voluntarily. The staff, he said, would agree to attend the dance voluntarily if they got extra leave in lieu of any hours worked over fifty-six.

After discussion a resolution was passed reinstating the suspended members, and ordering that a meeting of Senator O'Duffy and representatives of the staff on one side, and the R.M.S. and some members of the committee on the other, be held on Monday next for the purpose of forming a scheme so that the members of the staff would receive extra leave equal to overtime worked.

DIVIDENDS AND REPORTS

Cedar Investment Trust.—Payment on Ordinary shares of 3 per cent. for year, together with a bonus of 1 per cent., both less tax, making 4 per cent., against 2½ per cent.

Dickson and Mann (Steel Founders, Engineers, etc., Armadale)—The report for the year ended March 31st, 1935, states that the year's trading resulted in a loss (after providing for administration charges and interest) of £870, bringing the debit at profit and loss account up to £8,210. It is stated that depressed trade conditions prevailed during the first half of the year, and, although conditions were somewhat better during the second half, the improvement was not sufficient to counteract the adverse effect of the first half. The directors propose to write £1,412 off patents account and to reduce research account by £2,000, while £1,761 is to be written off note issue expenses, leaving £28,490 to go forward. For the previous year the gross profits and transfer fees amounted to £28,339, note issue expenses accounted for £569, bank interest and charges for £1,347, and note interest for £4,700, while £10,352 was placed to depreciation reserve. WOOL

BRADFORD.—Top market keeps fairly steady, with quotations on basis of 32 pence for sixty-fours warp. It is not easy to make that price, however, because users are generally well covered. Probably buyers would get concessions of half-penny. Crossbreds keep steady. Spinners are busier on Botany yarns, and prices are firm. Increasing activity in cross-breds.

FIRM MARKET IN AUSTRALIA.—Prices were very firm at the closing wool sale of the series held at Brisbane this week. Japan and Germany were the principal operators. Offerings totalled 12,019 bales.

FOOD AND PRODUCE MARKETS

Dublin—Cattle in heavier supply and cheaper, Sheep and Lambs improved on smaller numbers, Dairy Cattle slow and weaker, and Pigs satisfactory. York—Little change in trade or price for large show good Irish Stores. London—Grain cargoes dull and lower, Rubber dearer, rise in Tin, and Copper strong.

CATTLE.

DUBLIN (METROPOLITAN).

	Numbers on sale this week as compared with last	Corresponding weeks of 1933	1934
Beasts	4,172—increase 305	4,330	3,478
Sheep and lambs	6,719—decrease 939	7,295	7,250
Veal calves	23—increase 11	3	16

There was a much larger supply of cattle here this week, the increase making a total of 1,274 head on the past three weeks. Farmers and graziers, no doubt, are anxious to clear lands, and for this reason cattle are coming forward mostly in rough and unfinished condition. This week's gathering was of very ordinary or plain description, with a conspicuous scarcity of tip-top meated exhibits, especially bullocks. Trade opened with a lukewarm and fencing disposition on prices, in which buyers gained some further concession on previous lower terms, when, after an hour or so, buyers more or less held the whip-hand, and dictated terms owing to the considerable increase in supplies, which proved far beyond what could be conveniently dealt with. Cross-Channel buyers were in smaller attendance, and those present were in a half-hearted mood owing to markets yonder being heavily supplied with both fresh and chilled meat. In the circumstances, off-take in this direction was disappointing even at the lower rates ruling. There was only a fair inquiry for Germany, and, with local victuallers cautious bidders, market closed with large numbers turned out unsold. Beef cows also more numerous and less wanted owing to reasonable prices of useful bullocks, and trade in this section of market closed with a large carry-over of the poorer class. Bulls scarce and steady at 12s. to 14s. per cwt.; best bullocks and heifers, 18s. to 20s.; extra, 21s. to 22s. 6d.; useful sorts, 16s. to 17s.; rougher, 14s. to 15s., and beef cows, 6s to 11s.; extra, 12s. to 13s. 6d.

SHEEP AND LAMBS

The much smaller dimensions of sheep supply, no doubt, effected a steadying tone on values from previous irregular and uncertain position, but no more money was obtainable except in very fancy cases. Lambs were not so keenly run on, but terms for suitably meated medium and big qualities were well supported around previous values; but poorly-meated pens were hard to find buyers for, and bid for in most up-and-down fashion. Closing prices, nevertheless, showed little change, with a better clearance of heavy sheep on bigger off-take by Southern butchers. Prime mutton, 6¼d. to 6¾d. per lb.; useful quality, 5½d. to 6d.; other classes, 4d. to 4½d.; and lambs, 15s. to 34s. per head—latter price exceptional.

DAIRY CATTLE

There were 340 head of milch cattle on market, or 16 less than last week's gathering. The show, in point of quality, was a very mixed one, and few really tip-top beasts were to be met with. Most of English shippers and dairymen about, but a more cautious attitude overhung trade from the commencement, there being few anxious buyers for either cows or heifers, except around their own price, which worked out 20s. to 30s. per head under previous terms. Secondary and small beasts proved difficult to place, and, notwithstanding the good value for money offered, market failed to clear around the following prices:—Best cows, £12 to £14 10s.; extra, £15 to £16 per head; heifers, £11 10s. to £13; extra, £14; others, £7 to £10 10s.

PIGS.

There was an exceptionally heavy market of pigs to deal with here this week, total arrivals being 1,540 head, or an increase of 364 on previous gathering. Buyers in full attendance and business-like mood for all bacon hogs, which were more readily placed, without any material change in values, as were choice porkers and sows. Slips and bonhams, however, were again difficult to find buyers for, but market otherwise proved a good selling one, and healthier when we consider the very large numbers to deal with, most of which found buyers' markets at:—Light-weight porkers, 48s. to 50s. per cwt.; bacon, 38s. to 44s., according to weight; sows, 30s. to 33s.; slips and bonhams, 10s. to 17s. 6d.; extra, 20s. to 23s. per head.

BRISTOL.—There were 800 fresh Irish cattle and 70 English. Short supply of beef, with no improvement in prices. Best made up to 6½d. per lb. Very limited inquiry for the large supply of store cattle, which consisted principally of young heifers for dairy purposes. Best made from £10 to £12 10/-; best three-year-old Aberdeen-Angus up to £16 apiece; three-year-old cross-bred Herefords, £16; two-year-olds from £12 to £13. Short supply of milch cattle, for which inquiry was slow. A few of extra good quality made up to £18 each; others from £14 to £16.

YORK.—Very large show Irish store cattle, including a number of good quality animals about two and a half years old. Little change in trade, and late rates were maintained. Highest price was £17. English stores made to £12. Good trade for best calving and milch cows, which made to £23. Calving heifers made £13 to £16 10/-.

BIRMINGHAM PIG.—Supplies contracting and on the short side. Trade improved still further, the demand being good. Bacons well taken up at schedule rates. Cutters a dearer tendency, 10/6 and up to 11/-. Sows firm and unchanged, 7/- per score, dead weight.

STORE CATTLE SALES

MESSRS. GAVIN LOW, LTD.

A larger number of stores was catalogued for yesterday's sale, but the quality all round was hardly as good as last week. There was a fair attendance of buyers, but following the quieter tone of the beef market bidding was cautious. Last week's rates for well-bred lots were about maintained, but thin and secondary sorts were harder to sell, even at less money. Nevertheless, a fair clearance was made. Quotations:—Aberdeen-Angus bullocks and heifers made from 17/- to 21/- per cwt., and shorthorns from 15/- to 19/-. A special show and sale of store cattle is being held on 7th November, and consignors are requested to give early advice of their entries to ensure adequate advertising of the stock to be offered.

Messrs. GANLY AND SONS.

Very large entries were sent forward this week, totalling almost 700 head, including some fine consignments from Counties Galway, Roscommon, Kilkenny and Tipperary. Home and cross-Channel buyers were not so numerous; trade, consequently, was quieter and prices more uneven, though in some cases best lots touched last week's quotations. For the general run of cattle prices were easier, and a few lots failed to change hands. Quotations: Hereford and Aberdeen-Angus-cross bullocks and heifers made from 18/- to 22/6 per cwt.; horned and polly bullocks from 18/- to 20/- per cwt.; shorthorn heifers 18/6 to 21/- per cwt.

THE MARRIAGE BOND

BROADCAST LECTURE IN DUBLIN

The third lecture of the series, "Popular Explanations of Things that Matter," was delivered by the Rev. Owen F. Dudley last night from the Dublin Radio Station. The subject of last night's lecture was: "Is the Marriage Bond Cruel?"

They were, he said, living in an age in which they could witness the beginnings of a great conflict—a conflict for Christian marriage and the home. On the one hand, they had the Catholic Church rigidly maintaining the Christian marriage bond, and, on the other, what was usually termed "the World" steadily undermining it.

HOME AND SOCIAL LIFE

The world, for the most part, still believed in home and stability in social life, yet it failed to perceive that in undermining the marriage bond it was undermining the one essential vital safeguard of home and social life. The whole of Christian civilisation had been built up on the sanctity of the Christian marriage bond and the moral teaching of the Catholic Church accompanying it. Remove that bond and the whole structure of Christian civilisation would collapse, and with it would vanish the whole of that happiness associated by millions with that magic word "home." The Catholic Church declared that the Christian marriage bond was unbreakable—that only death could break it. The Catholic Church safeguarded the home with that bond. Wherever in any country—for instance, in Ireland or in Italy—they found the marriage bond upheld by civil law, they found the home the very centre and basis of the nation's life.

"And since it is my privilege to be speaking in Dublin," said Father Dudley, "may I say this: Ireland's civil refusal to surrender on the marriage bond is her civil guarantee that in Catholic Ireland the homes shall be Catholic and Irish. If an Englishman may say so from the bottom of his heart, Ireland's charm and glory may be found, perhaps at its fullest, in her Catholic and Irish homes. May those homes ever remain what they have been in the past—a pattern to the world."

They had heard the marriage bond, he continued, described as a vile bondage—as one of the most heinous inventions ever foisted on mankind. The blame for it all was laid upon the Catholic Church, upon what was represented as her inhuman and iniquitous marriage laws.

A POTENT FACTOR

"We gladly and proudly accept the blame for the marriage bond; we have nothing but contempt, though, for the libels levelled against it. Is it because of the marriage bond that infidelity and cruelty come about, or because of the treachery to its sacred trust? Blame the traitors to it, not the marriage bond. Do the faithful to it or the traitors to it find it cruel or inhuman? De facto, the marriage bond is one of the most potent factors for human happiness, and intended by the God Who decreed it for the welfare of the world. If carried with it all that ennobled human nature—ideals of faithfulness, of unselfishness, of self-sacrifice, and of a love that would never die."

If ever there were blind leaders of the blind they were those who framed laws destructive of that bond; for such laws could only prove destructive of that very stability in social life which their makers were supposed to uphold.

Away from it men and women must inevitably degenerate into a state of moral anarchy and chaos from which the light of all that was divine was blotted out. There were two factors which made for harmony in married life—the human and the supernatural. The human factor was the principle of give-and-take—it was impossible for both husband and wife to have their own ways in everything. In matters which concerned him as the head of the home, the husband should have the last word; there could not be two heads of a home. As father and mother they were king and queen of the home, and the children were their subjects, which, alas, was not popular in these days of "old beans" and "she-parents." The supernatural factor—the sacramental grace of holy marriage—was a grace not only to be received, but used. No home could be unhappy when both husband and wife actively co-operated with the sacramental grace.

THE RIDDLE OF GENIUS

LECTURE BY THE REV. E. SAVELL HICKS

"The Riddle of Genius" was the title of an interesting lecture delivered by the Rev. E. Savell Hicks, M.A., to the members of the Dublin Literary Society in Lincoln Chambers, Lincoln place, Dublin, last night. Professor W. Magennis, M.A., President, occupied the chair.

The lecturer dwelt exhaustively upon the various types of genius, illustrating his remarks with a great many examples drawn from the records of literature, art, music, war, and politics. He pointed out that there had been various schools of thought, each of which had its particular theory to account for the efflorescence of out-soaring gifts.

But the ultimate riddle of genius remained almost as insoluble as the sphinx itself.

One thing, however, was abundantly clear, and that was that any materialistic explanation broke down hopelessly and in the end there must probably be a falling back to the theory held by those of the ancient world: that there are certain deep and eternal reservoirs of thought, feeling and emotion to which certain exceptionally gifted mortals have an excess, which is denied to their less fortunate brethren, and which enables them by some Divine intuition to reach by a short cut those higher regions to which others must attempt to travel painfully and with plodding feet.

THE COST OF ACCIDENTS

£97,000 COMPENSATION IN A YEAR

During the year 1933 there was paid under the Workmen's Compensation Act the sum of £97,249, representing 4,113 cases, to industrial workers; and £44,375, representing 2,973 cases, to agricultural workers. This is shown in the statistics just issued by the Department of Industry and Commerce. In the industrial groups there were 28 cases of fatal accident to workers. This compared with 28 in 1932, and 27 in 1931. The sum of £5,415 was paid in respect of these fatal accidents (£6,056 in 1932 and £5,352 in 1931); the amount of £91,438 was paid in respect of non-fatal accidents (£84,183 in 1932 and £89,419 in 1931); £371 for non-fatal cases of industrial disease, and £25 for one case of fatal industrial disease.

The total amount of compensation paid in 1933 on industrial cases, £97,249 (4,113 cases), compares with £90,974 in 1932 (3,841 cases), and £95,397 (4,018 cases) in 1931.

In agriculture there were 15 fatal accidents recorded during 1933, compared with 12 in 1932, but whereas £345 was paid in compensation in 1933, the sum of £1,004 was paid in 1932. Non-fatal accidents totalled 2,973 in 1933, involving £43,030 in compensation, compared with 2,851 cases in 1932, involving £37,546.

Thomas Delaney, aged 50 years, a labourer, Ring street, Inchicore, employed at the G.S.R. locomotive works, was taken to Steevens's Hospital, Dublin, yesterday, suffering from head injuries and a fractured left arm, sustained when he fell from a crane forty feet to the ground. His condition is serious.

"MOST DISTRESSFUL COUNTRY"

DR. JAMES ASHE ON A REPUBLIC

"I wonder are the people who call for a Republic sincere or do they really mean it?" asked Dr. James Ashe, when addressing a meeting of the Young Men's Christian Association Literary Society at the Gregg Memorial Hall, Dawson street, Dublin, last night. His subject was "The Most Distressful Country."

"Do they want our country partitioned for all time?" he continued. Certainly that is what the establishment of a Republic would mean.

"According to the Statute of Westminster a Republic for this country can be obtained for the asking, but will it be accepted? Mr. Cosgrave registered the Treaty at Geneva. President de Valera uses the same Treaty and makes a good name for himself and certainly did good work recently, but if he went for a Republic would he get away with it any more than Italy got away with the Abyssinian trouble?"

Dr. Ashe continued:—"In regard to this matter of establishing a Republic for the South of Ireland, people will learn what Mr. Cosgrave learned and what President de Valera has got to learn, and that is that the refusal to co-operate with Northern Ireland and Great Britain is not going to lead anywhere.

"There is a call going out now for a new deal. What new deal can we have? Will the North of Ireland go back to Britain? I do not think so, because there have been established in the North what are known as vested interests, and they are going to impede the way. Then I do not think that Great Britain is very keen to have back either Northern Ireland or the Free State.

"We had super representation formerly in the British Parliament, and we were constant thorns in her side. The only solution I can see is a federal arrangement—federalism all round with Northern Ireland, the Free State and Britain. I cannot see any way out of the morass except through a federal 'deal.'"

Dr. Ashe recalled the Act of 1920, and said that the provision in that Act which proposed the setting up of a Council of Ireland would have done away with partition.

Mr. F. A. Jones, who proposed a vote of thanks to Dr. Ashe, said that it was said that President de Valera was an earnest man, but how could anyone say that he was an honest one. Much of the distress of this country had been caused through the stupidity of the English. As far as a republic was concerned, they had one already, whether they called it one or not.

Mr. John Young, seconding, said that it was almost impossible for anyone to fathom the mentality of the people of the South of Ireland.

The vote of thanks was passed with acclamation.

A BELGIAN ARTIST

THE WORK OF EUGENE YOORS

Landscape and portrait painter, a remarkable etcher and stained-glass window designer, Eugene Yoors, the Belgian artist, was the fitting subject of a lecture last night before the Academy of Christian Art, 42 Upper Mount street, Dublin. The lecture was delivered by Miss Betsie Hollants, fellow-countrywoman and art critic in the Belgian Press.

Mademoiselle Hollants said that Yoors had only been revealed as a painter of stained-glass windows in 1927. His work secured him the place of honour in the Exhibition of the International Pilgrims' Association. Everyone was struck by the nobility of his conceptions and his compositions. The technical beauty of his work, his command of line and the vividness of his colour astonished critics and impressed them with the power of his individuality. Critics spoke of a relationship between Yoors and the stained-glass painters of the Middle Ages.

Miss Hollants said that, although the technique and the type of figures differed, there was a strong relationship that could only be found by looking at the heart of the ancient artists' work, where the guiding force of both was their burning faith. Yoors was unanimously recognised as a man admirably fitted to revive the art of stained-glass, which had languished for several centuries, and many important commissions which were regarded as masterpieces in the art of stained-glass fell to the artist.

Two years ago Yoors was asked to conceive designs for glass windows which would represent the Glorification of Our Lady for a church in the Belgian Congo. The work proved of great importance, and added much to the fame which Yoors had achieved in a short time.

Count Plunkett presided at the lecture, and among the audience were:—Madame Yoor, wife of the artist; Monsieur Goor, the Belgian Consul-General, and Madame Goor; Monsieur Justice and Madame Justice, the Rev. Myles Ronan, C.C., M.R.I.A., and Miss E. Byrne.

PARTY TUNES IN BELFAST

BANDSMEN FINED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

There was an echo of the Ulster Hall meeting of Protestant organisations on the 9th October last in the Belfast Police Court to-day, when eighteen members of the Harrison Band were prosecuted for having used threatening, abusive and insulting words, whereby a breach of the peace might have been occasioned.

District-Inspector Williams stated that the band turned out on the evening of the day mentioned. The return was orderly until North street was reached. A party tune was then struck up, and the band marked time. They had to be pushed along at Peter's Hill, a district where there were political opponents. The band was also provocative at Brown Square Barrack, especially towards the police.

The Court convicted the defendants of the use of threatening and insulting behaviour, whereby a breach of the peace might be occasioned, the words "abusive words" to be struck out. A fine of 40s., with costs, the maximum penalty, was imposed, and the Court further ordered each of the defendants to enter into personal bail of £10 each and two sureties of £5 each to be of good behaviour.

Financial News & Notes

DUBLIN BUSIER

TOBACCO STRONG

GREAT SOUTHERNS HIGHER

There was a good deal more business passing on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday and a firmer trend was evident in most departments.

Among the Free State Funds Land Bonds shed a fraction, btu British Funds developed fresh strength and War Loan closed 7s. 6d. higher.

Banks, where quoted, inclined higher and Nationals improved to 48s. 4½d.

Guinness units, on renewed support, advanced to 140s. Distillers Ord. improved to 93s. 6d. and Cairnes Deb. hardened to 75.

Grand Canal Pref. recorded a good rise of 1s. 6d.

Great Southern Rails came into demand and the Ord. gained 1½ points and the Pref. a point.

Alliance Gas Ord. eased slightly.

There was good buying of Carroll issues and the Ord. gained 1s. 6d. and the Pref. moved up to 22s. 9d.

Dublin (S.) City Market issues made good headway and Solus Ord. rose 1s.

The chief feature among British Industrials was the heavy buying of Tobaccos. B.A.T. Ord. were hoisted to 117s. 4½d., a rise of over 3s., and Imperials gained 1s. 7½d. Textiles, too, inclined higher, and other descriptions presented a harder appearance.

LONDON CHEERFUL

GILT-EDGED LEAD FRESH ADVANCE

The receipt of more favourable news concerning the political situation abroad, together with Mr. Baldwin's speech overnight, encouraged fresh buying on the London Stock Markets yesterday and as a result dealers experienced the liveliest session for some time past. Gilt-edged stocks again gave a good lead, and Industrials were actively dealt in, while fresh strength was gathered by Oil and Gold Mining shares. The sustained upward movement in values prompted a little profit-taking in late dealings, but this had little effect on prices, and at the finish rises were again almost general.

BRITISH FUNDS

There was no falling off in the demand for Gilt-edged securities, and with floating supplies of stock becoming limited, the upswing in prices was accelerated. Although highest levels were not held, gains ranged up to a point, by which amount Consol Fours were higher at 113⅞. India Stocks were favourably influenced by the advance in Gilt-edged, and were a point to the good, where changed.

FOREIGN BONDS

In the Foreign Bond market the better foreign news had good effect on Austrian and Italian issues. Japanese Sixes were another good feature, the demand being attributed to the reinvestment of funds rendered idle by the redemption of South Manchurian 4½ p.c. Germans were quietly supported, and one or two other European issues hardened. Brazilians received little attention, but were maintained.

RAILS

The outstanding movement in the British Rail section was fresh buying of Southern Prefd., and the price rose to 78. Others showed little fresh change. The recent demand for Foreign Rails subsided, and a few Argentines dropped back. On the other hand, Colonials were supported and went ahead, while movements in American Rails were favourable.

Among Industrials, issues on which dividend announcements are expected shortly encountered strong support, these including Metal Box, Tate and Lyle, British Plaster Board and Crompton Parkinson. The Motor group again provided some firm features, while the good building figures recently issued were responsible for buying of Cement shares. Iron and Steels were affected by realisation, but Aircraft, Breweries and Tobaccos continued in demand, and many other leading issues appreciated.

MINES

In the Mining market steady buying from the Cape, supplemented by local support, caused a fresh advance in Kaffirs. West Africans were influenced by the rise in their neighbours, with Kwahu showing to advantage. A feature among Australians was a further sharp rise in Wilunas in response to development news. Base Metals were quiet, but changes in Tin shares were favourable.

There was no marked expansion in trading in Oil shares, but the tendency continued cheerful, and not only the leaders, but several of the smaller-priced issues moved to higher levels.

THE MONEY MARKET

BANK BUYING GOLD

The price of gold fell another 1d. yesterday to 141s. 3½d. per fine oz. About 66 bars, approximately valued at £186,000, were disposed of. The premium over the franc widened to 6½, but that over the dollar narrowed to ½d.

The Bank of England announced the purchase of £96,463 in bar gold.

Forward silver fell 1/16d. to 29 3/16d. per oz., but the spot rate remained unchanged at 29 7/16d.

There was a moderate demand for money at ½ per cent. Bill rates were unchanged. Treasuries being offered at ⅝, and three months' bills at ⅝-11/16 per cent.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

The rather more favourable trend of events in the international situation over the past day or two was reflected in a steady tendency in the Foreign Exchange market yesterday. Dealers described the turnover as moderate throughout. In view of the absence of large movements there was no necessity for "control" intervention, while speculative activity remained on a small scale, forward rates being barely unaltered. A minor feature of the market was the sharp fall in the value of the Shanghai dollar, following a currency panic in the markets over there. In London quotations for the currency were almost nominal.

THE INDUSTRIAL MARKET

GUINNESS WELL SUPPORTED

More encouraging news from abroad brought in fresh buyers to the Industrial market yesterday, and, although a little profit-taking occurred towards the close, some further satisfactory gains were recorded on balance.

After a firm start, the trans-Atlantic counters became irregular, following Wall street advices, and finished rather on the dull side in the late dealings. Cable and Wireless Stocks came in for renewed attention, noticeably the Preference, which gained ⅜.

Iron and Steel shares remained quiet, and price changes were once more of an irregular character.

In the Motor group, Leylands continued in request, on hopes of an increased dividend for the past year. Standards were subjected to profit-taking sales, and reacted.

AVIATIONS IN DEMAND.

Among Aviation and kindred descriptions, Rolls-Royce came into good demand; De Havilland and Handley Page Participating Prefs. improved. Fairey, however, left off easier.

There was again a steady demand for Electrical Equipment shares. Crompton and Parkinson continued to receive attention on bonus talk, but failed to hold an initial advance.

Further buying of Tate and Lyle took place among Provision and Catering shares, and the price closed 1s. 9d. higher at 86s. 9d., after touching 87s. 3d. Bovril issues also attracted attention, the Ordinary being marked up to 24s. and the Deferred to 18s. The two Unilevers were somewhat easier.

Textiles generally presented a firm appearance.

There was not a great deal doing in the Rayon section. Courtaulds hardened further to 54s., while Canadian Celanese gained 1/16.

BREWERIES STRONGER

Breweries made another satisfactory showing in response to further provincial support. Guinness were prominent, closing 2s. 9d. to the good at 141s., while modest gains were recorded by Bass Ratcliffe, Fairey, Holroyd, Ind Coope, and Watney Defd.

As regards Tobaccos, "Bats" made the best showing with a further advance of ⅛. Gallahers seemed rather undecided in their movements, and finished unchanged on the day.

There was little of interest in the News group.

Shipping shares moved within narrow limits, and showed little variation on the day.

MISCELLANEOUS GROUP BETTER

The Miscellaneous section as a whole made another good showing, and several satisfactory gains were recorded. British Oxygens improved, but Imperial Chemicals were rather overshadowed by the application for reduction of capital which came before the Courts yesterday. Crittalls encountered further profit-taking, and slipped back. Spillers Defd. were favoured, and United Molasses were a firm market. Triplex Glass continued in fair request, and Dunlops were a shade firmer.

OILS MAINTAINED

Although slightly less active than of late, Oil shares continued to receive quite a good deal of attention, and recent advances were well held. Not only was there a steady demand locally for most of the better-class shares, but Continental operators came in buyers of international counters, such as Shells, Royal Dutch and the Eagle issues. Shells continued prominent, there again being some good buying of the shares on dividend hopes. Interest in the Eagle issues revived, although no news came to hand such as would account for the demand.

RUBBERS ACTIVE

The Rubber share market made good response yesterday to the renewed firmness of raw rubber prices. Active conditions prevailed throughout the day, and many issues attracted buyers. The outstanding movement was a rise of 1s. 10½d. to 13s. 9d. in Anglo-Malay, while other shares which advanced by appreciable amounts included Sedenak, Java Amalgamated, Malacca, and Grand Central. Dealers in the commodity section reported a fair trade, with spot rubber selling up to 6 7/16d. per lb.

LONDON MINING MARKET

KAFFIRS AGAIN ON THE UP-GRADE

The Mining Market was quite firm yesterday, and, with public orders rather more numerous, the upward movement of quotations was continued. Hopes of peace, coupled with the good quarterly reports, helped Kaffirs materially, and, although there was considerable profit-taking in shares which have recently been prominently on the upgrade, such as West Wits, Rand Leases, and Venterspost, yet the reactions were of trifling extent, and were completely overshadowed by the substantial advances. "Johnnies," however, lost the turn, and Goldfields receded on a little Paris selling, but the list as a whole at the close presented a very strong appearance. In the Rhodesian Department Chartered held their ground, but Cam and Motor were subject to a little profit-taking following their recent advance.

The Copper Shares were not much in evidence. East Africans gave a good account of themselves. A sudden demand for Selukwe lifted the price smartly.

There was more business passing in West Africans, and interest centred mainly on Gold Coast Selection, which, after a long period of neglect, were being steadily absorbed.

Australians presented a stronger appearance, and it needed but a modest demand for Wiluna to lift the price substantially, the reduction in the dividend being recognised as a purely temporary matter.

Dealers were still very cautious of the sharp fluctuations in the price of Tin, which yesterday more than recovered Wednesday's set-back, but the Share Market, nevertheless, continued to display a quietly firm appearance. Closing prices:—

FINANCIAL PARAGRAPHS

New Leather Industry for the Saorstat

To-morrow (Saturday) will be published the prospectus of the Dickens Leather Co., Ltd., and on Tuesday next the share list of this new company opens. The issue will consist of 12,000 6½ per cent. Cumulative Preference Shares of £1 each and 12,000 Ordinary Shares of £1 each. The company will break entirely new ground in the Saorstat by the manufacture of leather linings for boots and shoes. Hitherto Irish boots and shoe manufacturers have had to go abroad to satisfy their requirements in this direction, for there is no other factory in the Saorstat producing these linings. A market, protected by tariffs, awaits the new company. Their factory will also produce certain classes of semi-chrome and vegetable leathers for boot and shoe uppers, together with sandal leathers and leathers for clothing, gloving and fancy leather goods trade. The company hopes to go into production at a very early date, and, while entirely supplying the home market in leather linings, it will also develop an export trade. Inquiries in this direction have already been received from Continental markets. When in full production the factory will employ 100 hands, all male. The company intends to make use of native Irish sheep-skins, so far as they are suitable. None of the issue is underwritten, and consequently the payment of underwriting fees has been avoided. The factory is to be situated at Dungarvan, Co. Waterford, and a large portion of the issue has already been promised locally. The following are the first directors:—Chairman—Kennedy O'Brien, Managing Director of Kennedy O'Brien and Co., Ltd., Dublin, and Director and General Manager of Irish Tanners, Ltd., Portlaw. Managing Director—Reginald Dickens, Managing Director of Reginald Dickens, Ltd., Northampton. Directors—Michael A. Casey, M.D., Dungarvan, and Patrick J. Moloney, Director of A. Moloney and Sons, Ltd., Dungarvan.

Bankers' clearing-house return amounted to £621,788,000, being an increase of £63,171 compared with the corresponding week last year.

Singer and Co.'s Reconstruction Scheme

A circular to the holders of the Preference and Ordinary shareholders of the company states that the directors propose the following scheme:—The share capital is reduced by £250,035 by writing off 7s. 6d. from each of the issued Ordinary shares, thus reducing the nominal amount of each of such shares to 12s. 6d. Each Ordinary share of 12s. 6d. is then sub-divided into 25 shares of 6d. each, making a total of 16,669,000 shares, and of these, two-sevenths, or 4,762,572 shares in all, are to be surrendered to the company for the purposes of the scheme. All the 6d. shares will then be consolidated into shares of 5s. each. Each holder of Preference shares will be entitled to fully-paid Ordinary shares of 5s. each of a total nominal value equal to the amount of the full dividend—without deduction of tax—for the period 1st August, 1932, to 30th June, 1936—three years and eleven months—on his holding of Preference shares, save that no fraction of a 5s. share will be issued. In return the Preference shareholders are asked to agree to the cancellation of all arrears and rights to dividend down to 30th June, 1936. All the issued Preference shares and all the issued Ordinary shares, as they will be on full effect being given to the scheme, are to be converted into stock.

Marconi Marine

Attention has been redirected to Marconi International Marine Ord. £1 shares by their inclusion in the portfolio of one of the newer fixed trusts. The selection is considered a good one, because of the signs that the United States and France are disposed to relax their tariffs and quotas with a view to assisting in the restoration of international trade (says The Financial Times). Almost every ocean-going British ship, and a good many foreign ones, are equipped with Marconi installations. Even during the depression the company's dividend has never fallen below 7½ per cent. per annum. In 1931 it was 10 per cent., after 15 per cent. for each of the three previous years. For 1935 an interim of 2½ per cent. (same) was recently paid, and the final next April will, doubtless, be at least 5 per cent. Even on a 7½ per cent. basis, the shares at 31s. 9d. show the useful yield of £4 14s. per cent.

Union Discount Subsidiary

Union Discount Subsidiary Co., Ltd., has been registered as a private company, with a nominal capital of £100,000 in £1 shares. The objects are to discount bills of exchange, promissory notes and other instruments or securities, and generally to transact all kinds of discount business and to receive money on deposit, etc. The news of this registration aroused some interest, and, not a little curiosity in Lombard street circles. The Financial News learns, however, that the new company has been formed to meet purely internal needs. It is not of any external significance, nor will it in any way alter the nature of the business of the parent company.

British Portland Cement Manufacturers, Ltd.

The directors have resolved to issue the 320,000 unissued Ordinary Shares of £1 each, thus making the issued Ordinary capital £2,000,000. The new shares, which in due course will be converted into stock, will rank for the final dividend payable in respect of the current financial year, and will be provisionally allotted at par to the Ordinary stockholders registered in the books of the company on the 31st October next in the proportion of one new share for each £5.25 of existing stock, fractions being disregarded.

Capital Reduction Scheme of I.C.I.

On the application of Mr. Gavin Simonds, K.C., Mr. Justice Eve, in the Chancery Division, London, yesterday, fixed November 5 for the resumed hearing of the petition by Imperial Chemical Industries, Ltd., for the confirmation of a reduction of the company's capital from £95,000,000 to £89,565,859. Mr. H. J. Wallington, K.C., for the opposing shareholders, assented to the application to resume the hearing on November 5.

REUTER'S TELEGRAMS.

REGISTRATION OF FOREIGN GOVERNMENT BONDS

Taking an easier stand in connection with the registration requirements of Foreign Government Bonds, the National Securities and Exchange Commission has authorised the New York Stock Exchange to send to the fiscal agents of foreign Governments an interpretative letter, embodying the views of the General Council of the National Securities and Exchange Commission in regard to such registration. According to the letter, the registrant, inter alia, need not include its inter-Governmental indebtedness in the statement of external funded debt. At the same time, other provisions are likewise made less stringent. It is understood that the action is due to the intervention of the New York Stock Exchange, thus removing the threat of a possible wholesale de-listing of Foreign Government Bonds.

LONDON "STREET" MARKET

Only a small volume of business was transacted in the American market last evening, and the tone as a whole was dull, prices where altered being easier. Nickels finished 1/16 off at 31⅞, as did Radios at 8¼. "Emmies" lost the turn to 26s., and Canadas receded ⅛ to 9⅝. Steels were ½ lower at 47⅛, while American Celanese gave way to 6⅛. Anaconda easing to 4 7/16. Tractions changed hands at 7⅞, and Hydros held at 4, but Chrysler reacted to 87½.

COMPANY MEETING.

RANKS, LIMITED

UNFAIR FOREIGN COMPETITION

BREAD THE BEST ENERGY FOOD

The annual general meeting of Ranks, Limited, was held yesterday at River Plate House, Finsbury Circus, London, E.C.

Mr. Joseph Rank, the chairman, who presided and moved the adoption of the report and accounts, said that, whilst the dividends of the operating companies had been declared at a figure sufficient to enable Ranks, Limited, to pay the same rate of dividend as last year, he was glad to say that, in addition, there had been retained or carried forward in the accounts of Joseph Rank, Limited, and its subsidiaries an amount representing a satisfactory reserve from the year's profits over and above the dividends declared.

FOREIGN COMPETITION.

The trading year had not been an easy one. Foreign competition still prevailed, and the Government, despite repeated applications, had so far done nothing towards curtailing imports of foreign flour, and thus assisting the home miller. That flour from certain countries still found its way here at a price below the cost of production and at much less than the selling price in the country of origin was not only to the detriment of the home miller and the British farming industry, but kept out of employment operatives whose services could be utilised if the subsidised flour ceased to find its way here. The Government had arranged for a return of the duty on foreign wheat used in the manufacture of export flour, and that was to the good, but he still hoped that, in common fairness to their particular industry, it would not be long before the Government moved in the direction of further protection to the home miller.

NEW MILLS.

The new mills at Belfast, Southampton, and Victoria Dock, London, had been completed, and were working very satisfactorily. Whilst competition between millers in this country remained very keen, the flour milling industry was well organised, and dealt with many matters affecting the industry with the object of enabling the supply of food to consumers to be on the most economical basis, and, in that connection, the industry had felt it necessary, by a comprehensive scheme of advertising, to impress upon the public that bread was the best energy food for man. When all other foods had been compared, bread remained the staple and cheapest and the most economical food for everybody.

In conclusion, he could state that the accounts of Joseph Rank, Ltd., and its subsidiaries for the first quarter of the current financial year to the end of September last showed a satisfactory result.

The report and accounts were unanimously adopted, and the retiring director, Mr. James V. Rank was re-elected.

Traffic Signals

I had often heard of the old lady in Dame street who, in the intervals of paper-selling, takes a lively interest in the directing of traffic, but not until a couple of days ago, when I lunched in a café overlooking the corner of Dame street and George's street, did I realise the extent of her activities.

It was a wet day and, with the reduced business the bad weather brought to her trade, she was able to give the traffic her almost undivided attention. Round the bend and straight forward she waved trams, cars and 'buses. An imperious hand was raised on occasions, and I felt that, had I been nearer, I would have learned just what she thought about those who either did not observe the unorthodox signaller or who did not see eye to eye with her scheme of directing. Apart from the traffic, she had a word or two to address to pedestrians who seemed to her lax in care in crossing the street, and two small children who were attempting to get over to the other side were placed unhesitatingly in the charge of a complete stranger—if one could judge from his surprised expression.

Eventually, business being completed, she left the corner, looking reluctantly back to approve of or scold the passers-by. Her traffic signals, I thought, would not altogether comply with police regulations, but I liked the kindly spirit and good heart that I felt prompted the point duty activities

Persecuted Presbyterians

The arrest of students of the Irish Presbyterian Mission at Mukden by Japanese police on charges of alleged Communism reminds me that the young non-conforming congregations in Ulster exactly three centuries ago had their era of persecution, too. Bishop Echlin of Down, who died in 1635, led the assault, and became a veritable scourge to them. Earlier in the century Echlin had permitted the ministry of Edward Brice, who had had to fly from Scotland for his Presbyterianism, and made him prebendary of Kilroot, and the famous Primate Ussher had befriended them more than once. Through the influence of Laud, however, Echlin was enabled to suspend four ministers for their refusal to conform to Episcopacy in 1632, and in the 'thirties he gave the Presbyterian body no peace. Their position became so intolerable that at one time they contemplated emigrating en masse to England's colonies in America. They went so far as to send two agents to London and Plymouth for the settlement across the Atlantic, but for some reason or other there agents returned to Ulster, and the project was abandoned. There is a tradition that when Bishop Echlin was dying his doctor asked him what ailed him. The bishop replied after a long silence: "It is my conscience, man," but all the doctor could say was: "I have no cure for that." In the countryside it was long believed that "God did smite the bishop for suppressing of Christ's ministers."

Henderson and Ireland

A correspondent who claims to have some inside knowledge writes: If, as your correspondent who has written on Arthur Henderson says, Henderson "thought . . . that Easter Week would probably never have happened if his peace-making efforts in 1913 had succeeded" in settling the Dublin strike, he must have been expressing an opinion for which, in fact, there was not much ground. It is an opinion shared by many, my correspondent admits. He continues: "The 1913 conflict and its results were, no doubt, one of the factors that combined to make Easter Week; but they were by no means the only factor. They contributed to the revolutionary atmosphere. But if Henderson or others had been able to settle the strike, or if the 1913 conflict had never taken place, still the chances were 100 to 1 that the Insurrection of 1916 would have been brought about all the same. One of the great contributing factors was the arming of the Ulster Volunteers; this affected the general body of Nationalists, and helped to turn them to favour the idea of using arms. It encouraged, and even heartened, the small body of revolutionaries in the I.R.B. and Fianna Eireann, and gained recruits for them, and it facilitated the arming of Nationalists. But, apart from these, there were at least three men—Tom Clarke, James Connolly and Sean MacDermott—who were revolutionaries, awaiting their time and the opportune moment, and no settlement of a strike, or even of a political crisis, would have prevented them and the I.R.B. from striking when the opportunity presented itself. The World War provided the opportunity, and they and their colleagues, like Pearse, seized it."

A Carson Story

The stories told about the late Lord Carson are innumerable, and most of them have some political or legal point. One told to me by Sir James Craig, so long associated with Trinity College as King's Professor of Medicine, recurs to me. Sir James was for many years extern examiner in medicine for Queen's University, Belfast, and as a County Antrim man always enjoyed his visits to the North. At examinations, he said, the Queen's faculty used to give a dinner, which was a notable gathering of Belfast's brains, business and beauty. At one of these dinners at the height of the Ulster Volunteer movement, when Carson's name was in everybody's mouth, Sir James was seated next to a lady of much charm who was the wife of a prominent Unionist. The talk turned inevitably upon the signing of the Ulster Covenant and Sir Edward Carson, as he then was, and naturally it was warmly eulogistic. Addressing Sir James when she found he came from Trinity, his fair companion asked: "And what do you think of our Sir Edward?" "A brilliant lawyer and a very clever man," replied Sir James with Northern canniness. "But I mean in politics," said the lady: "you must know him well in Trinity." "Oh, indeed, we do," answered Sir James, "and I voted for him once in an election." "Then you must be an old supporter of his." "That doesn't follow," said Sir James, and then with a smile, "for when I voted for him he was standing as a Liberal candidate." "The lady was disappointed in me," Sir James told me, "and if I had thrown a bomb into that dignified assembly I wouldn't have created a greater sensation than by that dry remark."

Newmarket Houghton Sales

I see that the executors of the late Mr. Peter Fitzgerald, of Mondelihy, are selling two of his yearlings at the Newmarket Houghton Sales next week. The Italo-Abyssinian conflict has so far had an adverse effect upon the sale of bloodstock, but by the time the December Sales come along it is to be hoped a change of heart will have set in between the combatants, so that better prices may prevail with a more peaceful outlook. I note also that Miss Audrey Bell is selling Lady Gold at these sales next week. Lady Gold is now four years old, and in winning the Newmarket Town Plate this year she provided Miss Bell with her third winning ride in four years in this event. The Newmarket Town Plate is the race for women jockeys, and I really think we should have a similar race here.

The Great Migration

As a result of the investigations of Dr. Schmidt it is now established that European eels cross the Atlantic to a special breeding-ground near Bermuda. It would appear that this tremendous journey of three, or even four, thousand miles is undertaken because only in this part of the Atlantic can the special conditions necessary to breeding be found. The eels are said to spawn at a depth of four hundred metres below the surface. When the breeding is completed the parents die, since there can be no return from such a journey. The eggs float on the surface until the young are hatched out, when they begin to move in an easterly direction. They next turn into little elvers, or glass eels, and after travelling for about three years they commence the ascent of European rivers. Their numbers are enormous; more than three tons have been taken in one day, and a single pound weight of elvers is estimated to contain fourteen thousand individuals. After overcoming many obstacles they arrive at suitable resting-places, and continue to grow for five or six years, until the time comes for them to take the same journey as their parents. The American eel, which is considerably shorter than the European variety, also migrates to the Atlantic, but the egg of this eel only takes one year to become a fully-grown elver. While this process is taking place it is travelling in a westerly direction. Thus the time taken for both varieties of eels to become elvers, and their respective lengths, are suited to the distances to be travelled by each, a truly wonderful instance of Nature's powers of adaptation.

Atty Hayes's Goat

A curious expression formerly quite common in Cork, and even in other portions of the land, is "As old as Atty Hayes's goat," which had its origin in the following humorous tale. For many years an old goat had been in the possession of the Hayes family of Mount Vernon, one of whom was Sheriff of Cork in 1790. In time the animal came into the keeping of one Philip Allen, who married a descendant of the family, and thus acquired the animal. Apparently in time, he, too, became Mayor of Cork, and gave a civic banquet to celebrate his new honours. Like a true Corkman of his day, he dearly loved a practical joke, and one of the principal dishes served was a haunch of the goat which had just died, worn out with years. The venison was highly approved. One and all voted it delicious, and it was not till long afterwards that it came out that the City Fathers had been regaled on the hind quarter of an antiquated buck goat.

ECHOES OF THE TOWN

Mrs. Stanley Baldwin : Mr. Hilaire Belloc's Visit : Madame Goor : Miss McNeill of The Glens : Interesting Dublin Engagement

BY KITTY CLIVE

WHATEVER political changes take place in Britain as a result of the coming election, the staff at No. 10 Downing street hope that Mrs. Stanley Baldwin will remain as the chatelaine of this famous residence. Since Mr. Baldwin returned to No. 10 his wife has resumed her care of the young officials attached to its staff, and studied their comforts and pleasures. Few know of the charm of the Prime Minister's wife, and how she is esteemed by the young girl typists and secretaries for her many acts of kindness to them.

MRS. BALDWIN.

Week-ends at Chequers

I hear the week-end is always looked forward to with joy by the young women at Downing street. Shortly after Mrs. Stanley Baldwin returned to the Prime Minister's town house she called the secretaries and typists together, and, telling them how much she appreciated their work, informed them that, knowing how much they needed fresh air and pleasure over the week-end, she wished to have three of them as guests each week-end at Chequers, the selection to be decided by the casting of lots among themselves. When the first three girls arrived Mrs. Baldwin told them that they were to do as they wished during their time—from Friday afternoon until Monday morning—at Chequers. If they liked they were to have breakfast in bed! they could do as they pleased by way of walking, riding or playing tennis, and were expected to appear for dinner at eight. Needless to say, this kindness is fully appreciated, and the young secretaries and typists, seeing how their services are recognised and rewarded, work all the harder during the week.

The Cheeriest Employer

The Prime Minister, I hear also, is the cheeriest employer imaginable, and is not in the least pompous or awe-inspiring in his relations with the staff. Indeed, whenever he enters the room where they work, they all look up, wondering what happy surprise he has in store. Sometimes he comes to them like a jolly schoolboy, holding aloft tickets for an important function, or, as often happens, an invitation to a big race meeting. One morning I heard he rushed in with three tickets. "Here's for the Derby!" he cried. "Now cast lots, and see which of you three I am to take with me?" It is this kindly spirit of pleasant working conditions which makes the staff respond so splendidly. It is not, therefore, to be wondered at that the elections means so much to all at Downing street, and one can understand their desire to have Mr. and Mrs. Baldwin returned.

Depleted Kildare

Everyone associated with horse-racing in the country hopes it is not true that the Hon. Gerald Wellesley is considering giving up his stables and going to Newmarket. Already Mr. Lindsay Hogg has gone, and Mr. Robert Kennedy, who disposed of his property some time ago, has opened a large motor business in London. Mr. Kennedy is a keen flyer, who owns his own 'plane, and he and his wife frequently make the cross-Channel trip by air to Baldonnel. Mrs. Kennedy was, before her marriage last year, Miss Cathleen Gregory, a daughter of Mrs. Guy Gough, of Celbridge, and a granddaughter of the late Lady Gregory.

Madame Goor

The Belgian Consul-General and Madame Goor are amongst the keenest "first-nighters" at our Dublin theatres. Monsieur Goor, who, I believe, has a better knowledge of Irish history and politics than any other member of our foreign Legations, was intensely interested last week in the revised play on Parnell by Dr. Fearon, in which the author has introduced much more of the history of the times, than when the play was first produced. Madame Goor also loves the theatre almost as well as her bridge. She is a devotee of the table, and says she always wins. She is very popular in bridge-playing circles in Dublin, and plays a good deal now at Kilcroney, where she also plays golf during the afternoon. Monsieur and Madame Goor have a large circle of friends in Dublin. Always smartly gowned, and with a vivacious and gracious manner, Madame Goor is an acquisition at any party, while her husband is one of the best-informed diplomats in Dublin. Monsieur Maurice Goor has travelled widely, having held many important posts for his Government in many countries, and came to Dublin from Canada, where he was for ten years. He previously represented his Government in Calcutta, Buenos Aires, and Pretoria. Their three children, educated first in Canada and in Ireland, speak English without the slightest accent, and the eldest, Monsieur Louis Goor, is practising as an engineer in Dublin, the two other boys being still at college. One is studying agriculture in England, and the younger, who was with the Benedictine Fathers at Glenstal, is now with the Christian Brothers at Priory Park, near Bath.

MADAME GOOR.

Interesting Engagement

The engagement of Monsieur Louis Goor and Miss Alice Reilly aroused much interest in Dublin, as both are extremely popular in the younger social circles. Miss Reilly is the youngest daughter of the late Colonel James Reilly, who was a well-known polo player, and Mrs. Reilly, of Belgrave square, Monkstown. She is a charming girl, keen on outdoor sports, as is her fiancé, and a good tennis player. They have received numerous congratulations from their friends during the past week.

The Earl of Bessborough

Writing of Canada reminds me that it is hoped in the district of Piltown, County Kilkenny, that the Earl of Bessborough, who recently resigned from the post of Governor-General of Canada, may spend some time again in Ireland, where he has a fine estate. Bessborough was destroyed by fire in 1923 during the "troubles," and was never rebuilt. Before the War both Lord and Lady Bessborough were extremely popular, and gave a great deal of employment in the district. When the Earl brought home his lovely French wife in 1912, I am told, they received a splendid welcome from the people. Lady Bessborough is a daughter of Baron Jean de Neuflize, and is very interested in the theatre. Both she and her husband did much for the drama during their stay in Canada, and assisted in the formation of several community theatres, their eldest son being an accomplished actor. Their patronage would be valuable in Kilkenny, where, in the eighteenth century, the city had one of the finest theatres in Ireland, and was always visited by the important actors from London and Dublin.

MR. H. BELLOC.

Mr. Hilaire Belloc

The visit of Mr. Hilaire Belloc to Dublin created quite a stir. Previous to the first lecture at University College, Dublin, a number of guests were invited to meet the distinguished writer at tea on Tuesday afternoon. These social functions are well staged at the college, and are most enjoyable. All the professors were present, and quite a number of visitors besides. In the tea-room I saw Father Stephen Browne, Pro-O'Sullivan and Mrs. O'Sullivan, Professor John MacNeill and Mrs. MacNeill, Mr. T. Cleary and Miss Maeve Cleary, Mrs. McCarvill, Miss Ainé O'Sullivan, Dr. Dudley Edwards, Professor Chauviré and many others. On Tuesday evening the President of the University and Mrs. Denis Coffey, whose guest Mr. Belloc was during his stay, gave a dinner party at their home in Fitzwilliam square. Among their guests were the Vice-President of the Executive Council (Mr. Sean T. O'Kelly) and the Rev. John Gwynn, S.J. This week Mr. Belloc is staying with his old friend, Mr. J. M. Maxwell, in his lovely home at the Baily, Howth. Mr. Belloc's son is a member of Mr. Maxwell's firm.

Miss McNeill of the Glens

Mrs. Hutton and her daughter are going this week to stay with Miss McNeill in the Glens of Antrim. Miss McNeill, who is regarded almost as the Chieftainess of the Donegal Highlands, is a most interesting woman. She lives at Cushendun, on the rim of the ocean, and has the most beautiful view of the sea on one side and the glens on the other. A great Gaelic enthusiast, she has been a leading spirit of the movement for years in the glens, organising the feiseanna, and helping the workers in the revival of the language, the pipes and Irish music. Close to Miss McNeill's house is the spot where Maire O'Neill lived and wrote her "Songs of the Glens of Antrim." An ideal hostess, Miss McNeill's house is known for its hospitality, and she is never without some interesting visitor from London—or from the end of the world. Miss McNeill was a cousin of the late Lord Cushendun.

Paris Fashions Even More French

WOMEN REGAINING THEIR GENTLE POWER

FROM OUR PARIS CORRESPONDENT.

THE new fashions make Paris more French. The city at night is full of daguerreotypes—women with sloping shoulders and blossoming skirts, and hair parted in the middle. Exhalations of pinkness and fragility abound—a superlatively Gallic pose, exalting the feminine.

In a sense, though, it is not a pose. Women are genuinely trying to regain their kingdom again, the kingdom of gentle power. Power through coquetry—through the swish of skirts and the half glance over the edge of a fan. Power through the arch of an ankle (so new a sight!) shown by the new up-in-the-front gown. Power through all the mighty battery of charms that, paradoxically, accentuate weakness. Needless to say, the men are delighted.

SANDALS AND CURLS

Certain women do specific things with this mode. Some well-known Parisiennes accentuate this "girlishness" by wearing heelless sandals; some make a sort of halo of curls on the top of their heads; others wear fringes. Old-fashioned bouquets of natural flowers held tight in aureoles of tulle or paper lace are revived, and fans add charm.

A number of women wear curls, tight, flat, and lacquered in the manner of Greek heads. And all wear jewels in their hair at night—clips, diamonds and crystal stars, wings, jewels, flowers, the two small clips to the hair like wings, or the diamond curls shaped like wood shavings.

Revues, and the revival of classic plays, have had a lot to do with these new fantasies of the coiffure. And the craze for multi-coloured crystal stars continues. These are used on hair and neckline.

SUBTLE COMBINATIONS

A determined effort is being made to get women out of black, both by night and by day. Certainly the palette is an attractive one. For the street, dark brown, navy, green, and dark red are being offered as substitutes for black.

Navy has an excellent chance of acceptance, but I feel that the other dark shades are really more suitable for autumn wear. A certain amount of beige is found in many collections, in both apricot and yellow tones. Champagne and a pale yellow like fresh butter are occasional shades, and there is one gown in blonde tortoiseshell in almost every fashion collection.

Combinations of dark brown and pale blue, of brown and green, brown and white, brown and yellow, of navy, red and white, are everywhere, particularly in country clothes. These colour combinations are not at all rare.

Some bright reds lend a cheerful note, and coral and tomato shades are much seen. There is at least one combination of pink and red in every fashion showing.

Grey is still tentative. There are some bright greens for evening, subtle shades of burnt orange, strong, vivid blues and prune.

This felt model by Reslaw shows the new circular movement in crown, with kink effect in brim.

BEAUTIFUL EFFECTS

Paris has designed winter models in a neat and sober mood, using trimmings sparingly, even upon evening ensembles. Sports clothes are largely in jerseys or uni-coloured woollens, with a coloured note in the neckline or in the belt.

The lines are straight, with slight width about the shoulders and a well-defined waistline. Even the short fur coats which are shown over several dresses are drawn into the waist, lumberjack fashion, quite a new way of treating a fur back.

Fur trimmings are important, and include not only collars and cuffs, but elaborate incrustations.

The "afternoon feeling" is very strong, and it is felt in Paris that it is high time that newcomer, "Sports Wear," should be cold-shouldered into its place. Long afternoon dresses worn with short jackets make the silhouette look incredibly slender, and attractive trimmings adorn the waistline.

There are pleasing metal clips and fastenings in dull gold to trim certain dresses, and braid is also used upon gowns which boast a new and more narrow line. Huge wooden buckles and buttons painted gold or silver are among the exclusive trimmings which have appeared both on sports and on afternoon models.

EVENING FROCKS

For the evening Paris is showing numerous models having both the slender and fitted tendency trailing away to a fish-tail train, so suitable for the older woman. The full-skirted picture frocks are eminently suited to the young girl during the winter season.

Nets and laces, frequently stitched with fine, closely-placed lines, are prominent. Scarves which can be draped easily and in several ways are likewise in fashion.

In almost every collection there is one model using sunburst pleating in the skirt, and some skirts are entirely plaited in fine plaits. Tiered, frilled and peplum skirts also appear frequently in lace, with many spiral ruffles. Though the general line is more or less limp, we still see models with sharply flaring flanges, achieved by crinoline stiffening.

EVENING WRAPS

Evening wraps are most eclectic. They are of all lengths. There are the tiny-sleeved boleros, which are seen in colour and material different from the gown.

There is the Eton jacket, sometimes matching the gown, sometimes contrasting with it, and often banded with fur. Then comes the wrap that stops at the normal waistline.

Among the wraps intended for evening wear, seen at a well-known Paris dress-maker's the other day, is one of pale grey crêpe, a three-quarter kimono, the flat neckline and the straight edges of its open front being edged with a three-inch wide band of emerald green ribbon.

A Venetian coat in red velvet with a fitted waist and full frilled sleeve is another type of evening coat to which a handsome fur collar would lend considerable importance.

ON THE WIRELESS

Daily Programme Review

DUBLIN: Commemoration of Terence MacSwiney, 7.

NORTHERN IRELAND: The Belfast Citadel Band, 8.15.

B.B.C. NATIONAL: The Kentucky Minstrels (repeat), 8.30.

REGIONAL: Organ Recital by G. Thalben-Ball, 8.30.

MIDLAND: "Hiawatha" (Coleridge-Taylor), 7.55.

SCOTTISH: Anither Nicht at the Bursts, 7.30.

LEIPZIG: Beethoven's Second Symphony, etc., 9.30.

BRATISLAVA: Opera, "The Two Widows" (Smetana), 6.30.

IN commemoration of Terence MacSwiney, Dublin, Athlone and Cork will broadcast special items to-night. At 7 a talk will be given by Alderman Sean French, Lord Mayor of Cork, after which the Station Orchestra, under Dr. Vincent O'Brien, will play the Funeral March from St. Patrick's Suite, Ancient Irish Lament. Then Liam MacReamoinn will contribute ten minutes from the writings of Terence MacSwiney. He will be followed by a men's octet in a programme of songs, entitled "The Spirit of the Nation."

Constance Powell Anderson's play, "The Courting of the Widow Malone," which has been translated into Irish by Fiachra Eilgeach, will be played to-night by the Keating Branch of the Gaelic League at 8 in the Dublin programme.

The music of Coleridge-Taylor provides the material for two B.B.C. programmes. The first will be given by the B.B.C. Orchestra, conducted by Joseph Lewis. Commencing with the "Hiawatha" Overture, no miscellaneous programme of Coleridge-Taylor's music would be complete without the inclusion of the romantic "Onaway, awake, beloved," which Frank Titterton, the well-known tenor, will sing to-night, in addition to a group of songs. Other items include "The Bamboula," a Rhapsodic Dance, and Commemoration March. (7.30, Regional.)

The second and more important performance will be heard at 7.55 (Midland) in a relay from the de Montfort Hall, Leicester, consisting of the first part of Coleridge-Taylor's "Hiawatha" trilogy, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast." This musical setting of Longfellow's epic poem was the composer's crowning achievement as a student, on which, more than on any later work, his mature reputation rests. It is to this part of the trilogy that the lovely aria "Onaway, awake, beloved" belongs.

To anticipate the quality of the performance in advance one has only to glance at the cast: Harold Williams, Hiawatha; Mona Thomas, Minnehaha; Gaby Valle, Nokomis; Bruce Flegg, Chibiabos; George Cook, Iagoo. The music of the Medicine Man has been given to the Indian Chief Osk-ke-non-ton, who, on occasions, has both sung and lectured to Dublin audiences. The cast will be supported by the Leicester Choral and Dramatic Society. Victor Thomas will conduct.

Another choral programme may be heard on the North Regional wave-length at 8.30, to be given by the City of Bradford Co-operative Choir, with Florence Wilson as soloist. Works of Smetana, Parry, Handel and Elgar are among those to be performed.

The first of a new series of recitals on the B.B.C. organ at Broadcasting House will be given to-night by G. Thalben-Ball. This series of six recitals is planned to present major works in the repertoire played by distinguished organists. The Sonata by Herbert Howells, which is being broadcast for the first time in this recital, was first performed by Mr. Thalben-Ball last year at the Albert Hall, London, and to him it is dedicated.

The Kentucky Minstrels will repeat their old-time minstrel show to-night for the benefit of those who missed it on Wednesday night. Another repeat from Wednesday's items is "Congo Landing," specially written for broadcasting by Horton Giddy. (Regional, 10.20.)

In "I Knew a Man," No. 4, A. C. Maclaren will give his recollections of W. G. Grace, the famous cricketer. (10, National.)

Speeches by Mr. Lloyd George and the Lord Mayor of Cardiff at the opening of the Imperial Fruit Show and Canners' Exhibition will be relayed from the Greyfriars Hall, Cardiff, at 3 in the Western programme.

MR. BALDWIN'S BROADCAST

Mr. Baldwin will inaugurate the general election campaign when to-night he makes the first of a series of twelve broadcast speeches by party leaders. National, 9.40.

CONSTITUTIONAL ISSUE IN TRADE UNION CONFLICT?

IRISH LABOUR IN ENGLAND

ATTITUDE OF ENGLISH BODY

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MEREDITH.)

EVIDENCE for the defence was given in the action of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union, Parnell square, Dublin, against Messrs. W. H. Green, Bow, London, F. F. Beechey, Brixton, and W. John, Llanelly, trustees of the Transport and General Workers' Union, Westminster, London; Mr. S. Kyle, 112 Marlborough street, Dublin, Area Secretary of the union, and the union itself.

The plaintiffs seek, among other orders, an injunction to restrain the defendant union from carrying on business in Ireland in the name of the Transport and General Workers' Union, or of the Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union, or any other name similar to that of plaintiffs, or so nearly resembling it as to be likely to deceive.

The defence is a general traverse of plaintiffs' averments. The defendants admit that they carried on as the "Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union," but deny that that title caused confusion. They deny that they circulated documents bearing the title "Transport and General Workers' Union" in breach of an alleged order of the Dail Eireann Courts made in June, 1922.

Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C.; Mr. J. M. Fitz-Gerald, K.C., and Mr. P. McGilligan (instructed by Messrs. J. O'Connor and Co.) appeared for plaintiffs; and Mr. A. E. Wood, K.C., Mr. C. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. A. Corbett (instructed by Mr. J. Gleeson) for defendants.

Mr. C. S. Campbell, K.C. (instructed by Mr. J. Gleeson) held a watching brief on behalf of the National Union of Railwaymen.

The first witness examined on behalf of the defendant union was Mr. Sam Kyle, secretary of the Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union for the area of Ireland, and in reply to Mr. Lavery he said that his union had branches organised in different parts of the world, the registered office being at Transport House, Westminster. It was formed in 1921, when 17 or 18 unions came together and began operations under the title of Transport and General Workers' Union. The Irish branch was started, and in 1923, after the proceedings before Judge Clery, the rules were altered adding the word "Amalgamated" to the name of the union in Ireland, and since that date it was so known in this country, and worked in co-operation with other unions for the benefit of the workers. His union had 68 branches in Ireland, 19 of them being in the Free State, while the membership for the whole of Ireland was 25,000, of which between 5,000 and 6,000 were in the Free State.

AFFILIATIONS

In reply to further questions, the witness said that his union was affiliated to the Dublin Trades Council, the Irish Labour Party and the Trades Union Congress, and to a number of workers' councils throughout the provinces.

Mr. Lavery—And on each of these do representatives of your union and the representatives of the plaintiff union sit side by side in conference?—Yes.

And were there ever complaints from any of these bodies as to the possible confusion of your title up to this?—There was never a hint of a complaint.

Have you sat on these bodies as representing your union?—Yes, on the Irish Labour Party and the Trades Union Congress, of which I am a member of the executive.

Answering further questions, the witness said that his union had carried through negotiations with the Minister for Industry and Commerce with regard to labour conditions, and his union had been recognised by the Minister as representing the workers' interests. There were representations made to the Minister by his union under the Road Traffic Act, 1935, regarding working conditions in the 'bus industry. He had also been appointed by the Minister for Industry and Commerce, on the nomination of the Trades Union Congress, as adviser to the Saorstat delegate attending the International Labour Convention at Geneva. Within the last twelve months his union had been in negotiation with the plaintiff union in regard to the conditions of working of the employés of the Tram Company.

In reply to Mr. Justice Meredith, the witness said that, since 1922, his union was always known as the "Amalgamated" Union, and was so described in all the publications relating to the Trades Union Congresses attended by delegates of his and the other unions.

Mr. Lavery—Have you or any other official of your union every represented that your union was the Irish Transport Union, or sought to bring about confusion?—No, and I do not desire that any confusion should take place. It would hurt the class we belong to, and it is our job to protect the working classes at all times and in all cases.

A FUNDAMENTAL PRINCIPLE

Have you ever endeavoured to "poach" members of the other union?—Never.

Is it a principle of the trades union movement that unions should respect each other's identity and membership?—It is a fundamental principle.

The witness said that he never heard, until Mr. O'Brien stated it in the witness-box, that the Irish Transport Union had withdrawn the circular of the secretary of the No. 1 Branch of the plaintiff union in which he appealed to all 'bus workers in the defendant union to change over to the plaintiff union. That it had been withdrawn would not appear to be borne out by subsequent events, because 800 tram and 'bus workers went over to the plaintiff union.

In reply to Mr. Justice Meredith, the witness said that, as regards "poaching" of trade union members, Ireland was no worse than other countries. But his friends on the other side had mixed things up that were not suitable for mixing. They had lowered a sacred claim by making it a trade union squabble in regard to this country.

Witness said that there had come under his notice on one occasion personal letters—not circulars—written by the Secretary of the Castlebar branch of the plaintiff union to members of witness's union, inviting them to a meeting at which new members of the plaintiff union would be enrolled. The letters stated: "If you are a member of the A.T.G.W.U. there are special facilities for you."

Mr. Lavery—That, of course, is poaching with the gloves off, if one may mix his metaphors. (Laughter.)

LETTER OF PROTEST

Witness said that in December, 1933, he wrote to Mr. William O'Brien, General Secretary of the plaintiff union, protesting with regard to this series of letters, and asking him if he took responsibility for this effort to "poach" members of witness's union, and stating that the duty of both unions was to organise the unorganised workers. Mr. O'Brien replied that witness seemed to be under a misapprehension about the relations between their respective unions. No agreement or understanding of any kind existed between the two unions.

No complaint, said witness, regarding alleged breaches by his union of the Dail Court injunction was received until a letter was received from the solicitors for the plaintiff union in June, 1934. There was no evidence of any officer of witness's union having ever represented himself to be a member of the plaintiff union. The solicitor for witness's union wrote, in reply, that they had no desire to use the restrained title in the Free State; they had adopted the title "Amalgamated" to comply with the Dail Court decision, and, as they had not received a complaint for twelve years, they saw no ground for making a change.

Witness produced documents printed for use by his union in this country, all of which bore the title "Amalgamated."

In cross-examination by Mr. Costello, witness said that he had formerly been an official of the Workers' Union, which became amalgamated with the defendant union in 1929. Before 1929 he had been associated with the defendant union in general trade union practice. When the Dail Court decision was given witness was in consultation with officers of the then Transport and General Workers' Union. Before 1929 the Workers' Union had had about 2,000 members in the Free State.

Would it be more like a couple of hundred?—I would say 2,000.

Why was it you purported to tell his lordship that Judge Clery intimated that he would be satisfied with the expression "amalgamated"?—I had been so informed by men in Dublin.

In other words, you purported to give that as mere hearsay?—Yes.

"SACRED CLAIMS"

You used a very high-sounding expression about sacred claims—what were these sacred claims?—That trade unions associated together in the Irish Trade Union Congress should respect the constitution of that Congress and not by any action of theirs give other organised or unorganised workers cause to point the finger of scorn at us as trade unionists in this country.

That may mean something. Do you mean that you are against poaching by one trade union against another?—I think it is a reprehensible practice.

I suppose I might add this high-sounding expression—that you stand for international solidarity?—I do, of course; so does every respectable trade unionist.

Would it be in accordance with international solidarity if the trade union of which you are an official in Ireland tried to get Irish workers put out of work in England?—It would be a most reprehensible practice.

Further questioned by Mr. Costello, witness said that he understood that Mr. Bevan, the general secretary of his union, helped to found the Daily Herald.

IRISHMEN IN ENGLAND

Mr. Costello read a report in the Daily Herald of 26th July, 1935, headed, "Ban Urged on Irish Labour," stating that Irishmen were being imported into East Anglia for farm work, and that this was causing indignation, in view of the amount of unemployment among local people. It was added that a strong protest had been sent to the Ministry of Labour by a divisional officer of the Transport and General Workers' Union, who wrote: "Surely, the importation of Irishmen should stop." Counsel asked if that was in accordance with the high-sounding principle of international solidarity.

Witness—It is not.

Asked if there was a strike from 18th to 20th January, 1934, among members of his union in the Dublin United Tramways Company for the purpose of compelling the dismissal of workers who had joined the Irish Union, witness replied that the strike was for the purpose of maintaining discipline in their organisation.

Was the discipline that you refer to in order to keep men in your branch and prevent them from joining the Irish Union?—We were endeavouring at the stage to expel four members because they did not obey the rules of our organisation.

You will not answer the question—was the purpose of the strike to compel the dismissal of Tram Company workers who had joined the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union?—The purpose of the strike was to maintain our organisation, and if learned counsel puts it in the way he does, I say yes.

IN GALWAY

Did Galway flour milling workers who had been members of your union join the Irish Union in 1934, and, in consequence, did some of your members refuse to handle grain from the mill until they had rejoined your union? — I think something like that did happen.

Further questioned, witness said that he did not remember that workers of the Galway Tile Company were compelled to leave the Irish Union on a threat of refusal to handle materials by members of the defendant union, or if Galway builders' labourers who joined the Irish Union were not allowed to work by members of the defendant union. He denied that at a conference in Galway he said that the Tuam workers who had transferred to the Irish Union would not be allowed to work.

He would not deny that Mr. William O'Brien gave instructions for the withdrawal of a circular issued by a branch of the plaintiff union to employés of the Dublin United Tramways Company, but he had never got any word from Mr. O'Brien to that effect. The defendant union had branches in the Channel Islands, the Isle of Man, Gibraltar, Ireland, England, Scotland and Wales. It had about 25,000 members in Ireland.

Mr. Costello—Would it be correct to say that it is one of the most powerful unions in England?—I think it is the best union in this country or in any other country.

Asked if his union had not millions of pounds in reserve, Mr. Kyle said that he could not tell that without looking up the balances.

Mr. Costello—It is the largest in numbers, anyway?—It is about that.

And it is very strong financially?—I think it is very strong.

By reason of the financial soundness of your union you were able to offer greater benefits to those who joined your union—greater than those which are capable of being offered by the Irish union?—I do not think that that is true, speaking broadly; I think there is a slight difference in the benefits.

TRANSFERS

In your favour. I put it to you that you, coming here to poach members of the Irish union, are able to offer greater inducements to Irish workers to join your union?—I think they ought to join it. We have never offered free transfers and free immediate benefits, as the Irish union did during the tramway strike.

Has your membership here been on the increase or decrease?—I think it has decreased somewhat from last year.

Mr. Justice Meredith—In the Free State mainly, or was it equally distributed over the whole of Ireland?

Witness—The reduction took place principally in the twenty-six counties.

Answering Mr. Costello, witness denied that his union had stolen the title "Transport Workers' Union" from the plaintiff union. He said that he had heard that the plaintiff union, immediately after the adoption by the defendant union of the title "Transport and General Workers' Union," had made a strong protest against the use of it.

Mr. Costello—Did not you know that the use of the title here in competition with the Irish Union, which had been in existence for so many years, could create nothing but rivalry and bitterness in the trade union movement?—I do not see any necessity for rivalry or bitterness at all; there is no reason in the world why we should not all work in harmony one with the other in the cause of trade unionism.

Up to March, 1934, you had been using and broadcasting application for membership forms with the title of the union as registered in England on them?—Using, but not broadcasting, and for internal affairs only.

"MORE BOHEMIAN"

Mr. Edward P. Hart, national organiser of the defendant union, referring to the litigation in the Dail Courts in 1922, remarked that in the Republican Courts there was a little more bohemianism than in the present Courts. Immediately after the judgment was delivered in the Dail Courts the word "amalgamated" was prefixed to the name of witness's union. From that time he had in every way endeavoured loyally to carry out the intention of the Dail Court judgment. He had been particularly careful that the title used by his union should in no way deceive anyone into becoming a member. He was too proud of the good name of his union to have it associated with any other union.

Mr. FitzGerald produced a copy of The Record, the official organ of the defendant union, and said that the issue for September, 1934, stated that it was the organ of the Transport Workers' Union, while the October issue described it as the organ of the English union, with the added words, "known in Ireland as the Amalgamated Transport and General Workers' Union."

The witness stated that he could not say why the title was changed after the summons in the present case had been issued.

"STRICT LAW"

Mr. Justice Meredith said that he could not close his eyes to the fact that there was a warfare between the two unions outside, and recourse had been taken to the Court to decide a particular issue. The court would not consider any national issue that might be concerned, but would deal only with any legal questions involved, and the parties, having come to Court would get strict law. It seemed to him that the action would do neither of the parties any good, and if it went to another Court the finances of one of them must be seriously depleted by heavy costs.

Mr. Lavery said that when the attention of Mr. Bevan was first drawn to the complaint of the plaintiff union he promised to look into it, and if there was any laxity in the use of the word "Amalgamated" in the title to see that it did not occur again. From 1922 till 1934 there never was any complaint by the plaintiff union about the word "Amalgamated," or any suggestion that the similarity of the names caused any confusion, or that there was mala fides or misrepresentation on the part of the defendants. His clients had stood loyally by the order made by the late Judge Clery, and continued to assert their firm intention to observe that order both in the spirit and in the letter. "Although," he said, "this is a case in which both parties are before the Court—they are the plaintiffs and we are the defendants—if trade unions are presenting the disedifying spectacle to trade unionists in this country of coming into the Courts to battle with each other, it is not our fault. We are here to defend ourselves. I ask you to say that this is an attempt to use the Courts for an indirect purpose. The order they seek here is not going to advantage them in any other sense than that it may injure us."

Mr. Costello said that it was unfair that, at the close of this case, a suggestion of impropriety should be brought by counsel when the general secretary of the Irish union had not been given a chance to meet that charge. Such a charge ought to have been made at the opening of the case when Mr. O'Brien was in the box. "We have," he said, "produced here an abundance of evidence, the cumulative effect of which must be make it quite clear that these people were deliberately ignoring the order of Judge Clery, because they had lulled themselves into the belief that an Irish trade union would not come in and fight another union in a court of law. The Irish union was not anxious to spend the contributions of the workers in litigation, but the documents which have been produced conclusively demonstrate that they had no option but to come into court and have their rights ascertained."

DIFFERENT CODES

The position at present, he said, was that the trade union code differed in the Free State from that in Britain or Northern Ireland, and to suggest that a system was to continue by which an English trade union could acquire the full status of a registered trade union in a different State merely by recording under a system by which a Government official in one State was treated as subordinate to an official in the other was ridiculous and contrary to the Constitution. The whole of this system of recording depended upon there being a political entity known as the United Kingdom, and that had done by the board since the Free State attained its present constitutional status. It could not be consistent with the constitutional status that an official of the Free State Government should be treated as subordinate to an official of what was tantamount to a foreign Government.

Mr. Justice Meredith reserved judgment.

FIRED REVOLVER IN STREET

THREE YEARS' PENAL SERVITUDE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

Sentence of three years' penal servitude was passed by Mr. Marcus D. Begley, K.C., acting Recorder of Belfast, to-day on a young man, James Nolan, of Stanhope street, Belfast, who had been found guilty of having a revolver in his possession on July 17th last with intent to endanger life.

"You have been found guilty of a very serious offence," said the Acting Recorder, "as you went out into your street and fired four shots from a revolver. You might have injured some person or killed somebody, or stirred up a great deal more trouble than there was in the city at that time."

STRANDED SHIP RAIDED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

LETTERKENNY, Thursday.

A remarkable story of the attitude adopted by a large number of the islanders of Arranmore, off the Donegal coast, towards a Liverpool steamship that went aground on the sands in the vicinity of the islands has just been reported here. The ship Carlingford, bound for Ballina, sought shelter from last week's gale near Arranmore. The crew were safely landed and hospitably treated by the islanders.

A few days later, it was stated, a large number of local people boarded the vessel, removing a considerable quantity of the cargo of maize and salt. Fittings were forced off parts of the vessel, including the engine gauges and compass, and the ship extensively damaged. Twenty Civic Guards, under Superintendent O'Mahoney, Dungloe, visited the island and, following an exhaustive search of many of the houses, a quantity of cargo and fittings has been recovered.

STRIKING OF THE LISTOWEL RATE

COMMISSIONER SUED

THE LEGALITY OF A COUNCIL

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE JOHNSTON.)

AN action of Mr. Patrick Breen, of Church street, Listowel, and other ratepayers of that town, against Mr. J. P. Moran, the Commissioner exercising the powers and duties of the Listowel Urban District Council, and, by order, the Commissioners of Public Works, came before the Court on a motion for an interlocutory injunction to restrain Mr. Moran from striking any rate for the urban district of Listowel which made any provision for the payment of principal or interest on any loan obtained during the period from 26th June, 1928, until 25th June, 1934, and from striking any rate for the purpose of providing for the payment of principal or interest on any loan which exceeded the borrowing powers of the Council.

Mr. Jellett, K.C., Mr. Lavery, K.C., and Mr. Fionan Lynch (instructed by Messrs. M. J. Byrne and Co.) were for the plaintiffs; Mr. FitzGibbon, K.C., Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, K.C., and Mr. W. Binchy (instructed by Mr. R. A. Macaulay) for Mr. Moran; and Mr. Geoghegan, K.C., and Mr. I. J. Kelly (instructed by Mr. P. Coll) for the Commissioners of Public Works.

The parties, said Mr. Jellett, had agreed that the motion should be treated as the trial of the action. The object of the action was to restrain the Commissioner from striking any rate for the urban district of Listowel which made provision for the payment or principal or interest on any loan obtained during a period in which, as it was claimed, no legal urban district Council of Listowel was in existence; and from striking any rate for the purpose of providing for the payment of principal or interest on any loan which exceeded the borrowing powers of the Council.

Mr. Jellett read an affidavit of Mr. Patrick Breen, one of the plaintiffs, in which it was claimed that in June, 1925, the usual triennial election of members of the Listowel Urban District Council was held, and twelve members were elected. Within the next year or two several councillors were deemed to have vacated office by abstention, and two or three to have resigned office, with the result that for over six months before the termination of the period of office, the duties of the Council were being discharged by three members only. In June, 1928, another election was announced, but no nominations for it were received by the Returning Officer, and there was no election. The three members who had remained in the old council, which was elected in June, 1925, again attended the Council Chamber, and carried on as if they had been re-elected.

BORROWINGS

As there was no election in 1928, the affidavit continued, there was no legal council in existence during the period from June, 1928, to June, 1934. At the last-mentioned date a new council was elected. During the period from June, 1928, to June, 1934, the three members who had remained on the old council borrowed from the Board of Works a sum of £9,700 for the carrying out of a water supply scheme, known as the Lackagh Water Scheme, and the sum of £2,052 4s. 4d. from the National Bank, Ltd., described as "to supplement No. 1 account," which was the town rate revenue account with that bank. The total cost of the scheme, as far as could be ascertained, was £10,462. These loans were expended on the scheme, which proved a complete failure. A sum of £500 was also borrowed from the Board of Works for sewerage purposes. These loans were not only obtained without any authority whatever, but were also in excess of the borrowing powers of the council. On 13th August, 1935, the council which had been elected in June, 1934, was dissolved by the Minister for Local Government and Public Health, and the property, powers, and duties of the council were transferred to the defendants. On 3rd September, 1935, the defendants held a meeting and passed a resolution adopting a town rate estimate of 28s. in the £ for the year ending 31st March, 1936.

FOR REPAYMENTS

Among the rates mentioned in the notice was a rate of 22s. 11d. in the £, which included provision for the loans obtained for the water and sewerage schemes, and also for interest on £4,000 proposed to be borrowed from the National Bank, repayable over seven years, "to be raised to defray arrears of instalments of loans repayment."

The real point of the case was this, said Mr. Jellett, whether in view of the statutory provisions that the council must consist of not less than nine members, three members legally could perform the duties of the council.

Mr. Justice Johnston said that it was an extraordinary thing if the Board of Works would lend £9,700 to three men in the street.

Mr. Jellett—It is very remarkable, but the authorities were aware of what had occurred.

An affidavit of Mrs. Annie Gleeson, Clerk to Listowel Urban District Council for 20 years, was read by Mr. Jellett. It referred to the election of members of the council in 1925 and the subsequent resignation and disqualification of a number of them and went on to deal with the notice of election in 1928. On that occasion, stated Mrs. Gleeson, no candidates were nominated for election, and she, as returning officer, in the exercise of her statutory functions, declared the only existing members of the outgoing council, who were then retiring, as duly elected members of the council for the ensuing term of office.

None of the loans referred to exceeded, stated Mrs. Gleeson, the borrowing powers of the council. The plaintiffs had no real cause of action, and the proceedings, she believed, had been instituted for the purpose of obstructing the Commissioner in administering the affairs of the council. An injunction would seriously hamper such administration, and she asked that an injunction should not be granted.

Mr. Justice Johnston asked in what way had the waterworks scheme been a failure.

"NO WATER"

Mr. Jellett—The water was not there. A water scheme without water is not very attractive.

Further affidavits were read in relation to the election and the resignation of members, borrowing transactions by the council, and the borrowing powers of the council; and one affidavit, by Mr. Jeremiah Buckley, who was chairman of the council in 1934, stated that when Mr. Buckley took office the finances of the council were in a most embarrassing state. The water scheme had been rushed through and proved an utter failure.

Mr. Justice Johnston—That all represents a nice mess.

Mr. Jellett—I am afraid so; in fact, it is a mess of a character I have never come across before.

In reply to Mr. Justice Johnston, Mr. Jellett said that the order appointing Mr. Moran Commissioner was dated 13th August, 1935, and the order came into operation on the following day.

Mr. Jellett then passed on to the pleadings in the action. The plaintiffs claimed a declaration that Messrs. Thomas J. Walsh, Edward J. Gleeson and Patrick Brown did not constitute a valid council of Listowel urban district during the period from June, 1928 till June, 1934; that the moneys borrowed by them, purporting to act as the Listowel Urban District Council, were borrowed without lawful authority; that the moneys borrowed during the period mentioned were in excess of the borrowing powers of the Council and were not a liability on the urban district; and the injunction already referred to.

Mr. Moran, in his defence, stated that the returning officer gave public notice that the three persons named in the statement of claim had been deemed to be re-elected as required by the Local Elections Order, 1928, and no nominations having been received for the election in June, 1928, the retiring members were deemed to be re-elected, and constituted a lawful urban council. These three persons constituted a quorum. The moneys were not borrowed by them, but by the Urban Council; and the loans were not obtained without lawful authority, and were not in excess of the borrowing powers of the Council.

That, said Mr. Jellett, was the whole pith of the defence—that these three people had been duly re-elected and were capable of carrying out the duties of the Council, which the statute said must consist of at least nine members. He never had heard of a quorum of a non-existing body.

Mr. Justice Johnston—Mr. Moran is in a very embarrassing position. He is not responsible for what took place.

Mr. Jellett—No, but he is trying to strike a rate for these moneys.

A WILLING DEFENDANT

Mr. Justice Meredith—I suppose he comes here as a willing defendant for the purpose of having matters decided.

Mr. Jellett said that he supposed so. He asked the Court, in the circumstances, to make the declarations asked for by the plaintiffs, and to grant the injunction.

Mr. FitzGibbon, for Mr. Moran, said that there were only two points in the case: one, that these loans were raised by an illegally-constituted or non-existent body; and the other that, assuming that there was a legally-constituted body, and that these loans were validly raised, the Council had exceeded its borrowing powers. He submitted that there had not been any borrowing in excess of the borrowing powers of the Council; and in regard to the election, he quoted from Section 56 of the English Municipal Corporation Act, 1882, the provision that: "If there is no valid nomination the retiring councillors shall be deemed to be re-elected."

None of the persons who had resigned had, continued Mr. FitzGibbon, sufficiently complied with the formalities required by the provisions of Sections 10 and 12 of the Application of Enactments Order to make valid a declaration of vacancy of office, and any declaration of vacancy, in the absence of full compliance with these provisions, was abortive.

Mr. FitzGibbon had not concluded his argument when the Court rose, and the further hearing was adjourned until a date to be fixed later.

THREE MONTHS IN JAIL

PRISONER'S PLEA OVERRULED

Michael Conway, Mary street, Clonmel, was yesterday sent to prison for three months by the Military Tribunal for possessing, without a firearms certificate, nine rounds of revolver ammunition. The Tribunal ordered that the sentence should date from the day of arrest, and should not be enforced if Conway gave an undertaking before a District Justice to keep the peace for twelve months. Conway replied that he refused to enter into any recognisance whatever; that he would make no apology for holding arms or ammunition as a member of the Irish Republican Army, and that he would continue to do so.

Mr. Kevin Haugh prosecuted for the Attorney-General (instructed by Mr. John S. O'Connor).

Conway, when indicted, said that he did not recognise the Court's authority.

Detective-Guard John Tobin and Guard Collins, of Clonmel, gave evidence of searching Conway's house and finding a locked box, which, when forced open, was found to contain three rounds of ordinary .45 revolver ammunition and six rounds of .455, apparently of the old Smith and Wesson type. Conway said that it was not his private property, but the property of the I.R.A.

A submission by the prisoner that he was in illegal custody because the notice that he would be tried by the Tribunal had been dated "11th November 1935," was not accepted by the President. The prisoner said that under the "Coercion Act" he should have received the notice within 72 hours after his arrest, whereas the document seemed to show that he was not served with it for a month and two days after his arrest.

When the prisoner had been found guilty, Superintendent Feore gave evidence that there was no previous conviction, and that the prisoner's character was good.

Having given their decision, the Tribunal adjourned until to-day.

WEATHER FORECAST

General Inference.—A trough of low pressure over Great Britain is filling up, and the rain associated with it is dying out. Another trough is approaching West Ireland, while an anti-cyclone is centred over Scandinavia. There will be occasional rain in western districts. In the east there will be considerable cloud and local showers, chiefly near the coasts.

Ireland—Moderate or fresh south wind, veering; occasional rain at first; bright intervals and showers later; average temperature.

Sea Passages.—Moderate south wind; occasional rain; bright intervals; visibility good; sea slight.

Dance Halls

During the past ten or twelve years various authorities in the Free State, anxious to preserve national morality at its highest possible point, have been engaged in attempts to abolish anything that tends to lower it. The evil effects of some films, for example, were counterbalanced by a very stringent censorship, and an equally close watch has been kept on imported books. The theatre—still uncensored—is eyed with disapproval by more than one reformer; but by far the greatest anxiety within the last few years has been caused by the dance halls. Undoubtedly, a very strong prima facie case can be made for their closer supervision, and the attitude adopted towards them by the clergy in all parts of the Free State shows that they raise a definite problem. Expressed in its simplest terms, the case against the dance halls is that they are a powerful cause of temptation, especially in the country districts. Men and young girls, it is held, meet in these dance halls, under little or no supervision; drink flows freely, and many of the halls remain open until the early hours of the morning. In addition, some of the girls must travel for a comparatively long distance before they reach their homes again, and the presence of young men in motor cars or "motor hawks," as one District Justice has described them—adds a further complication. Can one doubt that, if these factors are present, immorality will be encouraged? If all the statements made at the District Courts are correct, dancing is one of the great causes of evil in modern Ireland, and the harm that it brings far outweighs its benefits. Almost every week applications for dance hall licences are being opposed on these general grounds, and the frequency of this opposition cannot be disregarded; for there seldom is smoke without a fire.

Sympathy with the reformers, however, tends to be weakened by the manner in which their case so often is presented, and the irrelevant issues which are dragged in to support it. The average citizen of Dublin may be prepared to believe that some dance halls really are a moral menace, but his attitude is likely to be changed when he reads that the reason for their badness is that dancing itself is immoral. Having attended dances himself, he is surprised—and, perhaps, rather amused—to learn that he has been indulging in a dangerous pastime, calculated to rouse all his baser passions. The atmosphere of almost painful respectability at most dances in Dublin contrasts strongly with the assertion that modern dancing is indecent and suggestive, and that even the tunes to which it is performed are capable of great moral harm. In a number of cases, indeed, it seems to have been assumed that the dance hall problem hardly would exist at all if it were not for the popularity of "jazz," and that, given Gaelic dances and tunes, a much higher standard of propriety would follow almost automatically. Others, again, go farther. "I never yet met a man proficient in dancing," said Mr. District Justice O'Donoghue a few weeks ago at Tullamore, "who was proficient in anything else. It argues misspent youth, to start with." Speaking on the evils of dancing at an even more recent date, the Bishop of Ross remarked: "Of all the amusements, there seems to be a curse on dancing since the days of John the Baptist. . . . Seldom can a person attend a dance without catching something of the immoral sense." In our opinion, such an approach to the problem is mistaken. There seems to be little reason to assume that dancing—whether ballroom dancing or the native variety—is intrinsically wrong, and that immorality could be kept in check if dances were abolished. It is not dancing itself which is dangerous, but the opportunity which it may give for immorality.

If the opportunities should be taken away would the moral standard improve? Undoubtedly it would—and yet the reply must be qualified. Nobody contends that many young and ignorant people have not been led astray because of the dance hall, or that alcohol and a complete absence of supervision have not led to licence before now. The protests throughout the country have been a proof that something was wrong, and that a greater measure of control was needed. Furthermore, no real solution to the problem could be found if it should be left in the hands of individual District Justices, whose opinions on its danger seem to differ in a wide and rather perplexing manner. State legislation was the obvious answer, and the Public Dance Halls Act of this year seems to have gone as far towards control as was reasonably possible. Nevertheless, if the abuses continue the answer is not necessarily that the control should be increased, or that dancing should be forbidden altogether. It seems an obvious solution, perhaps, but all experience shows that it is founded on a fallacy. One cannot make people moral by Act of Parliament: Cromwell's Puritanism was followed by one of the most dissolute reigns in English history, and the prohibition of alcohol in America by a marked increase in drinking. Rigid censorship, rigid prohibitions, will have the opposite of their intended effect if they are carried too far. In the matter of immorality, a closer watch upon the dance halls may do something to abate it, but the only real solution lies with the people themselves. We agree with Dr. Horgan, who gave his views on the subject at the Joint Synod of Dublin, Glendalough and Kildare on Wednesday. "I think there is only one way to keep the people upright," he said, "and that is to educate our young people, and bring them up with a sound religious and moral education."

The North-West Mounted

There was a time when the snow-swept wilds of Canada were the refuge of many a decorative, if dirty, brigand. Bad men with threatening names fled into the frozen North, there to hoard the nuggets torn from the belt of a murdered prospector till time should heal the indignation of the authorities. As the goldfields spread ever wider, however, and violent robbery increased proportionately, the fleeing bandits found that they were being followed into the icy wildernesses by relentless men in red tunics. The Royal Canadian Mounted Police had come upon the scene. The slayings continued, but the slayer inevitably was brought to justice, perhaps in a week, perhaps in six months; and the saying was born in the Yukon: "The Mounties get their man." There was something intensely dramatic about these lonely battles; for in those days the red-coated figures hunted alone. For long weeks they trailed their man across trackless plains of ice and snow, menaced by wolves at night, suffering agonies of cold by day. Capture was inevitable, but the Mountie's task then was only beginning. His prisoner had to be brought back to civilisation across the frozen leagues that both lately had traversed. Waking and sleeping, the Mountie had to mount guard over his prisoner. In those long, strange journeys sometimes a firm friendship sprang up between hunter and hunted, and dramatic was the nature of their parting when the outpost was reached. It is sad to think that such encounters now are no more; for the bandits of the North-West, in 1935, seek their pickings in the big cities to the South. The slayers themselves have changed. Pomaded Sicilians, with needle-pointed shoes and sub-machine guns, have taken the place of the old-time bearded desperado, and when the chase becomes too hot they creep into the safety of back bedrooms in Toronto slums, forgetting the example of their forbears, who harnessed huskies to the sleighs, and made for the Arctic Circle. There are 2,573 men in the force to-day, but only 64 of them are in active service in the Northland. Motor cars, lorries and motor bicycles are playing an important part in their transport, and it is rumoured horribly that instruction in horsemanship may be discontinued entirely. Industrial disputes, smuggling and boot-leggers now occupy the time of the Mounties, and they have eleven cruisers and eight motor boats with which to pursue rum-runners. There is a silver lining, however, to all this unromantic information. The spirit that drove the Mounties to get their man in the past is not dead. In the depths of last winter, with the temperature steadily 55 degrees below zero, two constables made a 700-mile patrol to investigate the death of a native woman. Where civilisation and eight-cylinder motor cars become impotent, the Mounties and the dog sleighs only are beginning.

Under the Hammer

We have received a catalogue of the equipment and contents of the Olympic, now lying in the docks at Jarrow-on-Tyne ready for the ship-breakers. It is an absorbing, if a somewhat pathetic, document. Under such headings as "The Wheel House," "Printer's Shop," and "Potato Wash Place" appear extensive lists of the most varied objects. Lot 1 comes from the "Engineers' Smoke-room"—a pair of mahogany frame settees; and lot 4456, the last, may be found on the foredeck, and consists of a 30 hundredweight electric crane. One could furnish the most opulent mansion many times over from this great ship, now deemed past her prime. The contents of Georgian, Louis XVI., and Dutch cabins may be bought outright; a Parisian café is for sale; a market must be found for painted and gilt balustrades with tied acanthus margins, for a frosted glass oval dome in ornamental painted iron, designed in husk festoons, and for the pale blue first class main staircase, with reeded gilt wood handrails and carved floral swags. Mantelpieces with floral cornucopia; panelling embossed with egg and tongue moulding, and a wild profusion of beds, basins, cocktail bars, hair bolsters and Turkish baths are laid out for sale. One may purchase in lot 410 a soap-holder, or, from lot 4294, an iron two-division coal bunker, seven feet wide. From lot 190 a red rep curtain is obtainable, and from lot 4143 a ship's lifeboat for 86 persons. It all sounds like a department store gone mad. A study of the catalogue, however, reveals an amount of exciting detail about the furnishings of the captain's cabin and other rooms, wherein men have lived to whom the Olympic was the finest ship afloat. In the captain's sitting-room there are an Axminster pink-figured carpet and an oak chair with a tapestry seat. We wonder if these were in the room when the captain came wearily back to his quarters after the rescue of the torpedoed H.M.S. Audacious. Did Commodore Sir Bertram Hayes drop into the oaken armchair after he rammed the enemy submarine in the Channel on that May day in 1918? Did the troops for Gallipoli admire the smoking-room panelling? The Olympic, as she now stands, is history, and it is sad to think that soon she will have been divided into countless pieces of furniture for other people's homes.

"Aeroplanes and Parts"

During the nine months that ended in September, 1934, the Free State imported "aeroplanes and parts (excepting sparking plugs)" to a value of £17,388. That small figure shows how little interest she took in aviation last year; but what are we to think of this year's record? During the nine months that ended last month her total import under the same heading totalled £1,634 in value. Possibly, President de Valera is pleased with such a reduction of imports; but nobody who is anxious for the progress of Irish aviation will share his satisfaction. It is a pitiful thing, indeed, that, when every other nation in the world seeks to encourage air travel, the Free State's interest should be so small. In Germany one can travel by air at little more than first-class railway fare. In aviation, admittedly, Germany is ahead of all other nations; yet even the smallest country of continental Europe has decided long ago that its airways are worthy of the closest attention and the fullest development. Cheap and comfortable air services would be a boon to the Free State, whose connections with other lands are, at their best, complicated: and the news that a Dublin-London service may be expected to run in the near future is welcome. More important, however, than the establishment of any particular service is the fostering of what is called the "air mind" among our people. The majority of Irishmen look upon air travel as a novelty—some, even, as a transient craze—and do not realise that in some parts of the world it is as ordinary as travel by rail or road. Some day, perhaps, private aeroplanes will be almost as common here as motor-cars are now. Whether that day will arrive soon or late depends entirely on the activities of such excellent bodies as the aero clubs; and their work must not be allowed to languish. We have observed with regret that the Irish Aero Club, through lack of members and the absence of Government support, is in financial trouble. That fact reflects little credit on the foresight either of the people or of the Government, and we hope that the club will have a happier tale to tell at its next annual meeting.

LONDON LETTER

BRITISH DEFENCES

59 FLEET STREET, LONDON,
THURSDAY NIGHT.

THERE has been a good deal of comment on a significant phrase used by the Prime Minister in the course of his speech last night when, speaking of the necessity of a strengthening of our defence services for the sake of international peace and not for selfish ends, he added: "I tell members opposite quite frankly that they cannot realise the importance of what I am saying until they stand in my place." The knowledge possessed by Mr. Baldwin is of such a character that he is determined that the armaments issue shall be kept to the forefront in the election policy of the Government. It seems that it has been made almost humiliatingly clear to British Ministers during the past few weeks that Great Britain's partial disarmament has weakened her influence for peace. At one time the international situation was so delicate that it caused great anxiety to those responsible for the defence of the country.

Election Plans

The National Party intend to lose no time in making their appeal to the country, and their campaign will open to-morrow evening, when Mr. Baldwin gives a broadcast address on the national programme at 9.40. The party's election manifesto will be published in the newspapers on Saturday. Mr. Baldwin intends to address four meetings at Leeds, Liverpool, Wolverhampton, and Newcastle, and arrangements are being made for other leaders to speak at big gatherings in the provinces. No fewer than fifty constituencies are without National Party candidates, but it is hoped that this deficiency will be made good by next week. The Labour Party claim to have 524 candidates against 537 representing all sections of the National Party.

The King's Prerogative

Mr. Baldwin paid a visit to the King at Buckingham Palace this morning, his arrival being watched by a big crowd. The King will preside over two meetings of the Privy Council to-morrow, and at the first the proclamation proroguing Parliament will be signed. In the afternoon a second proclamation dissolving Parliament will be signed and issued to the country. This is one of the few prerogatives left to the Sovereign, since he can sign or withhold his signature as seems best to him.

A Move Towards Peace

M. Laval, who on several occasions has endeavoured to promote a peaceful settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian trouble, is making a further effort, and proposes that the Committee of Five should be convened so that Italy might put forward a full statement of her case. A peace settlement could be arranged within the framework of this Committee if such a step became possible, and, therefore, the meeting of this body could be regarded as a hopeful sign. Italy seems to be in a mood to listen to suggestions, even if she is not willing to accept them, and the coming operation of sanctions is regarded in Rome with considerable nervousness. The Italian people are beginning to realise that nearly the whole world is opposed to their venture in Abyssinia, and resent the position in which they find themselves.

Troops in Libya

The decision of Signor Mussolini to withdraw a division from Libya by no means impresses military circles here. It is maintained that, according to official information, there are five, and not three, divisions in the Italian colony, if the normal garrison is taken into consideration. This means an aggregate of some 60,000 men, with a large air force in addition. It is also pointed out that it appears to be the intention of Signor Mussolini not to recall a division to Italy, but to remove it to the neighbouring colony of Tripoli, so that in case of need it could be sent back to the Egyptian frontier in a very short space of time. Military opinion is that the troops should be returned to Italy.

A Naval Conference

Invitations to a Naval Conference, to take place in London on December 2, were sent out to-day by the Government to the Ambassadors of the United States, France, Italy and Japan. The Dominions have not been directly invited, but it is understood that their position in connection with the Naval Treaties is fully recognised, and they may be represented at the conference if they desire. Mr. Dulanty, in common with the other High Commissioners, has been informed of the proposal to summon the conference. It is probable that the Ambassadors of the great Naval Powers will represent their countries, assisted by naval experts.

Lord De Clifford's Trial

The intimation by the Lord Chancellor that the ordinary lay peers need not be present at the forthcoming trial of Lord De Clifford has been noted by the parliamentary whips of the House of Lords, and they intend to exercise their persuasive powers so that the attendance may be confined to purely legal authorities. It is probable that the trial will be the last of its kind, as it is recognised that such a proceeding is scarcely worth the expenditure incurred. Several Conservative peers are arranging to bring in a motion in the House of Lords to put an end to this old-fashioned method of procedure. Such a motion would certainly receive the support of any Government.

An Ancient Clock

Fleet street, one of the places where people are always in a hurry, experienced quite a shock to-day, when the ancient clock of St. Dunstan's in the West returned to its former abode after an exile of over one hundred years. It is a barrel clock with two figures, which strike the hours on bells with clubs. An unveiling ceremony was performed by Mr. Cecil Harmsworth, whose brother, Lord Rothermere, has restored the clock and figures to the church. The clock was made by Thomas Harrys in 1671, and was placed on the church as a thank-offering that it had been spared in the Great Fire. In 1830 the church was rebuilt, and the clock was sold to the Marquess of Hertford, who used it to decorate his house, St. Dunstan's, in Regent's Park. The house was bought recently by Lord Rothermere, who decided to return the clock to its former surroundings. Throughout the afternoon crowds stopped to hear the clock chime the hours, and traffic for a few minutes had to be suspended.

Motor Racing

The Royal Automobile Club has issued the list of fixtures comprising the international calendar for 1936. For next year Great Britain has fifteen international dates, the R.A.C. taking two for the Tourist Trophy Race in Ireland and the Mannin Races in the Isle of Man. Brooklands has four meetings, the Junior Car Club two—the International Trophy Race at Brooklands, and the Club's classic 200 miles race, which is being revived, with Donington as the venue. The B.R.D.C. will run the Empire Trophy Race and the 500 miles. There will be the customary two meetings at Shelsley Walsh, and the Derby and District Club will have two international meetings. The County Down Trophy Race has again been allotted to the Ulster Automobile Club, making two car races in Northern Ireland.

ST. PHILIP'S PARISH CHURCH

The preacher at St. Philip's Parish Church, Temple road, Rathmines, next Sunday morning will be Mr. S. Chen, the Chinese Principal of Trinity College, Foo-Chow.

PEACE REPORTS AND DENIALS

"SECRET NEGOTIATIONS IN FULL SWING"

PARIS JOURNALISTS' VARIED VERSIONS

ITALIAN SWING TOWARDS LEAGUE OF NATIONS

ACCORDING to the Press Association's Paris Correspondent, peace negotiations, with M. Laval, French Premier, taking the initiative, are in full swing between Paris, London and Rome. The same authority states that these negotiations "are being conducted according to the most classical conditions of secret diplomacy."

Yesterday the "Paris Soir" published proposals which M. Jules Sauerwein, the veteran publicist, declared had been communicated to the British Ambassador in Paris by M. Laval. These were virtually a surrender to Italy of most of her demands in Abyssinia.

Inquiries in Paris and Rome elicited prompt denials of this report. The Paris communiqué, issued by the Quai d'Orsay, was worded so as to confine itself to denying that M. Laval communicated proposals to Sir George Clerk, the British Ambassador. The Press Association regards this fact as noteworthy. In "L'Intransigeant" another version of peace suggestions appeared.

In his newspaper article last night Signor Gayda, usually the mouthpiece of Signor Mussolini, stresses Italian devotion to the League in a way which emphasised the Italian swing towards Geneva, noticeable in the last two or three days.

The Press Association Rome Correspondent reported that it was virtually admitted there that an agreement was likely on the withdrawal of troops from Libya in return for British withdrawals of ships in the Mediterranean. On top of this came the announcement that the withdrawal of one division from Libya had been ordered by the Italian Government.

"A WILD ACCUSATION"

Winding up the debate on foreign affairs, in the House of Commons last night, Sir John Simon (Home Secretary) said:—

In a certain quarter that morning there was published an amazing statement—that the Government had abandoned overnight their policy of wholehearted co-operation with the League, and that they were now negotiating, behind the back of the League, with France and Italy a settlement which the League would then be asked to accept, and to which Abyssinia would be told to agree.

The suggestion was that there was some intrigue afoot between London, Rome and Paris, to present the League with a fait accompli, which would be detrimental to one of the parties, and inconsistent with the principles of the League itself. There was no truth whatever in this wild accusation. From the very beginning of the dispute the whole policy of the Government had been directed towards promoting a settlement which would not only lie within the Covenant, but would be acceptable to the two disputing parties.

The Government, he proceeded, had no intention of wavering in giving effect, as a member of a collective system, to their obligations under the Covenant. They hoped there would be a satisfactory conclusion, but it must be one within the framework of the League, and accepted by the three parties—Italy, Abyssinia and the League.

TROOPS ORDERED FROM LIBYA

PRESS ASSOCIATION WAR SPECIAL.

PARIS, Thursday.

Italy is now waiting for the move of a single piece on the chess board before declaring herself in the frame of mind to discuss honourable peace terms. That piece is a British knight or castle at present stationed in the Mediterranean. The move is also hourly expected.

In the meantime French journalists in close touch with the Premier state that he is already in possession of what might be termed "tentacular hints" from Signor Mussolini.

M. Laval received Sir George Clerk this morning. The veteran diplomatist, M. Sauerwein, writing in the Paris Soir, states that the French Premier communicated these "suggestions" to the British Ambassador.

The Quai d'Orsay issued a denial. "There has not yet been any question of such suggestions in M. Laval's conversations." The accent is on the word "yet." There is no denying that the suggestions have been received. There is, indeed, good ground for believing they have.

SIR JOHN SIMON.

Their exact nature cannot be known to more than two or three persons, including M. Laval and Signor Mussolini, and it is probable that they have not yet been—officially at least—handed to the British Government.

ONE VERSION

The version of these suggestions which obtains the widest credence is that given by L'Intransigeant. It is:

(1) Annexation by Italy of the territory already occupied by Italy.

(2) An Italian mandate, under the auspices of the League, over the non-Amharic provinces in Abyssinia.

(3) An international condominium with preponderant Italian influence over the Amharic provinces.

M. Sauerwein, who has just returned from Rome, where he saw Signor Mussolini several times, gives a somewhat different version.

The net result is that things are moving. The atmosphere is clearer. The French and British Governments are working more closely together than ever. Britain and Italy are less estranged, and M. Laval is manœuvring, silently and patiently, to bring about a peace settlement within the framework of the League of Nations.

British quarters in Paris state that it is not for them to issue a denial of a French newspaper report regarding the French Premier's conversation.

NO MOVE BY DUCE

AGREEMENT LIKELY WHEN SHIPS GO

ROME, Thursday.

While it is virtually admitted here that an agreement is likely on the withdrawal of Italian divisions from Libya in exchange for the withdrawal of British naval units from the Mediterranean, it is denied that Signor Mussolini has made definite proposals for a settlement of the Abyssinian dispute.

Late to-night it was officially stated that Italy had ordered the withdrawal of one division from Libya, and that this "was an independent action of the Italian Government, without a similar undertaking having been given by Great Britain."

It is believed in some quarters that the Duce has hinted at the general lines along which agreement of the Abyssinian question might be reached.

It may be assumed that Italy will demand possession of the province of Harar, which is believed to be potentially rich in oil and minerals. Moreover, the province of Tigre has already been proclaimed to be Italian soil "for ever."

From the outset of the dispute Italian newspapers have published maps showing "Abyssinia proper," the Amharic provinces and the outlying provinces which were conquered by the Emperor Menelik. The Emirate of Harar is placed among the last, having been conquered in 1887. Italy claims, therefore, that Abyssinia has no real right to the province at all.

ABYSSINIANS WATCH

ADDIS ABABA, Thursday.

Despite the fact that Government quarters here declare that diplomatic negotiations no longer interest them, they are, in fact, following very closely the conversations that are going on in Europe.

Meanwhile, it is stressed that Abyssinia relies wholly on the League, and that, although every attempt will be made to throw the Italians back to the frontier, the Abyssinians will never themselves attack Italian possessions.

BRITISH RELATIONS WITH FREE STATE

"NO DEVELOPMENTS"

Mr. W. Lunn (Labour) having asked the Secretary for Dominion Affairs whether he had any statement to make as to British relations with the Irish Free State,

Mr. J. H. Thomas writes in reply—"There have been no developments in the general situation since my honourable friend last put a question to me on this subject."

MARKETING OF BACON

NEW ORDERS MADE BY BOARD

HIGHER BOUNTY ON LIVE PIGS

THERE was a meeting of the Bacon Marketing Board yesterday at the offices in Upper Mount street, Dublin.

The Board made a second Production Order and a second Home Sales Order applicable to the month of November. The provisions of these Orders will not be made public for some days.

There was a meeting of the Pigs Marketing Board yesterday. The business was formal.

INCREASED BOUNTY ON LIVE PIGS

The following statement was issued yesterday evening through the Government Information Bureau:—

"The Department of Agriculture announce that, in order to relieve the present surplus of heavy pigs in the country, the export bounty on live pigs exported through Saorstat ports with quota certificates will be increased as from Monday, the 28th inst., until the 30th November, 1935, to 33⅓ per cent. ad valorem.

"For the period mentioned the export bounty on live pigs exported through Saorstat ports without quota certificates will be increased to 32 per cent. ad valorem.

"The export bounty on live pigs exported over the land frontier into Northern Ireland will remain at 10 per cent. ad valorem."

The existing bounty on pigs exported through the ports, with or without quota certificates, is 28 per cent.

EXPORT OF FAT CATTLE

WARNING AGAINST OUT-OF-DATE LICENCES

In connection with the recent announcement in the Press regarding the validity of licences issued by the British Board of Trade for the importation of fat cattle into Great Britain and Northern Ireland, the Minister for Agriculture desires to remind owners of fat cattle and shippers that licences dated August, 1935, or any previous month are invalid. Cattle imported into the United Kingdom on such licences are liable to forfeiture.

Persons having out-of-date licences should furnish particulars of them on the appropriate form, and return them to the Department of Agriculture not later than 7th November, 1935. The question of the replacement of licences received after that date cannot be considered.

Forms may be obtained on application to the Secretary, Department of Agriculture, Upper O'Connell street, Dublin.

NORTHERN BACON BOARD

OPERATIONS COME TO AN END

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

The Northern Bacon Marketing Board has ceased to function, and an application is to be made in the courts for the appointment of a liquidator for its statutory winding up. It is understood that the Ulster Curers' Association will become recognised by the Government as the body entitled to handle the interests of curers in Northern Ireland. Under the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1933 a bacon marketing scheme for Northern Ireland was outlined, and subsequently the Bacon Marketing Board was set up with a tenure of two years as from October 1, 1933.

THE NEW COUNCIL

The Board has not had a happy career. Shortly after its establishment, and following some piquant correspondence with the Ministry, its first chairman, Mr. Kenneth D. L. Sinclair, resigned the chairmanship, although continuing his membership. His successor was Mr. J. D. Caruth, J.P., of Ballymena. Since the inception of the Board the Pig Industry Council has been set up. On this body there are three representatives of the Bacon Marketing Board. It is understood that the view of the Ministry is that the establishment of the Pig Industry Council has rendered the existence of the Bacon Board unnecessary, as the larger body fulfilled the functions which the Bacon Board was established to discharge.

Meetings of the registered curers in Northern Ireland have been held to consider the position, and a further important meeting of the executive committee of the Curers' Association will be held on Monday, when the latest phases of the situation will be considered.

BOARD DISSOLVED

The Ministry of Agriculture is desirous of furthering the effectiveness of the Curers' Association, and are agreeable to collect from members of the Association contributions in respect of the pigs they cure, together with other sums payable under other heads.

The members of the Association will shortly be communicated with on the subject, as without their consent the proposed scheme could not bt carried through.

In the meantime, however, the Bacon Marketing Board, as it formerly existed, has been dissolved.

The President of the Ulster Curers' Association is Mr. Kenneth D. L. Sinclair, the first chairman of the Bacon Board.

FOREST FIRES IN CALIFORNIA

FILM COLONY IN PATH OF BLAZE

FROM REUTER'S CORRESPONDENT.

LOS ANGELES, Thursday.

Earthquake tremors and forest fires threatened the district around Los Angeles to-day. While the earthquake was not strong enough to cause damage, the outbreak of forest fires brought injuries to scores of persons and wrecked property to a loss of millions of dollars.

One forest fire swept over 15,000 acres to the edge of Malibu Beach, the exclusive film colony. As it approached within half-a-mile of the beach where many film stars' homes are located, it slowed down as the result of the efforts of the thousand men who were fighting it. They partly succeeded in "back-firing" the flames by building a fire in the path of the blaze, which burned up the surface before the encroachment of the main fire.

A house belonging to the British film actor Lionel Atwill, at Malibu Beach, was destroyed by the fire. A half-dozen other forest fires are raging in Southern California, but some are now under control.

The death of Lord Morris, who was Prime Minister of Newfoundland from 1909 to 1918, took place, after an illness of several months' duration, in London yesterday. He had reached the age of seventy-six.

THE FREE STATE ARMY

BRIGHTER DRESS FOR OFFICERS

SPECIAL DESIGNS FOR EACH CORPS

MATERIALS MADE IN IRELAND

FULL-DRESS uniforms have now been approved for ceremonial wear by Army officers in the Free State. In appearance and design the uniforms follow the general military practice adopted in most other armies.

Each corps and service will have its own uniform which, with the exception of the Air Corps, will be of dark material with brighter-coloured facings and gold or silver lace. The various arms of the service are grouped as mounted and dismounted. The mounted corps and services will have a plastron type tunic and double stripes on the overalls, while dismounted corps and services will wear single-breasted tunics with a single overall stripe.

Three types of epaulettes will be worn to denote general, field and junior rank, and the normal rank insignia will be mounted on the epaulette, which will be either gold or silver-plaited cord. Corps and services will be distinguished by the type of cuff worn.

THE MOUNTED ARMS

The mounted group includes the Artillery Corps, whose uniform is dark blue with scarlet facings and gold lace the Cavalry Corps, who will wear black, scarlet and silver, and the Supply and Transport Service, with dark blue, scarlet and gold. All these mounted arms of the service wear shoulder belts and caplines. The Air Corps will wear a uniform of the same design in medium blue, with scarlet facings and gold lace.

First in the dismounted group comes the Infantry Corps, with dark blue, scarlet facings and silver. This Corps, being the largest in the Army, its uniform will predominate. Next comes the Corps of Engineers, with black, scarlet and silver; the Signal Corps, with black, green facings and gold; the Ordnance Service, with dark blue, medium blue, and silver, and the Army Medical Service, with dark blue, cherry facings and gold. Cherry is generally recognised internationally as the colour of Army Medical Services.

THE SCHOOL OF MUSIC

There are also included in this group officers of the School of Music, whose uniform of dark blue, with scarlet facings and gold lace and black overalls, has already been seen at the recent Tattoo and officers of the Legal Service, who will wear black with cream facings and silver. All officers belonging to dismounted Corps of Services will wear waist belts and lanyards. The General Officers' uniform will be of the mounted design, and will be black with scarlet facings and gold lace and insignia.

It will thus be seen that there are five black uniforms, six dark blue uniforms, and one medium blue uniform, though due to variations in the design, button arrangement, cuffs, collar, etc., all uniforms will differ from each other.

SHAKOS AND CLOAKS

A shako is to be worn which will be in the colour of the uniform with a crown of the facing colour. Black cloaks lined with the facing colour have been approved for wear with the full-dress uniform.

The cloths for the tunic, overalls and cloak are being specially manufactured by a well-known Irish mills. All the buttons, badges, etc., are also being manufactured in the Saorstat. In fact, with the exception of one or two details, the uniform is made and produced in the Saorstat.

The wearing of the full-dress uniform will be optional for all officers below the rank of colonel. Officers who supply themselves with the full-dress uniform will have portion of the cost refunded in the form of a grant.

Technical advice as to the design and production of the uniforms was given to the military authorities by Mr. McConnell, of the Post Office Stores, and both he and Mr. Jordan, of the same department, in co-operation with the manufacturers, are responsible for the production of the different special cloths which are now produced for the first time in this country.

CALIPH WITH THE RED EYE

GUARDIAN OF TREASURE BOXES

STRANGE PROCESSION THROUGH DUBLIN

TO-MORROW morning at 10.15 in the Mansion House, Dublin, the Hospitals' Trust draw for the Cambridgeshire Sweepstake will begin.

Yesterday, to the sound of music, a procession left the Sweep headquarters at Earlsfort terrace some considerable time after dawn, but when it was yet cold. It was led by the Caliph Haroun al Raschid, formerly of Baghdad, and its purpose was to escort fifty-six steel boxes of potential riches, otherwise counterfoils, to the Mansion House. In effigy—an especially wicked-looking effigy, with glinting red eyes—the Caliph led a long train of thirty prize asses bearing ornate panniers. Blinking solemnly under gaily garlanded straw hats, from which great asinine ears protruded, these dumb friends, each managed by an Arabian garbed attendant, caused long ripples of laughter as they trod along crowded streets.

A LIGHTNING STRIKE

Two camels stalked along, too. Then there was a camel not so real, but much prettier, and so suspiciously large as to remind one of Troy's wooden horse. To prove that it came from a modern desert it was borne on a motor lorry. Police and officials came fore and aft of the procession, with the Guard's band playing away merrily.

The caravan, so richly laden with hopes and possibilities, went around the principal streets, with never a halt at an oasis. The only incident, indeed, was an attempt at a stay-here strike in Grafton street by four of the more irresponsible asses. Whether they wanted to have a peep (as did many of the spectators) at some of the thousands of counterfoils in their panniers, or whether they wanted an immediate increase in fodder, in lieu of an opportunity of wealth, was not clear. It was certain only that they required strong persuasion to bear their burdens further along the Golden Road.

ORIENTAL SPLENDOUR

The Mansion House public rooms had been transformed overnight into a turreted Arabian town. From its gate poured a hundred pretty girls in scarlet and gold and strange oriental array, who welcomed the unsmiling, strong, silent, handsome Caliph, and presently bore in the precious baggage that he brought.

Enthroned amid the strange splendour of the Round Room, the Caliph presided all day, over the mixing. Weird looking black slaves guarded him; their cardboard guaranteed that they were not a menace to the public. Around the brightly coloured room were depicted, too, the famous Arabian figures, Sindbad and Ali Baba and all. In the orientally-draped gallery were the mixing-girls not immediately engaged in the entertaining but efficient performance of the mixing.

The scene was a lively, colourful one, giving as it were a foretaste of the exotic, gay, satin-and-silk pleasures that are possible if the great drum will but give forth one's own chosen counterfoil. Yet there were touches of actuality amid the make-believe of oriental opulence. Over the music one heard the whirring of the electric mixing machines. Over the Caliph's dais, so Arabian in gilding and architecture, hung the shield of Alderman Alfred Byrne, T.D., present Lord Mayor of Dublin.

POLICE ON HOUSETOPS

SEARCH FOR MEN IN DUBLIN

A large crowd of people gathered in Middle Abbey street, Dublin, last night to watch a search for three men who were believed to be on the roof of one of the houses on the south side of the street. A number of Civic Guards and detectives, as a result of a message from a man who had been working late in one of the shops in the street, surrounded the block, while others went into one of the buildings and climbed to the roof.

The search lasted for over an hour, but, though the buildings were thoroughly combed, the searchers failed to find the mysterious climbers. The door of a house in Liffey street was found open, and it is believed that the men escaped through it.

ITALIAN ADVANCE IN THE SOUTH REPORTED

FROM WALTER COLLINS, PRESS ASSOCIATION SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

ADDIS ABABA, Thursday.

USING all the advantages conferred upon them by mechanisation and modern weapons, the Italians, according to unconfirmed reports, are striking a vigorous blow at the Abyssinian forces on the southern front.

They aim at using their mechanised forces to get behind the Abyssinian front, cut off the garrisons, and crumple up their enemy from the rear. They are advancing, according to these reports, in a direction north-west of Wal Wal towards Sasa Baneh, an important town on the Tug Fafan. Sasa Baneh is about 140 miles from Harar, and even less from Jijiga.

The Italians have chosen the driest part of the Ogaden, a desolate and arid country, for their advance. They aim at cutting off the Abyssinian garrisons of Gorahai, the meeting place of many caravan routes, and of other garrisons between Gorahai and Sasa Baneh.

GAS AND ARSENIC

The reports of the Italian advance declare that the Italians are using gas. On learning this, Dedjasmatch Nasibu is said to have declared: "We did not intend to poison the wells unless the Italians used gas, but now we will do so." Bags of arsenic are reported to be lying beside the wells in the Gorahai region.

The Abyssinians have already evacuated Ado Mersi and other frontier posts north of Wal Wal. This was done a long time ago, partly because of lack of water and partly because the holding by the Italians of the country round Gerlogubi has rendered the position of these two points untenable.

From Wal Wal to Sasa Baneh is about 150 miles as the crow flies, and it is not expected that the Italians will encounter serious resistance until they reach a line running from Berbera south-westwards towards Gorahai.

SWELLING ARMY

Ras Mulugeta, the Minister of War, with his army of 70,000 is sweeping through the country from Addis Ababa to Dessie. As the great mass of fighting men moves north-eastwards it takes all the food it can find from the peasants, sometimes paying, sometimes not.

About 30 miles has been covered by the army in four days, which is fine going over the very hilly country and the vile roads. The men are in excellent spirits. Thousands of the warriors from the villages en route are joining the army as it passes, and other parties are on the way. It is expected that the size of Ras Mulugeta's army will be swollen to 100,000 by the time it reaches Dessie.

Commissions are now visiting the schools here and asking boys from 14 to 16 to enlist, and many of them are enthusiastically doing so.

An Armenian has manufactured hand grenades which he has presented to the Negus. The trials made of them are said to have been satisfactory.

OTHER WAR NEWS

South Africa has informed the League that she is applying all the sanctions proposals.

Seventy-four khaki-clad members of the Egyptian Red Cross left Suez yesterday for Djibuti, on their way to Addis Ababa.

Two Irishmen, Captain Marius Brophil and Mr. James Hickey, both from Dublin, who went to Abyssinia to organise a chain of casualty clearing stations from the war areas to the base, were received on Wednesday by the Emperor, says Reuter. Both served in the Great War.

Medical men for the Abyssinian Red Cross were among the passengers who sailed from Marseilles to Djibuti yesterday. The Swedish Red Cross expedition were on board, and two delegates from the Swiss Red Cross.

The San Francisco longshoremen have refused to load the Italian motor ship Cellina, on the ground that the cargo of foodstuffs, including copra, is intended for the Italian Army. The officers of the ship denied their assertion, and the longshoremen then declared that they would not return to work unless the Federal Government assured them that the goods were not contraband.

MR. JAMES DILLON, T.D.

Mr. James Dillon, T.D., returned to Dublin yesterday after a holiday cruise. His health has greatly improved, and he will be in his place in the Dail when the House meets next Wednesday.

MENACE OF GERMAN RE-ARMAMENT

MR. CHURCHILL ON NAZIDOM IN EUROPE

BRITAIN'S COMMAND OF THE MEDITERRANEAN

MR. CHURCHILL, resuming the debate on international relations, in the House of Commons yesterday, laid stress on the "relentless" haste of Germany's re-armament. Over £800,000,000, he said, was being spent in the present year on direct or indirect military preparations.

The fact that Germany was well on her way to become incomparably the most heavily-armed nation in the world was the dominant factor which dwarfed all others.

In the shadow of that re-armament, other dangers had taken shape on the Continent, in comparison with which the Italo-Abyssinian war was a very small matter.

It was on the basis of German re-armament and French apprehension that the Italo-Abyssinian war, and the dispute between Italy and the League, could alone be properly considered.

He put his trust in both the League of Nations and re-armament. If the British Empire was called upon to defend itself, its cause and the cause of the League would be one.

The reason why the League now was a reality, gripping all men's minds, was that behind it was the British Navy.

If there was one practical moral to be drawn from their personal experience, it was that they must, without delay, provide for the secure and lasting command of the Mediterranean.

Sir John Simon (Home Secretary), who replied to the debate, denied a rumour, published yesterday, to the effect that the Government had become a party to negotiations for a settlement of the Italo-Abyssinian dispute behind the back of the League of Nations.

The motion for the adjournment of the House was then withdrawn.

EFFECT OF NAVAL POWER ON THE LEAGUE

Mr. Churchill said that since the recess the process of re-armament in Germany had gone on remorselessly. The incredible figure of more than £800,000,000 was being spent in the present year on direct and indirect military preparations. The whole of Germany was an armed camp. Germany's industries were mobilised for war, and the population was being trained from childhood for war. Germany was already well on the way to become incomparably the most heavily armed nation in the world. That was the dominant factor, which dwarfed all others, and was affecting the movements of politics and diplomacy in every country in Europe. It was a melancholy reflection that in the last hours of this Parliament we should be helpless, and even supine, spectators of this vast transformation of Europe. He did not suggest that German re-armament was directed against us. It might be that we were the last people Germany wanted to attack, but we could not afford to see Nazidom in its present phase of cruelty and intolerance paramount in Europe.

In the shadow of German re-armament, other dangers had taken shape on the Continent. The Italo-Abyssinian war was a very small matter compared with the dangers he had described. He did not believe that Signor Mussolini would have embarked on his Abyssinian venture but for the profound preoccupation of France with German re-armament, and but for the real, or supposed, military and naval weakness of Great Britain. It was the fear of a re-armed Germany that led France to settle her differences with Italy at the beginning of this year. When these matters were being settled, what was called a "free hand" in Abyssinia was thrown in. France was nearer the danger than we were. They had no strip of salt water to guard their shores, and it must be remembered that France was the only other great European country that had not reacted to despotism or dictatorship in one form or another. In all the circumstances, he submitted that the effort France had made to give effect to the Covenant of the League, and their decision to give aid to the British Fleet in certain remote contingencies, deserved the warmest recognition of all parties (Cheers.).

BASIS OF SETTLEMENT

It was upon the basis of German re armament and French apprehension that the Italo-Abyssinian war and the dispute between Italy and the League could alone be properly considered. It was agreed it was necessary to walk soberly, warily and discreetly, peacefully and even humbly, through this dangerous world, and that they should abstain from the use of provoking language. Some people advised them to put their trust in the League of Nations, whilst others said, "Put your trust in British rearmament." These two ideas at the present time were only the complementary counterparts of one another. He was certain the British Empire would never engage in another war contrary to the Covenant of the League of Nations. Any such attempt would break the Empire into fragments. He put his trust in both the League of Nations and rearmament. Risks had to be run and exertions made for both. There was no antagonism between the two. Therefore, if ever the British Empire was called upon to defend itself its cause and the cause of the League would be one. The fortunes of the British Empire and its glory were inseparably interwoven with the fortunes of the world, and, indeed, if we survived to-day in this extraordinary menacing situation it would be because our forerunners so managed it that, in the main, the special interests of the British Empire conformed to the general interests of the world.

THE LEAGUE'S VITALITY

He, therefore, made no secret of the fact that, personally, he regarded the British Navy and its sister services, with all that implied, and the Covenant of the League as allied insurances for our peace and safety. The League of Nations was alive, but it was fighting for its life. No one could ever pretend that without the United States the League could become the supreme authority, but the question had been for a long time whether it was not dead and a sham. People were despairing of the League of Nations. But what had happened? Fifty sovereign States were solemnly sitting down together to devise and concert a hostile economy action against a great Power.

That was a memorable event, but still more remarkable was the Italian acceptance of these sanctions. Mussolini, instead of saying that Italy would meet sanctions with war, had said she would meet them with disciplined frugality and sacrifice. That was a great saying in the setting in which it was made.

COMMAND OF THE MEDITERRANEAN

The reason why the League was now a reality, gripping all men's minds, and inspiring loyalties in other countries was that there was behind it the British Navy. In a few weeks the impressive effects of superior sea-power had become manifest, and had invested the decisions and debates at Geneva with a gravity and significance which otherwise they would not have possessed. If he were asked during the election how far we ought to go in support of the Covenant of the League, he would reply, "The whole way." (Cheers.)

What would happen if this trouble had arisen not now but three or four years hence, as other trouble might arise? If there was a German fleet one-third as large as our own, and being entirely new, equal to two-thirds of our own, and if, at the same time, the two Italian 35,000 ton dreadnoughts which were in an advanced state of building were in actual commission, Britain could not have spoken her mind at the Council of the League as she has done, without the deepest anxiety lest reprisals should be taken against us. "If there is one practical moral to be drawn from our personal experience," he said, "it is that we must, without delay, and apart from any obligations which may arise in the North Sea, provide for the secure and lasting command of the Mediterranean."

Continuing, Mr. Churchill said that, whilst he had every sympathy with the primitive, Feudal people who were fighting for their hearths and homes, no one, he thought, could pretend that Abyssinia was a fit and worthy member of a League of civilised nations. Her admission was a mistake, and steps ought certainly to be taken to secure that the repression by the dominant race in Abyssinia of the tribes they had conquered must not be perpetuated as a result of League action. He thought that, looking at the dangers which confronted us with a steady eye, the House and the country might well reach the conclusion that the case for perseverance held the field.

Mr. Arthur Greenwood (Labour) accused the Government of turning to foreign affairs with the intention of distracting the attention of the country from domestic matters. The history of the Government's dealings with unemployment, he said, was sorry reading. Either they had been completely baffled by the problems or they had some solutions up their sleeve which they dared not produce before the general election. It was plain that the Government had no plans for dealing with the depressed areas, and they had no coherent policy for dealing with economic depression.

TWO INCIDENTS

Mr. J. J. Lawson (Labour) was speaking when a young woman in the Strangers' Gallery flung a handful of leaflets down upon the floor of the House. On being approached by an attendant she left the gallery without the slightest fuss. The leaflets had to do with unemployment and the working of the means test.

The little scene was followed shortly afterwards by another, in which the central figure was a man who, rising at the back of the Strangers' Gallery, surveyed for a moment the scene below, and then shouted: "Never again, those who speak peace, but prepare for war." He also flung some leaflets over the heads of the people below. Two officials seized and removed him struggling from the Chamber.

Sir John Simon (Home Secretary) replied for the Government. His absolute denial of a report published yesterday to the effect that the Government had changed its policy overnight and entered into peace negotiations outside the League of Nations will be found under the report of the alleged peace moves.

Proceeding to deal with matters of domestic policy, Sir John Simon pointed out that the Government had done a great deal in the matter of relieving unemployment, and in the provision of houses, and whilst he could not anticipate the election manifesto, he could say that it would be seen that the Government policy included a programme of treatment and action which would make a real contribution towards improving the very grave and difficult situation in the coal fields. Reviewing the actions of the Government, he said there was full justification for asking for a renewal of the confidence which the Government had enjoyed for the past four years. (Cheers.)

The motion for the adjournment was withdrawn.

FROM "THE TIMES"

(BY SPECIAL ARRANGEMENT.)

THE LAST DEBATES

In an editorial article to-day The Times observes:—The last debates of the present Parliament, both in the Lords and in the Commons, should fortify supporters of the Government for the strenuous election campaign which lies before them. So far as policy is concerned, they confirmed the conviction that there will be neither war nor wavering so far as this country is concerned in the present dispute between Italy and the League. There can be little doubt that the Government's attitude of steady determination appeals to an overwhelming majority of the British people. The actual methods of pressure which they propose to exert are to be those upon which the League, as a whole, is united. So long as no member takes isolated action, the risk of extending the war to Europe is reduced to a minimum. So long as no member indulges in isolated and calculated inaction, the prospects of success for the League policy are increased to a maximum, and, so long as there is a British Government as united as the present Government, British action may be trusted to combine strength with prudence.

The answer to critics, adds The Times, was given yesterday in a remarkable defence of the League of Nations by Mr. Churchill, who has not always been over-friendly either to the Government or to the League. The case for perseverance holds the field, and the case against Ministers is as weak as the case against making the League effective. The impression left by this last debate is that great tasks lie ahead in foreign affairs, whether the present dispute drags on or not; that equally great tasks lie ahead in home affairs, and that both can be entrusted with confidence only to those who have shown during the past few months in a foreign crisis, and during the past four years in home affairs, that they can meet emergencies with courageous, constructive and coherent policies.

ENTERTAINMENT TAX

A HEAVY FINE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

DROGHEDA, Thursday.

A fine of £50, mitigated to £12 10s., was imposed on Mrs. Florence M. McCaul, proprietor of the Northlands Hotel, Bettystown, Drogheda, by District Justice Goff to-day at Duleek District Court for having failed to pay entertainment tax at a dance in her hotel.

Patrick F. O'Reilly, Customs Officer, swore that he went to the dance and paid 3s., but got no ticket.

Defendant's son swore that the Customs officer, when paying 3s. for admission, dropped a coin, and in the confusion which followed he passed into the hall without getting his ticket. He knew that Mr. O'Reilly was a Customs officer, and sent the ticket into the hall after him, but he could not be found.

Mr. Holohan, solicitor for the defendant, said that the officer had created an offence. He had been offered a ticket and refused to take it, or deliberately caused confusion by dropping the coin.

Mr. A. Steen, State solicitor, resented this allegation, and said it was unworthy of any solicitor. The dropping of the coin was an accident, and the officer had done his duty fairly.

Justice Goff said that the doorman's duty was to tear a ticket bearing a tax stamp and give half of it to the officer, whether there was confusion or not.

KILDARE MAN KILLED

CRUSHED BY A PIANO

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

NEWBRIDGE, Thursday.

A group of young girls playing camogie in the barrack grounds, Newbridge, Co. Kildare, this evening, were horrified witnesses of an accident that resulted in the almost instantaneous death of George Ives, a young local barber. Ives, with three others, was removing a piano from the new hall, where they had been using it for a smoking concert on the previous night. They had it up in a high horse cart, and Ives was standing beside it. When the horse was being turned around the piano rocked, and Ives tried to steady it, but it toppled over, and both fell to the ground, the piano crashing on top of Ives, who was killed almost instantly. Some of the girls ran for the Garda, and they and Dr. J. J. Cosgrove were almost immediately on the scene, when Dr. Cosgrove found that Ives was already dead.

FREE STATE TRADE STATISTICS

LESS IMPORTS, BUT LARGER EXPORTS

THE latest statistics upon the Free State's trade, which were issued yesterday by the Department of Industry and Commerce, show a slight increase in the adverse balance of trade for September last. It is £1,192,718, compared with £1,115,793 in August. The adverse balance in September, 1934, however, was £1,590,087, and upon this amount last month's figures therefore show a decline of £397,369.

Imports in September, 1935, were worth £3,042,298, compared with £3,202,997 in 1934. Exports for the month were valued at £1,828,724, as compared with £1,581,688. Re-exports were £20,856, compared with £31,222.

The improvement in the adverse balance is, therefore, accounted for by an increase of £247,036 in exports, a decrease of £160,699 in imports, and a decrease of £10,366 in re-exports.

LAST NINE MONTHS' TRADE

Considering the twelve months ending September of each year, the adverse balance of £17,454,960 for the latest period compares favourably with £19,340,473 for the period ended September, 1934.

The lowest adverse balance recorded during the past decade was, however, £10,173,741, which occurred for the twelve months ended September, 1930. Imports were then £58,478,328, and all exports £48,304,587, making a total trade of £106,782,915.

The total trade for the period ended September, 1935, was only £57,155,592, consisting of £37,305,276 in imports and £19,850,316 all exports.

For the nine months, January to September, the Free State in 1935 exported to Great Britain £11,752,831 worth of goods, compared with £10,614,507 in 1934. Her exports to Northern Ireland were worth only £1,514,076, as compared with £1,690,926 in 1934. Other countries, however, accepted her exports to the value of £1,143,873, as compared with £841,382 in 1934. Among these "other countries" were Canada (which took £30,670 worth of goods compared with £23,604 in 1934), South Africa (£31,919, compared with £20,572 in 1934), Germany (£386,240, compared with £97,969), Spain £64,806, and £29,471 in 1934), the United States (£110,141 and £96,297). An explanatory note with the statistics states that "it is not valid to compare the value of imports from each country with the values for corresponding periods prior to April, 1935," because from that date import statistics were compiled by country or origin—not, as before, by country from which they were consigned.

FALLING IMPORTS

For the nine months January-September, 1935, imports into the Free State were worth £27,368,525, compared with £29,129,330 in the corresponding period of 1934.

The value of horses imported, however, rose from £408,806 in 1934 to £420,707 in 1935. Barley worth £77,128 was brought in, compared with £33,480 in 1934. Sugar imports fell from £471,013 to £191,067. Drink imports declined from £436,891 to £422,949, and tobacco imports fell from £8,672,071 to £7,091,083. There was an increase in the imports of cutlery, hardware, implements and instruments from £378,166 to £427,357. Cycle parts, not substantially assembled, were imported to the value of £304,189, compared with £196,499 in 1934. Motor cycle imports, however, fell from £6,348 to £823 in 1935. Aeroplanes and parts were imported to the value of £1,634 in the 1935 period, as compared with £17,388 in 1934.

Imports of textiles other than apparel increased slightly; imports of wood and timber and manufactures thereof were less; and imports of apparel fell from £1,860,677 to £1,420,412, including a fall of £616,175 to £360,512 in boots and shoes. Imports of hides, skins, etc., and of rubber and rubber manufactures (except apparel); of paper and cardboard; of oil seeds, fats, etc.; of chemicals, perfumery, etc., increased. Fertilisers were imported to the value of £319,972 compared with £227,832 for the preceding period.

THE EXPORTS

WEST BELFAST DIVISION

INVITATION TO MR. R. BYRNE, M.P.

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

There is every likelihood of a contest in West Belfast in the coming British general election. Alderman R. Byrne, M.P., was to-day invited by a deputation of influential Nationalists to allow himself to be nominated against Captain Crawford Browne, the retiring member, who is a Unionist.

The East Belfast Unionist Association to-night selected Captain the Right Hon. Herbert Dixon, M.P., as the Unionist candidate for East Belfast in the coming general election to the British Parliament.

Replying to the vote of confidence at the meeting to-night, Captain Dixon referred to the appreciation that had been given to Lord Carson's services, and said that in one or two of the statements words had appeared to the effect that Lord Carson was the architect of partition. Never, said Captain Dixon, was a more untrue statement made. Lord Carson gave his life to the fight for the unity of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland. He never thought of partition, and there would never have been partition if the rest of Ireland had had the wisdom and wit to ask Lord Carson to be its mouthpiece.

COURTS OF JUSTICE BILL

PROPOSALS FOR REPORT STAGE

BY OUR POLITICAL CORRESPONDENT.

For the report stage of the Courts of Justice Bill in the Dail next week a batch of fifteen amendments was circulated yesterday. Other amendments will probably be handed in during the week. Those issued yesterday are mostly in the name of General Sean McEoin.

Mr. Michael Og McFadden (U.I.P., Donegal) proposes to extend the age of retirement of a District Justice in the Gaeltacht from 65 to 70 if the Justice is certified as "capable of conducting a sitting of his court in the national language."

An amendment by General McEoin would extend cases in which appeal may be taken to a higher court.

Mr. M. Keyes (Labour, Limerick) will introduce a new section to make it illegal for a newspaper to report or summarise the depositions taken before a District Court in criminal proceedings.

General McEoin proposes that in criminal cases where the person charged before the Circuit Court or Central Criminal Court is unable to pay for adequate legal aid in his defence, the Court may assign solicitor and counsel to conduct the defence, their fees to be paid out of public funds.

He was received by several representatives of the Ford firm, and was shown the various exhibits by Mr. S. H. Dring, their sales manager at Cork, and Mr. F. Thornhill Cooper, the European sales manager.

The Commissioner was particularly interested in a display of tools used in the production of the cars. Mr. Dulanty was also interested in the employment figures of the Ford factory in Cork, and to hear that the complete range of models, passenger and commercial, shown in the Albert Hall are being built at Cork.

RAILWAYS' GOOD YEAR

BIG INCREASE IN RECEIPTS

RETURNS issued by the Stationery Office show the extent to which the receipts of the railway companies operating in the Free State had improved in 1934 as compared with 1933.

In 1933 the receipts of the Great Southern Railway amounted to £2,871,912, and in 1934 to £3,033,166. Those of the Great Northern Railway amounted to £993,302 in 1934, as against £794,570 in the previous year; while the statistics in respect of other railways showed an improvement from £75,833 to £76,792.

The improvements, however, to some extent were offset by increased expenditure. In 1933 the expenses of the Great Southern amounted to £2,566,595, while in 1934 they were £2,719,846. The Great Northern Railway's expenditure increased from £838,488 to £945,306, while the expenditure of the other companies increased from £106,428 to £118,208.

The gross receipts of the Great Southern Railway Company for 1934, while exceeding those for 1933 by £161,254, were less than those secured in 1932 by £7,373. Owing to the prolonged strike of the Great Northern Company's employés during 1933 any comparison with the receipts of that year would be of little value.

ROAD TRANSPORT

The financial results of the working of road transport services established by the railway companies, other than those connected with the collection and delivery of parcels and goods, show that in the case of the Great Southern Company the profit of £15,003 for 1933 had increased to a profit of £80,394 in 1934, while as regards the Great Northern Company the loss of £27,828 in 1933 was reduced to a loss of £8,318 in 1934. The returns show that there was no change in the amount of capital authorised nor in the capital created during the years 1934 and 1933. The capital receipts in the three categories also remained stationary.

The total length of railway operated in the Free State at the end of 1934 was approximately 2,643 miles as compared with 2,654 miles at the end of 1933. The decrease was due chiefly to the closing to traffic of part of the Cork to Bantry branch of the Great Southern Railway Company's system.

MORE FREIGHT

There was a marked increase in the total volume of freight traffic carried over the Great Southern railways, which was noted in each case of the main classifications of traffic, with the exception of the tonnage of live stock carried, in which there was a decrease of over 6 per cent. There were increases in 1934 in the average length of haul for each of the different classes of freight traffic, resulting in an increase of approximately 16 per cent. in the total ton miles.

The number of passenger journeys on the Great Southern Railways decreased by 2.2 per cent. The number of season ticket holders, however, increased by 11.8 per cent.

The number of passenger licences granted under the Road Transport Act, 1932, and under which road passenger services were operated during the year 1934 by railway companies, amounted to 801. Of these the Great Southern Railways operated 197 continuous, 90 seasonal and 278 occasional; the Great Northern 101 continuous, 46 seasonal and 71 occasional, and the Londonderry and Lough Swilly railway operated 13 continuous and 5 seasonal. As compared with 1933, the separate passenger road services operated by the companies increased by 164. During 1934 23 annual and 32 occasional passenger licences were transferred compulsorily to the Great Southern Railways.

The number of railway employés in the Free State in March, 1934, was 17,068, as compared with 14,905 on October 21, 1933. The former number includes 2,133 employés engaged on road motor services, as compared with 279 employés engaged on such services in 1933.

THE WAGE BILL

In the week ended March 24, 1934, the amount paid in salaries and wages amounted to £47,634, and the earnings to £49,702. In the week ended October 21st, 1933, the figures were £40,696 and £40,872.

ACTION FOR SLANDER

WOMEN GOLFERS' DISPUTE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Thursday.

A crowded attendance marked Cork Circuit Court to-day for the hearing before Judge O'Donnell of a slander action in which Miss Peggy Ronayne, The Laurels, Sunday's Well, sued Mrs. Mary C. Aherne, Analore, Connaught avenue, for £100 damages.

The plaintiff, in her statement of claim, alleged that it had been imputed that she had attempted to obtain the captain's prize at Muskerry Golf Club last May by submitting a card in which she made a false return of her score.

The defence was:—(1) the defendant did not slander plaintiff; (2) defendant denies that she spoke the words set out in plaintiff's particulars; (3) if the defendant spoke said words, which is denied, defendant pleads that the words are not defamatory of the plaintiff.

The words alleged to have been used by the defendant to the plaintiff were:—"You did not finish the card for the Captain's prize" and "I think you are capable of doing anything."

The plaintiff, in evidence, said that Mrs. O'Connell marked the first fifteen holes in plaintiff's card. Plaintiff herself marked the last three and put the card in for a handicap, but not for the purposes of the competition. Eight days later Mrs. Ahern accused her of having torn up her card at the sixth hole, and said: "You did not finish in the Captain's prize. When we go out to play we go out for honour. You have none or very little." Mrs. Aherne followed plaintiff to her car, and when plaintiff said: "Do you think I faked the card?" she replied: "You would be capable of doing anything in the world."

In cross-examination, witness said that she knew nothing about how her name got into the Press among the results. She was friendly with Mrs. Phillips. The handwriting on the copy (produced) supplied to the Press was like Mrs. Phillips's writing.

Where did the writer get your score, asked counsel.

We had discussed scores in the club-house, and she probably got them there.

Witness also said that for the past two years she had suffered mental torture at the hands of Mrs. Ahern, who had "a set" on her.

Mrs. Emily Blair, who remarked that it seemed there was not a friendly spirit in the club, and Mrs. Marie Tucker, another club member, having given evidence, the Judge said that he had heard the case as fully as was necessary. "Sport," he continued, "is a thing to be approved and encouraged, but sport conducted in the true spirit of sport. But ladies who allow their vanities and desires to see their names in the Press, even when they are not entitled to be there—that is not sport. I hold in this case that there has been no objectionable slander, and, therefore, the plaintiff, Miss Peggy Ronayne, is not entitled to any damages. I dismiss the action, with costs."

THE LATE LORD CARSON

ARRANGEMENTS FOR FUNERAL

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

WORKMEN to-day were completing the vault in Belfast Cathedral, where the coffin of Lord Carson will be laid on Saturday. Soil from each of the six counties is being brought to the Cathedral, at the instance of the Ulster Unionist Council, for the Committal Service. The inside of the chamber will be lined with green moss from the County Down hills. White chrysanthemums, white lilies, white carnations and Ulster violets also will be used.

After the committal of Lord Carson's body to the chamber, a platform will be placed over it, and some of the wreaths, among them those from the members of Lord Carson's family, will be laid on it. The remaining wreaths will be placed on platforms at the entrance to the Cathedral, and will remain there until 5 p.m.

The arrangements for the Service at the Cathedral are being completed by the Dean (the Very Rev. W. S. Kerr, B.D.). On the arrival of the coffin ticket-holders in the procession will enter the Cathedral by the north door and take their places. The coffin then will be borne up the centre of the nave and placed on a bier at the chancel.

THE SERVICE

The first hymn will be "I Vow to Thee, My Country" (Cecil Spring Rice), and it will be followed by the first sentences in the Burial Service, chanted by the Rev. G. F. Craig. The 39th Psalm will be sung, and then a lesson from the first epistle to the Corinthians, Chapter 15, will be read by the Moderator of the General Assembly (the Right Rev. Dr. A. F. Moody). The anthem, "I Heard a Voice from Heaven" (Goss) will be sung by the choir, and the address will be delivered by the Primate of All Ireland (the Most Rev. Dr. D'Arcy).

After prayers, read by the Dean, the coffin will be taken from the bier and committed to the grae.

While the coffin is being removed Captain Brennan (organist) will play as a voluntary "O! Valiant Hearts" (Arkwright). The Bishop of Down, Connor and Dromore (the Right Rev. Dr. MacNeice) will read the prayers at the graveside, and the Dead March from "Saul" will be played. Then will follow the "Last Post" and "Réveille," the hymn, "O God, our help in ages past," will be sung, and the Service will conclude with the Benediction and the National Anthem.

THE PROCESSION

It is expected that the route of the funeral procession from Donegall quay to the cathedral will be lined by thousands of people. Barricades are to be erected to prevent crowding upon the roadway.

Immediately behind the chief mourners and relatives will be His Majesty's Lieutenants and Deputy-Lieutenants of the various counties, who will be followed by the members of both Houses of Parliament and the representatives of the Imperial Parliament.

Special places will be provided in the procession for representatives of the old Ulster Volunteer Force, and delegations will come from various areas in the Free State.

The following will act as pall-bearers:—The Prime Minister of Northern Ireland, the Marquess of Londonderry, Sir Dawson Bates, Sir Edward Archdale, Bart.; Colonel Fred Crawford, Colonel Sir W. Spender, Sir Thomas Dixon, H.M.L.; the Lord Mayor of Belfast, the Mayor of Derry, Mr. William Grant, M.P.; Colonel McClintock and Colonel McCalmont.

U.S. GANG WAR

SIX MEN SHOT

An attempt apparently is being made by rival gangsters to exterminate the entire gang of "Dutch" Schultz, the Bronx "beer baron." In a New Jersey chophouse on Wednesday night two men opened fire on Schultz, and three of his bodyguard. All were wounded, and two of them, Otto Berman and Leo Frank, died later.

According to Reuter, high officials of the Brooklyn Police Department believe that the attempt to "bump off" Schultz is connected directly with the previous day's murder of Louis Amberg, whose nude body, soaked in petrol, was found blazing in a deserted car in a Brooklyn street. His enemies had apparently hacked him to death with an axe, and then set his body alight to destroy all evidence.

Two other henchmen of Schultz were mown down by rival gangsters in the basement of a barber's shop in Times square—Piccadilly Circus of New York. They are believed to have been Martin Krompeir and Samuel Gold. It is believed that four gunmen shot them down.

The New York police are searching for Albert Stern, aged 21, and "Luckie Charlie" Luciano. The latter is reputed to be the most powerful gangster in Manhattan, and the police suspect that he desired to wipe out the Schultz organisation and seize their rackets.

The condition of Schultz is stated to be critical.

NEW YORK, Friday Morning.

Schultz is dead.

WOMAN'S BODY IN THE SEA

GRIM DISCOVERY NEAR GIANT'S CAUSEWAY

The discovery of the naked and mutilated body of a woman at the foot of the Tonduff Cliff, near the Giant's Causeway, led to investigations by the Criminal Investigation Department of Belfast, but the possibility of foul play was later ruled out.

The body was that of a woman believed to be about forty years old, and there were missing from it the greater portion of the head, the two legs below the knees and both hands.

The discovery was made on Wednesday by John Colvin, a fisherman, living at Tonduff, a tiny hamlet overlooking the sea, but owing to the inaccessibility of the spot the body could not be removed until yesterday.

Two police constables from Bushmills, assisted by Colvin, carried it to the top of the cliff, which is 600 feet high.

At the inquest last night the District Coroner, Dr. Hunter, of Portrush, returned an open verdict.

FALL OVER A CLIFF

While walking along a cliff near Dunree Fort, County Donegal, on Wednesday night Joseph Heaney, aged 24, belonging to Moore street, Waterside, Derry, stumbled and fell a distance of forty feet. Two men went to the assistance of Heaney, who was unconscious, and he was conveyed to the Derry Infirmary, where he was found to be suffering from shock and abrasions.

COUNTY ARMAGH HOLD-UP

SERIOUS CHARGES AGAINST A MAN

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

ARMAGH, Thursday.

AT the Armagh Petty Sessions to-day there was a sequel to the sensational armed hold up at Tullymore Park, Armagh, on the 23rd December last, of Mrs. Margaret Grimley, victualler, Armagh, and her sons on their way home from the Christmas market.

Charges were preferred against Patrick J. Power, Augherduff, County Armagh, that at Tullymore on the 23rd December he attempted to kill and murder Margaret Grimley and Michael Quinn; that, being armed and being together with three other persons, he assaulted, with intent to rob, Margaret Grimley; that he maliciously killed a horse; that he had in his possession a Service rifle and six rounds of ammunition under suspicious circumstances.

Power was not professionally represented.

OFFICER'S STATEMENT

District Inspector Scott said that about 12.15 a.m. on 23rd December last Mrs. Grimley, who had two victuallers' shops in Armagh, was returning to her home in Tullymore Park, near Armagh, accompanied by her sons, Francis and Joseph, and an employé, Michael Quinn. When about half-way up the avenue leading to the house, four men stepped out from the shadow of a tree, all masked, and one with a rifle. One man called, "Halt! Hand it over; get out," and another caught the pony. Francis and Joseph got out, but Mrs. Grimley and Quinn courageously refused to get out, and Mrs. Grimley refused to give up her money. She had about £90.

A shot was fired, and Quinn felt something strike him, and said he was shot. He still refused to get out. Joseph Grimley, armed with an umbrella, ran at the man holding the pony and tried to strike him. Quinn said they would make a bolt for it and, striking the pony on the back with the reins, started at a gallop up the avenue. It had not gone far when two more shots rang out, and the pony dropped dead. The assailants made off.

A RIFLE FOUND

On 15th June Head Constable Quinn, Sergeant Lewis and Constable Nethercott searched the defendant's house at Cullyhanna, and the constable found a service rifle, six rounds of .305 ammunition and four rounds of .445 ammunition in a recess in the gable of an outhouse. In September, in Belfast Jail, the defendant admitted that the Service rifle was his, and he had hidden it where it was found.

When arrested and charged, accused said he knew nothing about the raid, the attempted murder, or killing the horse.

Power was returned for trial to the Belfast Winter Assizes.

BELFAST MAN SHOT

£5,000 COMPENSATION CLAIMED

BELFAST, Thursday.

The fatal shooting of John M'Kay, cattle drover, of Great George's street, Belfast, on July 12, was recalled before Judge Thompson, in the Recorder's Court to-day, when Margaret M'Kay, widow of deceased, claimed £5,000 compensation for the loss of her husband.

Mr. Chambers, for the applicant, said that M'Kay's death resulted out of shooting on July 12. He, in company with a man named Cornelius Marlow, crossed from York street into Lancaster street. Marlow was struck with a stone, and John M'Kay was shot on the left side of the head.

Cornelius Marlow said he and M'Kay walked down Lancaster street for about 15 or 20 yards when witness was struck between the shoulders with a stone. Witness said to M'Kay, "Oh, John, I have been struck with a stone." M'Kay turned round to answer him, when he (M'Kay) fell.

Constable J. J. Harison said that he was in Lancaster street trying to keep two crowds apart—a crowd in York street and a crowd in Lancaster street. He saw M'Kay standing at the corner of Portland street and Lancaster street with stones in his arm. There were shots fired all round witness, but he could not say who fired the shots.

Mr. Chambers asked for an adjournment of the case to the next Court to enable him, he said, to investigate it in the fullest possible way.

His Honour granted the adjournment.

JUVENILE LABOUR IN DUBLIN

COMPLAINT BY WOMEN WORKERS' UNION

At a meeting of the Clothing Trades' Group in the Dublin Trade Union Council, held at the Labour Hall, 44 Lower Gardiner street, Dublin, last night, the question of juvenile labour was raised.

The Irish Women Workers' Union pointed out that journeywomen—their members—were being laid off in a Dublin clothing factory while apprentices were completing garments themselves. The explanation given was that the clothing in question was of a cheaper quality than that usually turned out by the firm and that it would not pay the employer to have the work done at the usual rates paid to the journeywomen.

After consideration the group appointed a deputation to wait upon the Irish (Free State) Wholesale Clothing and Cap Manufacturers' Association to go into the question of juvenile labour.

MOTOR DRIVERS' WAGES

NEGOTIATIONS FAIL

Negotiations between the Dublin Master Carriers' Association and the Transport Trades' Group in the Dublin Trade Union Council were continued yesterday, but were unsuccessful. Mr. D. Sullivan, Department of Industry and Commerce, presided.

The question under discussion was the wages and conditions of motor drivers in the employment of the Association. The unions claimed rates ranging from 65s. to 75s. per week, according to the tonnage of the vehicles.

A STRABANE FIRE

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

STRABANE, Thursday.

Damage estimated at some hundreds of pounds was done by a fire this evening at the drapery establishment and dwellinghouse of Messrs. Albert Lyons and Co., Castle street, Strabane. There was nobody on the premises at the time the fire was discovered. The post office, a few doors away, lent fire extinguishers, which were used until the arrival of the Fire Brigade. It was feared at one time that several shops would be involved.

OBITUARY

LADY DOROTHIE MOORE

Lady Dorothie Moore died at her residence, Mooresfort, Tipperary, shortly after six o'clock yesterday evening. She had been ill since February last. Lady Moore was married in 1917 to Captain Charles J. Moore, M.C., the Irish Guards. Born in 1890, she was the second daughter of the ninth Earl of Denbigh. Before her marriage, as Lady Dorothie Fielding, she did heroic work during the Great War. In 1915 she received the Order of Leopold from the King of the Belgians for services to the Belgian wounded, and the Croix de Guerre from the French Government. In 1916 she was awarded the Military Medal by the British Government for bravery in the field, where, at the imminent peril of her life, she drove the Red Cross ambulance under shell-fire. She took a keen interest in the work of the British Legion in Tipperary, where her spheres of activity also included the Presidency of the Tipperary Jubilee Nursing Association and the Presidency of the local Agricultural Show Society. She was a fearless follower to hounds, and was prominently associated with the Scarteen Hunt, to the success of which her great organising powers in no small degree contributed. She leaves a son and four daughters. The news of her death has caused great regret in Tipperary, where she was very popular, and deep sympathy is felt with Captain Moore and his family in their bereavement. It is understood that the interment will take place in England, and that the funeral will be private.

COLONEL A. E. J. CROLY

The death of Colonel Arthur England Johnson Croly occurred suddenly in London on Wednesday last. Colonel Croly, who was a Fellow of the Royal College of Surgeons in Ireland, was for some time Administrative Medical Officer of the Eastern Command of the British Army at Dover. He served with the Royal Irish Fusiliers in the South African War in 1901 and 1902, during which he took part in the operations in the Transvaal, and was awarded the Queen's medal with three clasps. He was a son of the late Mr. Henry Croly, F.R.C.P.I., of Greenfield, Rathfarnham, Dublin.

MR. THOMAS S. WALLACE, M.A.

Regret has been caused among those interested in the Molyneux Asylum and National Institution for the Blind, Leeson Park, Dublin, by the sudden death, which occurred on Wednesday last, at the age of seventy-four years, of the secretary, Mr. Thomas Sneyd Wallace, M.A. Born in 1861 at Bolton, Lancashire, he was the son of the late Rev. Thomas Wallace, of Ireland. He was educated at the Clergy Orphan School, Bury St. Edmunds, and at Trinity College, Dublin, where he graduated. For some years he was an assistant master at Farmborough School, Lancashire, and, in 1913, was appointed secretary to the Molyneux Asylum, Dublin, since when he has devoted himself entirely to the work there. For some time past Mr. Wallace had been attending a doctor for heart trouble, and on last Wednesday, while engaged in his duties, died suddenly. Through his death the staff of the asylum and all those interested in the cure of the blind have lost a zealous worker and a warm friend.

LEITRIM DANCE HALL

THREATS OF VIOLENCE ALLEGED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CARRICK-ON-SHANNON, Thursday.

When the adjourned application on behalf of James Reynolds, Esker, for a dance-hall licence for Cloonturk A.O.H. Hall came up at Ballinamore District Court to-day the District Justice, Mr. Rice, said: "I postponed my decision in this case to await receipt of a letter from the Bishop of Ardagh regarding the attitude which he had adopted towards the granting of such licences. That letter has reached me, and it is in complete accordance with what I expected it would be. The occasion which made it necessary for me to seek such information from the Bishop is not a pleasant recollection, and I do not desire its repetition. With regard to the granting of a licence for Cloonturk Hall the only opposition to it is based on threats of violence. Such threats may make an impression on other courts, but in this one they only affect adversely the cause of those who utter them. A peace at any price policy is a fool's policy. A little firmness goes a long way. It is only recently since the streets of Ballinamoe could not be traversed by decent people after dusk, being lit up by blasphemies and obscenities of every kind. Now all is peace and calmness here, and the play boys of other days are well on the road to become respected citizens. So I trust it will be in Dromod before very long. I grant the licence for Cloonturk Hall."

CORK CATTLE SEIZURES

ACTIONS AGAINST UNDER-SHERIFF

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

CORK, Thursday.

At Cork Circuit Court to-day, before Judge O'Donnell an action was mentioned in which Timothy J. Murphy, farmer, Aghabullogue, sues Charles T. Kennedy, County Under Sheriff, for £50 damages for alleged wrongful seizure of four cattle. The civil bill set out that a seizure for non-payment of annuities was made on the farm of Michael Twomey, Aghabullogue, and plaintiff's four cattle were among those taken, although the Sheriff's party were informed that the cattle were the plaintiff's property.

A claim for £300 damages by members of the Riordan family of Ballyspillane, Mokilly, Co. Cork, against the same defendant was also mentioned. In this case the civil bill alleged that the defendant and his agent demanded with menaces and threats £12 15s., and forced a payment of £7,, while in truth there was no such execution order against Michael Riordan.

The point raised by counsel was whether the jury to try these actions should be empannelled from the city or county list.

Judge O'Donnell said that he would give his decision in the morning.

BELFAST RIOT SEQUEL

SEVEN MEN SENTENCED

FROM OUR CORRESPONDENT.

BELFAST, Thursday.

There was a sequel at Whiteabbey Petty Sessions to-day to the riot at Greencastle, Belfast, on the 20th September, when George Clyde was fatally shot. Seven Whitehouse men were charged with riot before Messrs. J. M. Mark, R.M., and H. R. Jones, R.M.

The defendants were:—Robert Griffen, John O'Hara, Patrick Coiley, James Loughran—all of Low square; Charles McCann, Mary's place; Patrick Beattie, Garden square, and Francis O'Rourke, Main street.

The magistrates found the charge of riot proved in all the cases.

Griffen and O'Hara, whom they considered ringleaders, were sentenced to three months' imprisonment, with hard labour, and ordered to enter into bail.

McCann, Beattie, Coiley, O'Rourke and Loughran were sentenced to a month's imprisonment, with hard labour, and ordered to enter into bail.

CENTRAL CRIMINAL COURT

FALSIFICATION CHARGES

DUBLIN FIRM'S STOCK SHEETS

WOMAN AND SIX MEN BEFORE COURT

(BEFORE JUDGE SHANNON.)

THE hearing was continued for the fourth day of the case in which seven persons—six men and one woman—are charged with conspiring to defraud Messrs. Edward Lee and Co. by misrepresentation of the amount of stock in the furniture department of the branch at Dun Laoghaire, and with falsification of the stock sheets and returns of the firm.

There are thirty-five counts in the indictment, and the persons charged are:—Andrew Egan, Amiens street; Ernest Poland, Upper Mount street; Patrick J. Sheil, Upper Abbey street; Nathan Lepler, Raymond street, S.C.R.; Patrick J. Roddy, North Circular road; William Brereton, Upper Mountown, Dun Laoghaire, and Miss Sheila O'Dowd, Carysfort avenue, Dalkey.

They all pleaded not guilty.

Mr. Martin Maguire, K.C., with Mr. P. J. McEnery (instructed by the Chief State Solicitor), prosecuted. Mr. Basil McGuckin, K.C., with Mr. Gearoid O'Sullivan (instructed by Messrs. Little, O hUadhaidh, and Proud), appeared for Egan; Mr. Vincent Rice, K.C., with Mr. Felix Sherry (instructed by Mr. Marcus A. Lynch), appeared for Roddy; Mr. P. J. Roe, K.C. (instructed by Mr. John Shiel), appeared for Lepler; Mr. James Cawley (instructed by Mr. J. P. J. Smyth) appeared for Sheil; Mr. John Hooper (instructed by Mr. L. T. McCarthy) appeared for Poland and Miss O'Dowd; Mr. D. M. Corbett (also instructed by Mr. L. T. McCarthy) appeared for Brereton. Mr. E. S. Robinson (instructed by Messrs. Hayes and Son) held a watching brief for Messrs. Lee.

Daniel Carroll, charge hand of Messrs. Lee and Co.'s despatch department in Upper Abbey street, identified a number of invoices initialled by him as having been sent to the Dun Laoghaire branch in July, 1932. He said it was the practice to keep a duplicate book of the invoices at the head office.

In reply to Mr. McGuckin, witness said that he was in charge of the entire despatch office.

Mr. McGuckin then handed witness a document and asked whether it was an invoice sent out in respect of goods which had probably never been in Abbey street. Witness said that the goods concerned were entered from the manufacturer's invoice. Goods sent from Abbey street and goods sent direct from the manufacturer represented two different things.

Mr. McGuckin—This invoice is in respect of goods that were never, in fact, in the Abbey street premises?—Yes. These goods were sent direct from the manufacturer to Dun Laoghaire.

Judge Shannon—Your invoice was made out from the manufacturer's invoice sent to the head office?—Yes.

In further reply to Mr. McGuckin, witness said that he did not know why, on 8th July, seven separate invoices had been sent out in respect of goods, but there was nothing unusual in it.

In reply to Mr. Hooper, witness said that on some occasions goods were sent out without a price attached to them. They would have an invoice without the price marked. The goods in that case would be marked "invoice to follow."

THE STOCK

Charles Jackson, on taking his place in the witness box, was told by Judge Shannon that he need not answer any question which he thought might incriminate himself. The Judge added that he was not suggesting that any such questions would be likely to arise.

Witness said that he had been engaged by Egan in November, 1932, as charge hand in the furniture department of Messrs. Lee and Co. at Dun Laoghaire. In December, 1932, he examined the stock in the furniture department and thought there was a deficiency. He mentioned the matter to Egan, who said that witness had not seen all the stock, and that some of it was in the Avenue Hotel.

In reply to Judge Shannon, witness explained that the Avenue Hotel was over Messrs. Lee's establishment in Dun Laoghaire. It was not customary to keep stock there.

Continuing his evidence, witness said that in February, 1933, he was engaged with Poland in listing and preparing the stock for stock-taking, under the direction of Egan. The stock was valued at £2,373, and, when compared with the summary stock book, showed there was a shortage of stock to the amount of £825.

Witness said that he spoke to Egan about the shortage, and Egan said that it was unfortunate, that he had been robbed by assistants in the department, and that he would endeavour to make the stock right.

CURED AFTER 25 YEARS OF WEAK, NERVOUS STOMACH

Even when stomach trouble is the result of a low nervous condition and not of direct digestive weakness, it just has to yield to the magic curative properties of Maclean Brand Stomach Powder. Away in Montreal, 50-year-old Mrs. B. A. B. found the truth of this.

"Twenty-five years ago," she writes, "I had a severe nervous breakdown. It left me with a weak, nervous stomach and gastric trouble, and my life has been a misery. The least worry, excitement or exertion and I experienced a dreadful stomach attack. No doctor or hospital has been successful in treating me, as my trouble was largely due to nerves.

"A short time ago my sister wrote me from England—she knew how I suffered, and my husband being unemployed, she sent me the money to try your remedy.

"I had four or five bottles, and feel so different now. My stomach is stronger and not easily disturbed—and I eat things I never dreamed I could eat.

"I feel convinced that Maclean Brand Stomach Powder will lead to a permanent cure, and that is saying a lot in such a case as mine. . . .

"I would advise any similar sufferer to try at least three bottles of this powder regularly before despairing." Week after week you read of miraculous cures through Maclean Brand Stomach Powder, the one with the signature "ALEX. C. MACLEAN" on the bottle. Try it for your stomach trouble. You will soon be so thankful you did. 1/6, 2/3, 5/3 per bottle, powder or tablets.

Witness in further evidence said that before the preliminary stocktaking furniture arrived at the Dun Laoghaire branch from different manufacturers it remained in the department for some time and then portion of it was transferred to the Avenue Hotel and portion was sent back. It had been brought into the preliminary and official stocktaking sheets. There were no invoices for that furniture. Witness mentioned to Regan that it was peculiar, and Egan replied that it was done to fill up and make the stock correct.

Witness said that he spoke to Sheil in the middle of the year 1933 about hire purchase agreements, and Sheil told him that Egan had suggested putting through hire purchase agreements to make up the deficiency in stock. Witness asked Sheil what good that would be, and Sheil said he did not know.

Cross-examined by Mr. Sherry, witness said that he left Messrs. Lee and Company's employment ten months ago. The increase in salary which his new post brought him was about £200 a year. He was employed by the firm for whom he worked before he went to Lee's in Dun Laoghaire.

During his evidence witness was repeatedly asked by Judge Shannon to speak up, and on one occasion the Judge said: "You are only annoying me and the jurors. You are making no effort to oblige us."

In the course of further evidence witness said that in the year 1933 he drew the attention of Mr. Culleton (director) to the matter and in January, 1934, spoke to Mr. Edward Lee.

The cross-examination of Jackson had not concluded when the Court adjourned until this morning at 11 o'clock.

GOSSIP FROM THE COURSE

IRONGREY'S CANTER

Priddy Hill Proves a Good Stayer on a Heavy Course

FROM OUR TRAVELLING CORRESPONDENT.

WORCESTER, Thursday Night.

INCESSANT rain made the going at Worcester heavier than had obtained on any course for months. It became so bad towards the end of the afternoon that all the jockeys eschewed the position on the rails which is usually so keenly sought.

There was no event of any outstanding importance. The day may be said to have been chiefly noteworthy because of the fact that Gordon Richards rode his first winner of the week. He had to wait for the last event on the card for this. His mount was Irongrey in the Croombe Plate, for which there were only three runners, and odds of 10 to 1 had to be laid on Irongrey.

Fred. Templeman's charge won in a canter with his ears pricked. Neither of his rivals ever threatened danger. They were beaten a long way from home.

Although Irongrey is in the Cambridgeshire it is not certain that he will be started for the race. He may be saddled for another event at the same meeting.

It was with great relief that backers saw Priddy Hill come away from his rivals in the last furlong of the Kempsey Long Distance Handicap. Another result like those in the two previous races would have been disastrous. Priddy Hill was backed with the greatest confidence, starting at 9 to 4.

Half a Dozen Lengths

The going was so heavy that most of the candidates were very leg-weary a quarter of a mile from home. At that point Intervener, Priddy Hill, Golden Crown and De Reszke drew clear, Priddy Hill racing on to score handsomely by half a dozen lengths.

Look's victory in the Kinnersley Welter Handicap was very popular. He was ridden by K. Gethin, whose second win of the day it was, and his fourth of the meeting. Look was the best at the weights, although lucky to get an opening on the rails in the last three furlongs.

He came through in company with Hornsey Rise and Arcature. Gethin shook his whip at Look, who then produced the necessary speed. Athylwynn was running on strongly at the finish, although too late to reach the leaders.

A Churned-up Condition

Love Dream gelding was a strongly-backed candidate for the Riverside Nursery Handicap. The going was in such a churned-up condition that all the jockeys now spurned the usual coveted rail position as they came into the straight, and swung on a wide outside instead.

Tetaru filly was the leader below the distance, but could find nothing extra when tackled by Love Dream gelding, who had something in hand in beating the favourite, Clamella, by a couple of lengths.

Gordon Richards suffered a narrow defeat on Cher Prix in the Two-Year-Old Selling Plate. Cher Prix was very much fancied, although Star was slightly preferred in the market. The winner was Captivator, a 33 to 1 chance. Bookmakers thus had a "skinner."

Grecolass was well backed. She was amongst the leaders for four furlongs, and then dropped right out of the argument. K. Gethin rode a good finish on Captivator to beat the champion jockey by a head.

A Desperate Finish

There was another desperate finish in the other "seller," the Visitors' Handicap, and, much to the delight of layers, another unconsidered outsider won.

This was There She Goes, whose starting price was 25 to 1. Gordon Richards, on Danesford, never looked like winning. The colt, however, was favourite. Movanna, also, was much fancied, but dropped back in the last furlong.

Here My Kingdom went on, but he was passed by Trommelschall, who, in turn, was run out of it close home by There She Goes. The winner was retained for 200 guineas.

Selections

At Newbury to-morrow FAIR TRIAL should win the Ormonde Stakes, while PHILOSTRATE, who went well over the distance (seven furlongs) at Nottingham, may be good enough for the October Nursery; and THE BOASTER is my selection for the Beckhampton Handicap.

GALTEE MORE.

CURRAGH PROGRAMME

TEST OF STAMINA FOR TWO-YEAR-OLDS

Ballyvaughan Fancied for the Beresford Stakes

Trains—Kingsbridge, 11.45, 12.45.

THE Beresford Stakes is the chief race on the card for the opening day of the Second October Meeting at the Curragh, and it promises to be an interesting contest. The two years old will be subjected to a severe test over this mile, especially with the going, as it is nearly certain to be, on the soft side. Manifold, who made such a favourable impression on his only appearance on a racecourse, will be a strongly fancied candidate, and if he stays the full journey will take a lot of beating. Ballyvaughan is one that should not be troubled by the journey; for he was running on at the end of the seven furlongs race he won at Baldoyle. Doscobolos and Solo Whist are also likely to figure prominently in the finish. It is an open race, and may be the best to stand.

Tote Double on Third and Fifth Races.

The meeting of Irish Fun and Parisian in the Saorstat Plate should also be an attractive affair, but Irish Fun, who is about the best stayer in the country, should not be seriously troubled to win. Selections:—

A FAVOURITES' DAY

Lucky Fool's Fine Victory at Powerstown Park

THE season's racing at Powerstown Park had a fitting wind up yesterday, when, under ideal autumn conditions, a capital programme was submitted to patrons. A feature was the splendid performance of that fine steeplechaser, Lucky Fool, who, carrying top weight in the Anneville Steeplechase, made an example of the field, galloping in front all the way and jumping beautifully, he was never seriously troubled; Ballygreen and Nancy's Cottage, to each of whom he was conceding lumps of weight, were his nearest attendants passing the post, but neither ever looked like beating him.

A CLOSE FINISH

It was, on the whole, a good day for backers, five first favourites catching the Judge's eye, and their one reverse was over the Marlfield flat race, which provided as thrilling a finish as could be wished for. Five or six horses had their name called as the winner in the last furlong, and it was only in the very closing stage that Solford, well ridden by J. Moylan, came upon the scene, to oust the joint favourites, Yang Tse Kiang and Knockeyon, of the spoils. Moleskin Joe and Maybird were others that were prominent at the end of the race, and Lambeau ran well for a long way. Mr. D. P. O'Brien, who resides in Buttevant, Co. Cork, is the owner of Solford, and it was not out of turn that his colours were carried first past the post.

Another Buttevant owner, Mr. J. O'Brien, who is no relation of Solford's owner, won the Foxhunters' Plate with Brian o' Linn. It was a race confined to residents in Munster, but Bryan o' Linn is likely to win further races in better class company.

ANTIPAS IN A NEW ROLE

The only doubt about Antipas winning the Maiden Hurdle Race was on the score of his ability to jump the minor obstacles. As a matter of fact, he proved to be a flippant lepper, and the odds laid on him were readily landed. Roi Rita was saddled for the Maiden Steeplechase instead of the Rathronan Hurdle Race, in which she would have had to shoulder a penalty, and, jumping in fairly safe style, she outstayed Sicklebar and Sardis to win in comfortable fashion.

In Roi Rita's absence from the hurdle race, all was plain sailing for Delio Clancy, who was also penalised for winning at Limerick. This daughter of Sir Rowland out of Navan Lass evidently inherits her dam's stamina, and was not troubled by the severe test of this two miles and a quarter course.

FAIR TRIAL'S TEST

Terre de la Reine should Win Beckhampton Handicap

FAIR TRIAL, who, now that Bahram has been retired, is probably the best three-year-old in training, will be on view at Newbury to-day. He is to run in the valuable Ormonde Plate, in which he has 9st. 10lb. to carry.

As Fair Trial has to concede as much as 29lb. to some of his opponents, he will be well tested. He won the Select Stakes at Newmarket the last time out in a common canter in spite of the fact that he was meeting Almond Hill and The Blue Boy on much worse than weight-for-age terms. He also won easily over a mile at Salisbury and Ascot.

His only defeat was sustained in the Eclipse Stakes. In finishing a close third to Windsor Lad and Theft he was far from disgraced, considering that he had not fully recovered from a bout of coughing. He is at his best again and I fully expect him to win.

Joshua, who is in the Cambridgeshire, and Snaefell appear to represent the biggest dangers. Joshua did not reproduce his best home form when he failed to gain a place behind Pepino at Nottingham when favourite. Snaefell ran well when second to Blue Pencil at Newmarket a week ago. He has the beating of Powerful Prince on that form, and I think he will prove the chief danger to

FAIR TRIAL.

Flake, whom Sirett rides in the Beckhampton Plate, was handicapped for this race before she ran second to O'Grady at Newmarket recently, and she is well fancied to go one better. Samotrica has a lot of weight, though I hear that she has done particularly well since she won at Stockton.

The Boaster has a splendid record. Fretwell was not disgraced when she beat all except Guest of Honour at Lingfield last Saturday. She won in smart style on her previous appearance. Mahoonagh is likely to show considerable improvement on his Kempton running. My best news concerns who was third to Guest of Honour at Lingfield and now has a nice pull in the weights with Fretwell.

Beagle gelding is in such fine form that I am prepared to see him well backed for the October Nursery, despite his 7lb. penalty. Nasu, Cash (who is well treated on his best form), Tilack, Domino, Gordon Richards's mount, Saxham Cat gelding, and Philostrate, are others who cannot be ignored. I take my chance with who appears to be presented with a splendid chance of winning his first race.

But for the fact that his jockey had his whip knocked out of his hand, would have done a lot better in the Cesarewitch. I expect him to get better luck and win the Manton Handicap.

GREYNAM

SPORTING GOSSIP

Addition to J. Doyle's Team

Our Curragh correspondent states that Mr. E. Trainor's Hot Prince, a bay gelding, five years, by Hot Scent—Princess Leila, has arrived at J. Doyle's Rossmore Lodge establishment to be trained for jumping. Hot Prince, who is a half-brother to the recent addition, Anna's Pride, was placed three times in four outings last year, and early this season was performing with much promise over fences.

Grangemore to Rest

Captain H. Dixon's successful two-year-old filly, Grangemore, has been sent to her owner's stud-farm near Kilcullen to enjoy a well-deserved rest, states our Curragh correspondent. The daughter of Greek Bachelor won three valuable races this season, and was only once unplaced in six outings.

Important Liverpool Changes

Important changes have been made in two races for the Liverpool Autumn meeting, which is to take place on November 6, 7, 8 and 9. The distance of the Molyneux 'Chase in Friday's programme has been extended from 2 miles 550 yards to 2 miles 3 furlongs and 40 yards. A new jump has been introduced. The first obstacle on the old course was the big water jump. The increased distance allows of a good run up to the new jump, which will be preliminary to the water jump. The value of the prize money for the Croxteth Handicap, one of the features of Thursday's programme, has been increased from £400 to £1,000.

Mishap to Jockey

E. Taylor, who was thrown by the fall of his mount, Drakensburg, in the Cholmondeley Handicap Steeplechase at Sandown Park yesterday, injured a tendon in his leg. He will not be able to ride again for a few days. He was to have ridden Luminetta in the next race, the Pirbright Handicap Hurdle, F. Maxwell was substituted for him.

Not Giving Up Racing

Mrs. W. M. G. Singer states that the report that she would give up racing when her horses in training at Manton finish their careers is incorrect. She has no intention of giving up ownership.

London Betting

The card on the Cambridgeshire will be called over at the Victoria Club this evening at 6.30 p.m.

113 to 1 Tote Winner

Captivator, winner of the T.-Y.-O. Selling Plate at Worcester yesterday, paid on the tote £11 9s. 3d. for a 2s. stake, equivalent to odds of over 113 to 1 against.

To Encourage Apprentice Jockeys

The Stewards of the Jockey Club will submit proposals at the next meeting of the Jockey Club which are designed to encourage the increased employment of apprentice jockeys. It is proposed that apprentices shall be permitted to claim 5lb. allowance in all selling races and in handicap sweepstakes to which not more than 500 sovs. is added for the winner, and in handicap plates of the advertised value of not more than 500 sovs., except in races confined to apprentices. At present the limit in value is 200 sovs.

A Trial for the Derby

Epsom will have in 1937 a new race, which is intended to be a trial for the Derby. It will be run at the Spring Meeting and will be called the Blue Riband Trial Stakes. It is for three-year-olds only. It is designed to give owners of Derby candidates the chance to run their horses over one mile and 110 yards of the Derby course. There will be certain penalties and allowances. Geldings will be eligible. £1,000 will be added to the stake, which is of 30 sovs each, with forfeits.

NEWMARKET NOTES

C. Leader Busy with his Horses: Hints for To-aay

NEWMARKET, Thursday.

THE busiest trainer at Newmarket to-day was C. Leader. He gave Stratton Street and Orama a smart five furlongs spin. The former appears among the acceptances for the Richmond Nursery here next Thursday, for which he is favourably weighted. Orama figures well down in the weights for the Fordham Welter Handicap next Tuesday.

St. Magnus, who has benefited by his race here last week, impressed in a good seven furlongs spin with Castel St. Angelo, Flint Hill and Gynerium. He will make the best of the opposition gallop for the Dewhurst Plate. I liked the way Towton Moor travelled over a mile with Coronal. He should pick up a nursery over that distance.

H. Jelliss rode Bobsleigh, who, with Highlander, Dimak, Toscano and Thrapston, had a good mile and a quarter spin, Asbestos going with them the last five furlongs. I have never seen Bobsleigh move better. Quashed pleased in a good stripped mile and a half spin with Sedgemoor and Fairhaven.

B. Jarvis stripped the Cambridgeshire Stakes favourite, Pegasus, and sent him nine furlongs at a good pace with Nil Nisi and Limace. Pegasus moved well. Tiderace, with Myrrh III., had a good pace gallop over one mile.

Hogg gave Buckland (Lynch) and Fogbound a smart seven furlongs spin. Buckland has been unplaced in each of his four races this season, but the firm going during the summer months prevented his trainer getting him fit, and, with conditions underfoot to his liking, he may win the Houghton Handicap here next Wednesday.

J. Cannon gave Pharillon (Wells) a good stripped mile and a quarter spin, with Eddystone to assist him the first mile. Pharillon is due to take part in the Rutland Handicap here on Tuesday, and appears to hold a good winning chance.

In view of the above race, J. Jarvis gave Fast Castle a good stripped seven furlongs gallop with Springtime and Whiteplains. Bordeaux, who is to run at Stockton on Saturday, had a similar gallop with Light Tackle. Daytona had a good five furlongs spin with Blandonian and Bold Encounter.

Whitaker gave Chrysler II., Lobau and Laureat II. a good pace gallop over seven furlongs. Chrysler II. should give a forward display in the Newbury Autumn Handicap.

As a rule, Newmarket stables are not very well represented at Newbury, but there will be a good number of horses from here at to-morrow's fixture. Downsman, Lallah gelding, Cheer Up gelding, Yucango and are due to contest the Two-year-old Selling Plate. I select the last-named.

Straight Shot has to give weight to Noverton and in the Letcombe Selling Nursery. Glee should as nearly as possible win.

GLEE

Having won over the distance of the October Nursery, Nasu will have plenty of supporters. I prefer Cash to Murky Past, and Black Domino is well fancied. I shall give my vote to who has done well of late.

NASU (next best),

JOSHUA

performed well in a recent gallop, and I expect him to beat Roulette, Snaefell and Powerful Prince, and prove difficult to beat for the Ormonde Stakes.

I do not think that Jonker is harshly treated in the Beckhampton Handicap. He ran very well here in the Clare Handicap, and he should beat Arago. Baystar has made improvement of late, and may prove the danger to who will be running over his best distance.

Guiscard may not be thoroughly wound up for the Manton Plate, and I expect to prove our best. It was on this track in June that he gained his only success of the season.

ALCAZAR ALLOTTED TOP WEIGHT

MANCHESTER NOVEMBER HANDICAP

For the Manchester November Handicap, which attracted 69 entries, Alcazar is top-weight with 9st. 7lb. Apple Peel, winner of the Hwfa Williams Memorial Handicap and the Queen's Prize, is set a big task with 8st. 11lb. Many backers will be keenly interested in Free Fare. Two years ago he swerved and was beaten only half a length by Jean's Dream, when carrying 7st. 9lb. In last year's race he swerved again, and finished third to Pip Emma and Jesmond Dene, when carrying 8st. 2lb. He has been allotted 8st. 4lb. this year, and, as he won a good race this week at Wolverhampton, he is likely to be a fancied candidate again this year. The weights are:—

REVIEWER RUNS WELL AT SANDOWN

Reviewer, who was making his first appearance on an English racecourse, gave a promising display in the Cholmondeley Handicap Steeplechase at Sandown Park yesterday. He jumped cleverly throughout, and when he moved up to Aureate Earth at the turn for home appeared likely to win. That he weakened approaching the last fence may have been due to his not being fully wound up. It seems certain that he will win races for Mr. Benson.

Gordon Richards, who is only four winners from his "double century," won his 196th race of the season at Worcester yesterday on Irongrey in the Croome Plate. Irongrey, who started at odds of 10 to 1 on, was Richards's first winner this week. His last winner had been Lordling, in the Non-Stayers' Plate at Lingfield Park last Saturday. Since then he had struck an unlucky sequence of seventeen consecutive losers.

JOE CANTY TO RIDE SMOKELESS

PROBABLES FOR IRISH CAMBRIDGESHIRE

There is promise of a very interesting race for the Irish Cambridgeshire at the Curragh to-morrow. Smokeless will be the mount of Joe Canty, who rode her stable companion, Golden Rock, to victory in the Irish Cesarewitch, and it is understood that J. Dines will steer Corrib Lady. In addition to Smokeless, Mr. Ussher will saddle Cabinteely (J. Moylan) and Step Aside Lord (T. Whitehead). The English-trained Soldier is said to be a likely runner, but up to yesterday no stabling accommodation had been ordered for him locally. A lot of rain has fallen at the Curragh since Saturday, and the going, consequently, is heavy, and will be against the top weights. The English jockey, J. Marshall, who will be at the meeting, may have a mount in the race. Following are the probable starters and jockeys:—

SMOKELESS, b. f. by Prince Galahad—Smoke Lass (Mr. Jos. McGrath), 3, 9-9 (Ussher) ......Jos. Canty.

CHIRGWIN, b. c. by Trigo—Undaunted II. (Mr. W. Barnett), 3, 9-3 (Rogers) ......E. Gardner.

LOUSTIC, b. g. by Lustucru—Juverna (Mr. M. Flynn), 5, 8-13 (Ruttle) ......——

SPEAKEASY II., br. g. by Aquafortis—Nanette (Mr. E. Delany), 4, 8-12 (Owner) ......W. Barrett.

COUP DE ROI, br. c. by Winalot—Sky Royal (Sir Percy Loraine), 3, 8-11 (More O'Ferrall) ......T. Burns.

MADRIGAL, b. f. by Prince Galahad—Mandoline (Mr. E. R. Purdon), 3, 8-11 (Clarke) ......E. M. Quirke.

CABINTEELY, gr. c. by Son and Heir—Jestaway (Mr. Jos. McGrath), 3, 8-7 (Ussher) ......J. Moylan.

PORTUGAL, b. c. by Gay Crusader—Parsimony (Mr. H. J. Delaforce), 4, 8-6 (Warden) ......M. Wing.

STEP ASIDE LORD, ch. g. by Essexford—Step Aside Lady (Mrs. Croft), 6, 8-4 (Ussher) ......T. Whitehead.

MISS HONOR, ch. f. by Mr. Jinks—Bayora (Mrs. R. C. Dawson), 3, 8-3 (Wellesley) ......Peter Maher.

SILVERISSA, br. g. by Silvern—Sacharissa (Mr. E. S. Dowling), 5, 7-10 (Ruttle) ......——

KEYNOTE, br. f. by St. Donagh—Double Chord (Mr. H. Kennedy), 3, 7-7 (Wellesley) ......M. Curran.

CAREFUL PRINCE, b. g. by Flying Prince—Prudence IV. (Mrs. C. O'Neill), 5, 7-7 (Deegan) ......M. Nolan.

CHONI, gr. m. by Zanoni—March (Mr. C. A. Fox), 6, 7-5 (Owner) ......L. G. Fox.

CORRIB LADY, b. f. by Knight of the Garter—Pergola (Mrs. I. J. Costello), 3, 7-3 (Mangan) ......J. Dines.

ELLEN'S TOY, b. f. by Achtoi—Arnisdale (Mr. G. Hannon), 3, 7-0 (Redmond) ......James Doyle.

HUNTING

LIMERICK HARRIERS

The opening meet of the season of the Limerick Harriers took place yesterday. Hounds under the joint mastership of Mr. M. D. Shaw and Mr. A. McDonogh met at the Four Elms, where a large field assembled. They were quickly at work, and found a good hare at the back of Drombanor Creamery, which set a rare pace across country in the direction of Cahernorry, where she beat them. On the way back a good fox was disturbed in a hedge. The field was quickly on the move, and hunted him over a fine line of country as far as Ballinagarde, where he was lost. Hounds were soon on the trail of another hare, which was hunted in a circle to Friarstown, where she was killed.

LACROSSE

STRONG PIONEER SIDE SCORES HEAVILY

PIONEERS 15
ALEXANDRA COLLEGE 1

Pioneers opened their season with a match at Milltown yesterday against Alexandra College, and had an easy win by fifteen goals to one. The winners fielded a strong side, which included several internationals, and, while the College defence stood up to it well, their attack was weak and their stick work at fault.

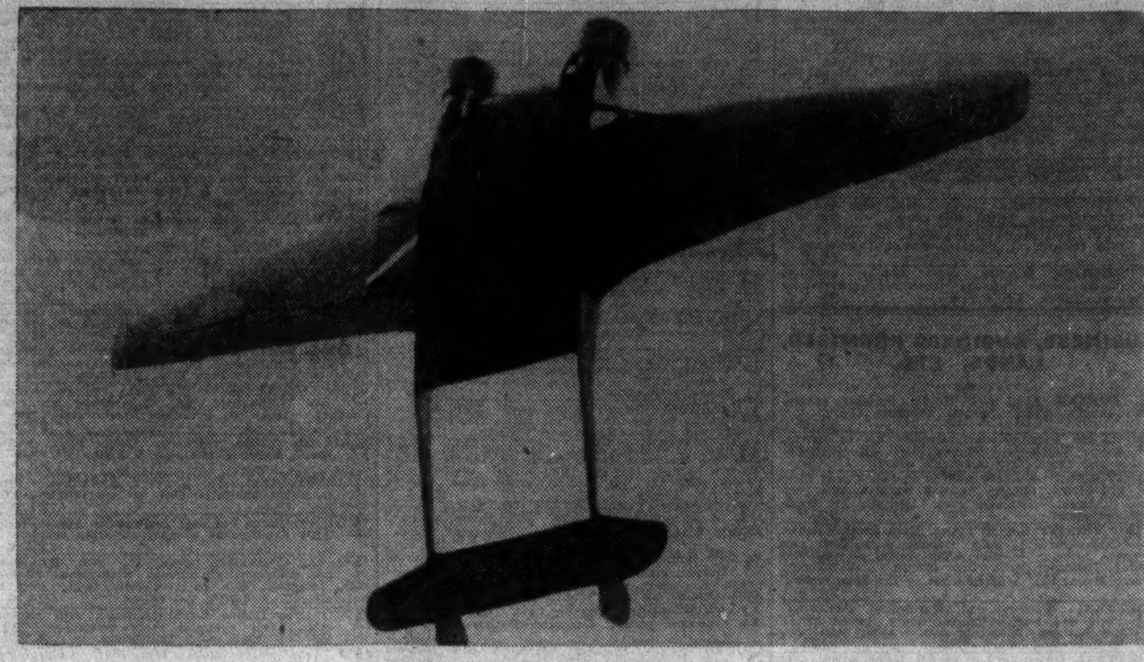

Pioneers attacked strongly at the outset, and Misses Leonard, Wilson and Dunlop scored in quick succession. Miss Browett showed fine form in goal for the College, but before the interval Misses Wilson and Leonard scored again. College did more attacking in the second half, and Miss B. Lombard scored for them, but Pioneers continued to find the net regularly, Misses Lombard and Darley scoring three goals each, and Misses Leonard and Wilson two each.

Pioneers—Misses L. McDonnell, R. Cox, P. Lefroy, D. Wix, R. Mayne, M. Leonard, S. Dunlop, J. Lombard, A. Darley, M. Wilson, B. Rutherfoord, L. Macaulay.

Alexandra College—Misses M. Browett, D. Robinson, M. Lombard, P. Hone, J. McGilligan, R. Barlee, C. Lewis-Crosby, B. Lombard, E. Mellon, H. Webster, G. Maddock, I. Adderley.

Empire—Miss Richards.

FOR ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIGHT

The Burnelli UB-14. This aircraft, which is described in the current issue of "Shell Aviation News," has been built for Mr. Clyde Pangborn, who will attempt to fly round the world non-stop, refuelling in the air at four or five points. The fuselage has been designed to provide a considerable portion of the lift, and flight tests have justified the claims put forward by the manufacturers as to the efficiency of this principle. Two Pratt and Whitney Hornet engines are fitted. Normal accommodation is provided for fourteen passengers in the cabin, from which the visibility is extremely good. Baggage compartments are provided in the wings. The retractable landing gear is hydraulically operated.

BADMINTON.

THE NORTHERN JUBILEE

Teams for Important Meeting in Belfast

BY OUR SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT.

PREPARATION for the Northern Branch celebrations are proceeding at a great pace. The teams for the great international match between England and The Rest were announced in the Irish Times last Friday, and are as follows:—

England—D. C. Hume, R. C. F. Nichols, R. M. White, L. Nichols, A. Titherley, C. H. Whittaker, Mrs. Uber, Miss T. Kingsbury, Mrs. Henderson.

The Rest—J. L. Rankin, T. H Boyle, I. C. Maconachie (Ireland), K. R. Davidson, R. W. Wilson, M. Maclean (Scotland), Miss Stewart (Scotland), Mrs. Myers (Wales), Mrs. MacNaughton (Ireland).

As all the best players in the world will be present at Sans Souci for the Invitation Tournament, no reserves have been selected for The Rest team, but, of course, any defections can at once be made good. In the case of the English side, the following reserves have been selected:—T. P. Dick, S. Jackson, H. E. Baldwin, Miss Doveton, Mrs. Horsley.

The international match will be played on Friday, November 8, at the Sans Souci Badminton Hall, Belfast. All those selected for The Rest are expected to turn out, but, as regards the English team, I hear that L. C. Nichols is not a likely starter, as he is very busy at present. His brother, R. C. F. Nichols, the former English singles champion, hopes to turn out, but he is not yet certain that he can do so. In any event, the teams will be very powerful ones, though, of course, the absence of the great Irish player, Willoughby Hamilton, will militate against the chance of victory for The Rest. Hamilton has recently had an operation, but, happily, he is now well on the road to recovery.

AN IMPOSING LIST

The Invitation Tournament will also be played at Sans Souci on November 8 and 9, and the list of players invited to take part in it is as follows:—

Men.—England—T. P. Dick, D C. Hume, S. Jackson, L. C. Nichols, R. C. F. Nichols, A. Titherley, R. M. White, H. E. Baldwin. Scotland—H. Crombie, K. R. Davidson, J. J. McCarry, M. Maclean, E. W. Wilson. Denmark—Alex Hansen. Ireland—I. C. Maconachie, J. W McGarry, T. Orr, J. L. Rankin, T. H. Boyle.

Women.—England — Miss Doveton, Mrs. Henderson, Mrs. Horsley, Miss Kingsbury, Miss Speaight, Mrs. Teague, Mrs. Traget, Mrs. Uber. Wales—Mrs. Myers. Denmark—Miss Fredericksen. Ireland—Miss Colpoys, Mrs. MacNaughton, Miss Stoker, Mrs. Swann, Miss Wilson. Scotland — Miss Duncan, Miss Stewart.

This invitation tournament is the first thing of its kind that has been attempted outside London, where the Logan Club, which in badminton occupies a position akin to that of the M.C.C. in cricket or the All-England Club in lawn tennis, has held several on the same lines. Only those invited are eligible to compete, and, as will be observed, every one is an international player, which puts the tournament on a higher level than any ever held before.

DANISH STARS

It will be noted that five countries will be represented, the two leading players of the Continent having been invited. These are the Danish pair, Alex Hansen and Miss Fredericksen. They are both reputed to be very good, and it will be interesting to see how they fare against the pick of the home countries.

It is hardly necessary to point out that in a tournament of this kind every match from the first to the last should produce a first class exhibition, as every competitor is in the first flight. This is very different from the ordinary open tournament, in which the early rounds give the star performers an opportunity of tuning up for the stern tests which come later.

The Council of the Badminton Association of Ireland had its annual meeting for the confirmation of dates last Friday, when interesting arrangements were made. The opening event is, of course, the tournament and international match in connection with the Northern Branch Jubilee on November 8 and 9. With reference to this, it may be mentioned that the Ulster close championships, which are usually held in Belfast during November, will not take place this season.

CHAMPIONSHIP DATES

The Belfast open championship meeting will be held on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, November 28, 29 and 30. The Irish close championship tournament will take place at Elm Park, Dublin, in the week ending December 14. The Ulster open championship tournament will be held in Belfast from January 23 to January 27. The all-Ireland championships will run from February 6 to February 8, and on the following Friday the international match between Ireland and England will be played. This meeting will, of course, be held at the Irish headquarters at Elm Park, Dublin.

It has not yet been possible to fix the exact date of the Midland Branch tournament, but it will be held, as far as can be seen, in the second half of March, at Elm Park. The international match between Ireland and Wales will be played in Belfast during the Ulster open championship meeting on January 24. The international match between Scotland and Ireland will be played at Glasgow during the Scottish open championship tournament on January 16.

CLOSE FINISHES AT HAROLD'S CROSS

There were several exciting finishes witnessed last night at Harold's Cross Park, where backers experienced a lean time. Cratloe Moyle, showing excellent pace in the closing stages, won the Leinster Plate by a head from Mr. Gooch, who had led for most of the way. Ryland's Pride atoned for a recent failure by winning the Munster Plate after Clodiagh Creme had flattered to the last bend, and Never Nustyle took the Metropolitan Hurdle by a short head from Yellow Ford. Brilliant Rattler, the favourite, fell at the third obstacle.

THE ALL BLACKS' TEAM TO MEET CARDIFF

The All Blacks' list of injured players now stands at six. The men concerned are J. R. Page, D. Dalton, C. Pepper, J. Best, J. G. Wynyard and H. F. McLean. It is hoped that McLean, who has been receiving treatment for shoulder trouble, will be fit for to-morrow's match with Cardiff. Page and Dalton, who have been out of action since the second match of the tour, have recently resumed light training, but it is still not known when they will be ready to play again. Pepper, Best and Wynyard are expected to be fit again shortly. Wynyard hurt his arm at Llanelly on Tuesday.

In the All Blacks' team to meet Cardiff to-morrow Hart's place at three-quarter will be filled by Ball; while among the forwards, Hore, Vorrath and Wynyard drop out for Adkins, Reid and McLean. The team will be:—G. Gilbert; N. J. Ball, C. J. Oliver, N. A. Mitchell, T. H. C. Caughey, J. L. Griffiths, B. S. Sadler; G. D. Adkins, W. E. Hadley, A. Lambourn, S. Reid, R. R. King, J. E. Manchester (captain), A. Mahoney and H. F. McLean.

CHANGE IN MUNSTER TEAM

D. McDonnell (Young Munsters) has declared off the Munster team to play Connaught at Galway to-morrow. His place at scrum-half will be taken by R. F. O'Driscoll (Sunday's Well), who played in last season's interprovincials.

FIXTURES WANTED

Lansdowne require fixtures for 3rd A or 3rd B XV. on November 2nd, 16th, 23rd, 30th (away), and November 9th (home). Reply to E. Carthew, 2 Sloan terrace, Meath road, Bray.

SWIMMING

WORLD RECORD CLAIMED

BERLIN, Thursday.

A new world record for 100 metres backstroke is claimed by Adolf Kiefer, a member of the American team touring Germany. His time of 1 min. 6 2-10 secs. was checked by five judges, and as the pool was of regulation length it is believed that his record will be recognised. Kiefer had already broken his previous record of 1 min. 7 5-10 secs. at Hamburg a few days ago, but his time there could not be recognised as the event was a handicap race.

WATER POLO

CLONTARF'S BID FOR THE CUP

SEMI-FINAL TIE TO BE PLAYED TO-NIGHT

The Water Polo Club Championship was instituted in 1920, since when it has been won by Dublin University (jointly) in 1920; Pembroke in 1921, Dublin in 1925 and 1927, and Sandycove in 1929. The remaining Leinster Senior side, Clontarf, is this year making a strong bid to add its name to this list, and the victory over Pembroke, who were Leinster favourites, shows that they are a strong side.

In the semi-final to-night at Tara Street Baths, at 9 o'clock, Clontarf meet Dolphin (Cork), and, although Munster clubs have only of recent years taken part in the championship, Dolphin has proved itself one of the strongest of the Southern clubs, and has previously reached the semi-final. Clontarf once before reached the Irish final, when, in 1924, they were defeated by Clonard, in Dublin, by 7-0.

To-morrow, at 9 p.m., the winners of to-night's tie will meet Clonard (Ulster), the holders, whose record in this competition it will be difficult to equal. Entering senior water polo in 1924, they succeeded in winning the Cup, and since then they have appeared in the final each year, winning the Cup in 1924, 1926, 1928, 1930, 1931, 1932, 1933 and 1934, eight times in all. The team will be captained by P. McClure, who has skippered the team in each of its victories.

ASSOCIATION FOOTBALL

CORK CLUB CENSURED

At a meeting of the Free State League last night a request by the Central Amateur League (Leicester) for a match next March was refused.

Arising out of the referee's report on the Cork v. Drumcondra Shield match, the Cork Club was censured for the conduct of its spectators and ordered to place warning notices on their ground.

The referee's report of the Bray Unknowns v. Cork match of last Sunday was referred to the Free State F.A.

PLAYERS SIGNED

J. Bermingham, who assisted Dolphin last season, has been re-signed by that club. P. Scully, the ex-Bohemian forward, has signed for Shamrock Rovers.

SWEEPING CHANGES IN SCOTTISH LEAGUE XI.

The Scottish League team to play the English League team at Ibrox Park, Glasgow, on Wednesday next is:—

There are seven changes from the team which narrowly defeated the Irish League at Belfast on Wednesday. An entirely new forward line has been picked, to the omission of Crawford, Buchan, Armstrong, Harrison and Mooney, while Cummings and Paterson have been dropped from the defence, their places being given to Shaw and Brown.

DEATH OF CHELSEA'S CHAIRMAN

Mr. Claude Kirby, the Chelsea Club Chairman, who had been lying ill for several weeks, died yesterday. He was 67 years of age.

By the death of Mr. Kirby, the Chelsea Club has suffered two great losses within a few weeks. At the end of September the death occurred of Mr. Joseph T. Mears, the Vice-Chairman and owner of the Stamford Bridge ground. Mr. Kirby sponsored the beginning of the Chelsea Club, and since 1905-'06 had been its only Chairman.

In his younger days he was a personality on the athletic track, played hockey, lawn tennis and football. He covered all the distances from the sprint to the mile, and his prizes as an athlete numbered over 100.

BOXING

J. FORDE STAGES A "COME-BACK"

OPENING BOUTS FOR THE LEINSTER TITLES

The Leinster Championships commenced at Portobello Barracks last night, the preliminary rounds being completed. One of the most interesting features of a long programme was the reappearance, after a lapse of some years, of J. Forde, the former National middle-weight champion. He gave a most useful display, too, against his opponent in the first series, P. O'Loughlin, of Avona, whose gameness alone kept him on his feet for nearly three rounds. Forde's short uppercuts were particularly effective, and he seemed to be very fit.

J. Roch, holder of the feather-weight title, had a quick victory over R. Bowman, of Chapelizod, whom he knocked out towards the close of the second round. As usual, there was plenty of energy expended, but not so much boxing skill shown, but there are some very keen contests down for decision this evening. Results:—

FLY-WEIGHT (SEMI-FINALS).

J. Hughes (Corinthians) beat F. Byrne (Phœnix), retired in 2nd round; J. Saunders (Arbour Hill) beat J. Dunne (Avona), on points.

FEATHER-WEIGHT (1st SERIES).

J. Rock (St. Andrew's) k.o P. Bowman (Chapelizod) in 2nd round; T. Mullins (Arbour Hill) beat B. Byrne (Avona) on points.

LIGHT-WEIGHT (1st SERIES).

R. Wallace (Avona) beat J. O'Callaghan (Chapelizod) on points; J. McNally (Corinthian) beat J. Doherty (Phœnix) on points.

WELTER-WEIGHT (1st SERIES).

L. Sweeney (Avona) beat T. Saddlier (Corinthians) on points; M. Holden (Rapparee) w.o. J. Hayes (Rapparee).

Semi-final.

Private J. Moore (Collins) beat A. O'Neill (Garda). Referee stopped fight in 3rd round.

MIDDLE-WEIGHT (1st SERIES).

C. O'Connor (Avona) beat M. Breen (Chapelizod) on points; J. Forde (Garda) beat P. O'Loughlin (Avona), referee stopping fight in 3rd round. J. Bourke (Avona) beat Pte. J. O'Carroll (Collins) on points.

CRUISER-WEIGHT (SEMI-FINAL).

J. Gaffney (Garda) beat J. O'Shea (Corinthians) on points.

GEORGE KELLY LOSES ON POINTS

COLOURED BOXER WINS IN BELFAST

George Kelly (Dublin), the Irish light-weight champion, met Sam Thompson (Lisburn) over eight 3-minute rounds in the Ulster Hall, Belfast, last night, where the principal contest was a twelve-rounder between Spike Robson (Belfast) and Jackie Wilson (Pittsburg), a coloured boxer with a good reputation in the United States.

Kelly opened his fight with a right to Thompson's jaw, and later got home with lefts to the body, but when they went to close quarters Thompson had an advantage. Kelly's swings were not landing as often as he wished, but when he did connect Thompson knew it. The third round provided a fierce battle, Kelly hitting hard with both hands to the body, and in the fourth the Dublin man nearly had his opponent out with a right cross, which, however, just failed to connect properly. Thompson shook Kelly with a left to the body at the start of the fifth round, but Kelly retaliated with two snappy uppercuts, and whipped across a right to the face which staggered the Lisburn boy. Thompson forced Kelly into a neutral corner in the sixth round, and punched hard. It was a gruelling contest, and while Kelly fought well, the decision went to his opponent on points.

Jim Warnock, although giving away nearly a stone to Jackie Quinn, was in much better condition, and won well on points, though Quinn put in a great finish. The contest was over six rounds, and Quinn came in as a substitute at the last minute for Tiny Bostock, of Hanley.

NEGRO'S SUCCESS

Spike Robson made a sluggish start against Wilson, who was far too fast for his opponent, and jabbed his left into Robson's face at will, alternating with rights to the body. In the third round he had Robson almost out on his feet with a left hook to the jaw, and as the Belfast man lay helpless against the ropes Wilson flashed his right to the jaw and finished him off.

Pat Marrinan (Belfast), in his first professional fight in his own town, beat Saled El Din, the Egyptian heavy-weight, in two rounds, the Egyptian failing to come up at the third round, stating he had a damaged hand.

BROWN AND PARDOE AGAIN MATCHED

Jackie Brown (Manchester), the ex-British fly-weight champion, and Tom Pardoe (Birmingham), the Southern area fly-weight champion, have been matched to meet at Birmingham on November 4. They were to have met on October 14, but Pardoe had to withdraw some days beforehand owing to an attack of tonsilitis. The coming match will be at 8st. 4lb., and there will be a £50 weight forfeit.

At the end of the first round Mrs. Walker led by a hole, but Miss Anderson played brilliant golf over the last 18 holes.

TAIL-WAGGERS' CLUB DANCE

A SUCCESSFUL FUNCTION

In the Aberdeen Hall of the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, last night a most successful dance was held in aid of the Irish Animals' Protection League Dispensary by members of the Tail-Waggers' Club of Ireland. At midnight the Lord Mayor of Dublin drew for the winning tickets in a raffle for two puppies—a Scotch terrier, presented by Mrs. Coubrough, and an Irish blue terrier, presented by Mr. and Mrs. Fottrell.

Mrs. Coubrough wore a handsome black velvet gown, with a coatee to match; while Mrs. Mooney's attractive dress was of red floral patterned satin. Mrs. Baker chose duck-egg blue velvet, trimmed with gold lamé, and Mrs. L. Werner wore a picture frock of ivory faille. Miss Gaisford was dressed in white satin, while Miss Castello wore turquoise blue taffeta, and Miss Tabuteau had a dress of moss green satin. Miss Owens chose a blue moiré dress, while Miss J. Gay was also wearing blue. Miss A. Watson was in a gold lamé and blue crepe ensemble. A black toilette was worn by Mrs. Linzell. Miss S. Morgan's black dress was worn with a collar of silver lamé, and chocolate brown cloque was worn by Mademoiselle Rossignal. Miss Daly chose blue taffeta, Miss Marmion pink silk and net; while Mrs. Garland wore blue satin and net. Sapphire blue velvet was worn by Miss Turtle, and Miss Jauncey was another who chose blue. Mrs. Ritchie was attired in a navy ensemble. Mrs. S. Kavanagh looked well in white crepe, and Mrs. E. Attwooll was in a graceful white satin dress.

Also present were Mr. R. A. Owen (chairman), Miss M. Baker, Mrs. E. Betson, Miss J. Blakeney, Mrs. A. M. Conroy, Miss D. Corcoran, Mrs. L. Crabbe, Miss D. M. Fagan, Miss E Hafner, Mrs. M. MUSICAL ART SOCIETY

INAUGURAL CONCERT IN DUBLIN

The newly-formed Musical Art Society had a splendid send-off last night, when they gave their inaugural concert of the season in the Abbey Lecture Hall, Lower Abbey street, Dublin, to a large audience. This latest addition to the musical life of the city, which has developed from the old Harding Orchestra, consists of about sixty instrumentalists, under the direction of Signor Ferruccio Grossi.

Having safely and confidently carried his band of players through the intricacies of the "Overture to Anacreon," by Cherubini, Signor Grossi struck a new note in presenting the Mozart "Concertante Symphony." It is loosely styled the "Double Concerto," but is scored for solo violin, solo viola, two oboes, two horns and strings, and soloists and orchestra participate throughout in the general development. It was a real gratification to find two such accomplished young players as Miss Posy Shreider (violin) and Miss Eileen Woods (viola), carrying the solo string parts with such distinction. There was also heard in Dublin for the first time a Prelude by Guglielmi, the manuscript of which is still in print. It is scored for strings and harps, the latter part being substituted by the piano. A short piece, it is built on a number of delightfully appealing melodies, and these were brought out very delicately and in lovely singing tone on the strings, whilst Miss Eileen Buckley worked in the harp effect admirably on the piano. Another piece for strings, and one of the most pleasing of the night, was the Prelude in F major by Reinecke.

"The Dance of the Apprentices," from Wagner's "Meistersingers," gave opportunity for the wind and percussion players to show their paces, and the playing was very effective, though a little overpowering in such a crowded space. Also in the orchestral programme were Bohm's "Moto Perpetuo," and the finale of the Haydn Quartet in D, as well as Signor Grossi's skilled arrangement of Irish melodies in an Irish Rhapsody, entitled "Banba."

The vocalist of the evening was Miss Dorothy Griffith, who sang two groups of songs. She sang "Die Junge Nonne" with splendid feeling, and then followed with another Schubert "Auf dem Wasser zu singen" in a lighter vein. Wolf's "Elfenlied" saw her in yet another and more mischievous mood, which changed yet again in the exacting "Zueignung" of Strauss. Here was a group calling for all the arts of song interpretation, and in meeting the requirements, Miss Griffith proved herself an accomplished singer. Later in the evening she was heard in an equally trying group, among which one liked best her treatment of the Delius song, "In the Garden of the Seraglio," and Harty's "Come, O Come, My Life's Delight," with, of course, the little song of "The Leprechaun," by Hughes. The accompaniments were played as they should be by Miss Eileen Buckley.

GARDEN, FARM, BEES, ETC.

INDOOR GARDENING.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Garden Correspondent says:—

Give chrysanthemums a little fire heat to dispel damp, which is one of their worst enemies. If mildew makes its appearance, dust the foliage with sulphur. Arum lilies for early flowering should from now onwards be fed with liquid manure. In case of frost, which may be expected at any moment, remove from the frames into warmer quarters, cinerarias, calceolarias, primulas, etc. Insects are likely to be troublesome to plants that have been brought into the houses for winter, and must be controlled by fumigation, if necessary. Bring forward weekly batches of early flowering bulbs, to ensure a succession of bloom from Christmas onwards. If pot roses are grown, prune a few now, and bring them into a gentle heat to give them a good start.

FINISHING THE BIRDS.

Writing on this subject in the Weekly Irish Times, the Poultry Correspondent says:—

The interval between this and the time of marketing should be utilised in properly finishing the birds, so that they will command top prices when despatched. It is well to note here that at present the popular demand is for the smaller, plump, tender birds, in preference to the heavier, more meaty types that were the general thing a few years ago. This is very important, because it means probably the definite passing of the very large American bronze turkeys, which are beyond the purse and needs of the modern family, who prefer something more economical, more tender and tasty. Big, unwieldy, bony birds have no longer any place in the housewives' affections, and, moreover, some purchasers have stated that they intend to cut the price for birds over 20lb. weight.

CITY RELIEF WORKS

At the meeting of the Dublin Port and Docks Board yesterday—Mr. T. F. Laurie, Chairman, presiding—the Lord Mayor of Dublin (Alderman A. Byrne) and Senator Healy raised a question as to how much money the Board proposed to spend on relief works this year.

The Chairman said that the Board had not fixed any sum of money, but had several schemes in preparation, and the Engineer had been asked to report upon them as a whole. They would then go to the Government and the Inter-Departmental Committee on Public Works and ask them how far they were prepared to go, and the Board would go as far as it could.

TEACHER CHARGED WITH ASSAULTING PUPIL

"I gave him punishment which I considered he deserved, and which, as principal, I am entitled to do. I did not hit the boy with my clenched fist."

The boy was brought into Court partly undressed for the purpose of showing marks of the alleged assault on his face and body.
